30,000 MARCH ON RIO; DEMAND RULE BY VARGAS

Brazil Rebels Back Fighting Leader.

[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Oct. 27.—Proclaiming Dr. Getulio Vargas, defeated presidential Liberal candidate last February, as president of Brazil, 30,000 revolutionary gaucho troops from the plains of the south, composed of infantry, cavalry, and artillery, today were advancing in a victorious march on Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro.

In the meantime a counter revolt was attempted in Rio de Janeiro against the army junta in control until the arrival of Dr. Vargas. It was suppressed with fire and steel after two hours' fighting, which resulted in over 100 casualties.

At the same time the first contact occurred in the federal capital between the junta and the southern rebels when Dr. Oswaldo Aranha, youthful acting civil head of the state of Rio Grande do Sul, was received by Gen. Tasso Fragoso. He had flown up from Porto Alegre and conferred with the Rio triumvirate for 20 minutes. Tomorrow will be held the first conference on the formation of the new government of the republic.

Victor's Vanguard Arrives.

The vanguard of Dr. Vargas' troops, 1,200 strong, reached Sao Paulo at noon today and were distributed about the city's barracks. More arrived tonight headed by Gen. Flores da Cunha and Gen. Goes Monteiro, gaucho chief staff officer. Eighty officers are quartered in Sao Paulo's main hotel, the Esplanada, and reservations have been made for other leading officers who will arrive tomorrow. It is reported that 45 troop trains have been commandeered by Dr. Vargas to bring up his forces.

Sao Paulo will not be the only town to be occupied by the southern troops. Orders to find quarters and provisions for troops at Santos on the coast and at Cruzeiro, the railroad junction on the way to Rio, have been sent to Dr. Francisco Morato, a Liberal who was named president of the state of Sao Paulo today.

Expect New Boss Today.

Dr. Vargas lunched at Itarare today, 12 hours down the railroad from Sao Paulo. He is expected here tomorrow and will continue on to Rio the next day in a special blue train which is being prepared for him here.

There have been no instances of resistance here and, as I write, turmoil and shouting is coming up from the streets as the troops arrive. They are being cheered by the crowds around the Carocambana station. An official welcome is being prepared for Dr. Vargas.

A dramatic aspect of the arrival of Dr. Vargas is the presence in the same town of the man he started an armed revolt to overthrow, Dr. Julio Prestes, who was to have been president on Nov. 15 and who is charged with cheating at the polls. Dr. Prestes, now thought a fugitive, is in hiding at the residence of the British consul, which is being strongly guarded by gaucho troops.

Vargas Intentions Clear.

All doubts about Dr. Vargas' intentions of immediately taking over the presidency of Brazil were cleared up this morning when proclamations were circulated through Sao Paulo and Rio de Janiero from his chief of staff, Gen. Goes Monteiro. This proclamation, sent from the gaucho headquarters at Ponta Grossa, announced that the gaucho troops, who in Italy would correspond to a blackshirt militia, would make a victorious march to Rio, occupying Sao Paulo and the capital, thus terminating the first phase of Brazil's revolutionary movement.

"The government headed by Dr. Vargas will direct the republic of Brazil without any promises and in accordance with the program of the Liberal alliance. The duration of Dr. Vargas' government, which will be as constitutional as possible," says the proclamation, "will be for an undetermined period, until the public life of Brazil has been reconstructed."

This move of Dr. Vargas immediately to take control follows a week-end of doubt as to what his plans were. When junta leaders in Rio, who had apparently gone too far in proclaiming the revolutionary program last Saturday, sent a wireless to Dr. Vargas offering him the presidency of the junta, Dr. Vargas' reply was that the junta was a subsidiary part of his

Extortioners' Letter Posted Here.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Galva, Ill., Oct. 27.—Special.]—The family of Earl L. Yocum, 50 year old bank president who was kidnaped at the gateway of his estate Saturday night, have agreed to pay a ransom, reported to be $50,000, to the gang of abductors. The payment will be accompanied by a guarantee that no attempt will be made to trace the kidnapers nor to prosecute them in any manner.

"This is my own affair" said Mrs. Mae Yocum, wife of the banker, in an interview today. "It concerns only me and my children. I do not wish the help of any authorities. I know my husband is safe and will remain so if the instructions are carried out."

As a result the posses which had been hunting in the surrounding territory were called in. The sheriff, state's attorney, and chief of police expressed a lack of interest in the case. And the townspeople, stirred for two days over the disappearance of their richest citizen, said to each other:

"He'll be back in a day or two. That St. Louis gang has put over another one."

Blame St. Louis Gang.

The conclusion among officials was that Yocum was kidnaped by the same gang which successfully collected ransom for two Peoria gamblers and a Des Moines, Ia., cigar store owner at Galesburg.

Yocum is reported to be worth at least two millions. He has extensive land holdings in Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa, and his bank is said to be one of the strongest institutions for its size in the state. Mrs. Yocum indicated that $50,000 was a small sum to pay for the safe return of her husband.

Two special delivery letters, both written by the banker, have been delivered to the Yocum home. One was received about midnight Sunday and the second was delivered at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The first letter, according to Mrs. Yocum, contained her husband's assurances that he was safe and unharmed. It was mailed in Chicago. The second issued instructions concerning the payment of the ransom and specified the sum. Both were in the banker's handwriting and signed by him, Mrs. Yocum said, and were undoubtedly genuine. The second letter had been posited in Kewanee, which is 12 miles from here.

Bank Cashier Visits Chicago.

Andrew E. Anderson, cashier of the Yocum bank, paid a hurried visit to Chicago in the morning. He left on a 4 o'clock train, spent an hour and a half in the city, and returned this afternoon. He is said to have conferred with his employer's Chicago representatives concerning raising the needed cash.

When Mrs. Yocum was interviewed toda, she was pale but composed. She was not worried, she declared, because her husband had informed her that he was being treated well.

"I am not going to take the slightest chance that any harm may come to him," she said.

"No one is going to know who is conducting the negotiations," she continued. "When the affair is settled, how it is done and all other circumstances surrounding it will remain a secret. Mr. Yocum, when he returns, will not talk, either. This is agreed upon for the safety of all concerned."

Two Children in Family.

The Yocums have two daughters, Mary, 13 years old, and Ann, 8 years old. Mrs. Yocum would not say whether any threats had been directed against the children in the event that the payment of ransom was refused.

Mrs. Yocum revealed the exact circumstances of the kidnaping. Her husband and she ate dinner with the children, she said, and the banker then drove the two daughters to a moving picture theater.

The Yocum residence is situated in the center of a ten acre estate. Mrs. Yocum said she heard her husband drive up the long drive and park the automobile near the door. She opened the door, she said, and then went back to her reading, leaving the door ajar. She heard a man's voice inquiring.

"Could you direct me to Mr. ——'s place?" She failed to catch the name used by the inquirer, she said. Then she heard her husband reply, "Certainly, it is right over here. I'll point it out to you."

Yocum was apparently seized at the

King Boris and Bride Caught in Storm at Sea

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The Bulgarian royal yacht Czar Ferdinand, bringing home King Boris and Queen Giovanna of Bulgaria after their marriage last week at Assisi, has been caught in a great storm in the Mediterranean and officials here tonight were unable to communicate with the yacht. The government has telegraphed for news to the port of Piraeus, Greece.

Previously messages had been received from Greece saying that a storm in the eastern Mediterranean had greatly delayed the royal yacht, which has passed through the Canal of Corinth with great difficulty.

Location Is Unknown.

Then it was reported the yacht had taken refuge near shore. Its situation since then is unknown. The yacht set sail from Brindisi, Italy, yesterday with its royal passengers.

Minister of Agriculture Vassileff said the couple had been expected to arrive at the Black sea port of Varna Wednesday and in Sofia on Thursday, when the Bulgarian ceremony would take place in the cathedral. Delay in arrival of the royal yacht would upset the government's carefully laid plans.

No Religious Row.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 27.—Although the exact nature of the Orthodox ceremony to be administered to King Boris and Queen Giovanna will not be officially announced until after the special synodical meeting tomorrow, it is learned that it will only be a blessing confirming the Roman Catholic rite at Assisi.

A government official today announced the Bulgarian law recognizes any Christian marriage as valid. Furthermore the Orthodox Catholic church, being very close to the Roman Catholic, will not insist on a complete remarriage.

CALLS ON ITALY TO ARM; SAYS FOES PLAN WAR

Duce Labels Europe as "Hypocrite."

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, Italy, Oct. 27.—Premier Mussolini today unloosed new thunders on the anxious ears of Europe, which are still reverberating with his sulphurous discourses of last May.

Before the moguls of Fascism, assembled on the eve of the celebration of the eighth anniversary of the black shirt march on Rome, Il Duce affirmed that he meant what he said before and that developments since have proved he was right, and then went on to say some more.

He said that Fascist Italy is surrounded by enemies, that a state of "moral warfare" already has been declared against it in preparation for military war.

Calls Peace Talk Hypocritical.

He quoted chapter and verse to show what Italy's neighbors are doing along its frontiers. He said that Fascist Italy is arming because others are arming, and would disarm if the others would disarm.

In its manner as well as content this speech was lustier than any of his speeches that has gone before.

Black shirt chieftains gasped when he pulled forth a book and waved it and announced that therein was a day by day list of the forts, gun emplacements, and general warlike activity along the Italian frontier—which could be none other than French.

Says Europe Is on Skids.

He blurted out the conviction that old Europe was on the skids and that 1950 would see it definitely wrinkled and descript, while prolific, Fascist Italy was in the early bloom of youth. Fascist Italy? He even proposed for the edification of his troops the alluring idea of Europe gone Fascist.

And more clearly than ever before he revealed that Italy has lined up with its enemies in the late war as a protagonist for revision of the peace treaties and a reshaping of the league of nations convenant. He vaunted anew Italy's loyalty to its allies who are spaced about the map in interesting contrast to the little entente.

The complete breakdown of the Franco-Italian naval conversations was without the slightest doubt the motivation of Il Duce's observations on peace and international good will at today's black shirt fiesta.

Speech Well Prepared.

That breakdown happened a couple of weeks ago but this was the first occasion for a big speech since, and the speech itself shows signs of having been carefully prepared.

That these Latin sisters got nowhere in their confab on which so much hung is well understood, and so the situation today is considered just that much more ticklish than when Fascism's big man made his stiff pronouncements in the springtime.

Today he talked straight out about the frontiers. Their situation today is more ticklish because of what happened in Germany in the recent elections—Fascism raising its head.

Foresees Fascist Europe.

Today Il Duce noted with pride Fascism's spread into other parts of the globe almost in the same breath with a vigorous reaffirmation of the necessity for a treaty revision and the assurance that Italy's new friendships in the world—among the vanquished of the great war—have a market value that cannot be disputed.

"We can foresee a Fascist Europe which seeks the inspiration for its doctrines and its practices from Fascism, a Europe which solves, as Fascism does, the problems of a modern state in the twentieth century."

He then spoke about how the peace treaties and the covenant of the league of nations had to be revised so Europe would no longer be divided into two categories: armed and unarmed.

Picture the Setting.

There is a rostrum for the vibrant leader who will appear in a minute or two to tell you what's what. On the left are grouped the truly great of the party, the grand Fascist coun-

CHICAGOAN ERRS IN GLASSES; SIPS POISON AND DIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 27.—How a moment's absent mindedness caused the sudden death of Charles A. Henderson, 79, a Chicago citizen living in Buenos Aires, was revealed by police here tonight.

Mr. Henderson, who in his youth prospected for gold in southern Argentina, preserved specimens of nuggets as mementos. This afternoon he was engaged in cleaning them in his home. He placed some cyanide potassium in a glass on a table and proceeded with his work while chatting with his housekeeper. Calling for a glass of water, he drank part of it, putting the glass on the table. Later he took up the wrong glass and drank its contents.

Recognizing the mistake, he called for an egg, which the landlady hurried to obtain. But when she returned she found Mr. Henderson already dead.

Mr. Henderson came to Argentina in 1893, and was long engaged in engineering work in connection with the tramway and other enterprises. He was one of the oldest members of the American club and a frequent contributor to La Nacion and other papers on technical subjects.

Raskob Asks Nation-Wide Vote on Rum

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—A national referendum on prohibition was advocated tonight by Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee. His address outlined a six point program for the Democrats "if they were in power."

Mr. Raskob urged a five day week for workingmen and asserted no country in the world "was ever in as splendid position to go forward and enjoy a period of prosperity as our country is today." He added that "business is now turning upward."

He advocated hearings by the federal trade commission to determine in advance whether proposed combinations were desirable, abolishment of the capital gain and capital loss tax and taking the tariff out of politics.

Remarks on Referendum.

Raskob, a director of the Association Against the Prohibition amendment, said:

"It is a sorry plight indeed to see sincere and well intentioned men in the ministry and good men and women in other walks of life, whose mission is to teach and develop the best in all of us, working hand in hand with bootleggers and racketeers in an effort to deny the people of the United States an opportunity to vote on this great social experiment after a 10 year trial.

"Is there any dry so stubborn that he would insist on the country being dry if the people by referendum abolished the 18th amendment? Or is there any wet so bigoted that he would refuse to abide by the decision if a referendum showed the country was dry?

"Let us be American citizens first, last and all the time, and recognize this as a government of the people, by the people, and for the people, as Abraham Lincoln said. We must never deny the people a chance to register their convictions, otherwise our form of government must perish."

Good Times in 3 Months.

Discussing industrial conditions, Raskob said "everything has been thoroughly deflated and business is now turning upward."

"The momentum is necessarily slow at first," he added, "but within three months we will quickly leave depression behind and all be singing 'Happy Days Are Here Again.'"

Adoption of a five day week, he said, would "increase consumption enormously," and this would result "in sufficient savings to enable industry to pay the same wages for five days as are now paid for five and one-half days' work."

He also advocated celebrating all legal holidays, except perhaps Christmas, on Monday, to permit three days of recreation at one time.

Al Smith Attaks G. O. P.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Speaking before 12,000 persons here tonight, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York advocated a five day work week for American labor, urged uniform state child labor laws, and arraigned the Republican administration for its alleged failure to recognize or attempt to alleviate unemployment and business depression.

Mr. Smith indicted the Republican party on three counts. First, he said, it pledged a continuance of prosperity which it could not deliver; second, it refused to face the facts of business depression promptly, and, third, it "failed to do that which the government could have done to relieve the situation."

'BUY NOW' MOVEMENT IN RETAIL BUSINESS AIDS PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Retail business in this city jumped forward with the opening of the "buy now" movement launched last Monday by the Philadelphia chamber of commerce and continued gaining steadily throughout the week, leading merchants reported today to the chamber's committee. Reports in some cases showed a doubling and trebling of sales volume and the "buy now" slogan was credited with much of the increase.

JAPANESE ISLAND SAVAGES REVOLT AND KILL POLICE

TOKIO, Japan, Oct. 28.—(AP)—[Tuesday]—A serious uprising among savage aborigines of the Taichu district of central Formosa, southernmost of the Japanese island chain, was reported in an official dispatch received at the Tokio war office today.

The savages, who were formerly headhunters, were reported to have attacked and destroyed Japanese police stations, killing the defenders. A company of Japanese infantry and some aircraft were dispatched to the affected district.

The Place to Try Out the New Model Radios Is in the Home

It's all over. The exhibitors have dismantled their booths and departed. Another radio show has passed into history. The real fun now begins—as the folks who attended the show seek out the dealers and start to make arrangements for delivery of sets into the home.

This brings up a not unimportant fact in connection with the purchase of a radio or any musical instrument. You don't know the half of it until it's installed in the home. Conditions in the showroom are probably as unfavorable as any which an instrument ever has to face. In the first place, there are too many other instruments to distract the eye and too many foreign noises to distract the ear. Where special booths are provided, they are often too small to give the instrument full range.

Now is a good time to try out an up-to-date radio in your own home, where it can perform under the conditions for which it was built. Only under such circumstances can the tone and performance values of the 1930-'31 model radios be fully appreciated.

Everybody is in the olive gray uniform of the militia, so well cut, with the blue sash of office and black shirts and black fezes and tassels. Outside there is the murmur of the thousands massed in the piazza to see the goings-on. Inside there is a hum of expectancy.

In Stamps Mussolini.

Il Duce stamps in wearing that familiar uniform of honorary corporal of militia with a white aigrette in his bonnet. White aigrettes are the immemorial badge of leaders. There is a great cry of "Duce!" "Duce!" and pandemonium reigns.

He begins quite low when he tells how for eight years Italy has resounded with a new rhythm, but his voice rises as he comes to the real business of the day, what everybody is waiting to hear.

He flashed back to those famous speeches last May at Tuscany and Milan.

"With those speeches," he declared, "I intend to tear the mask from the face of hypocritical Europe, which babbled about peace at Geneva but prepared for war everywhere. Those speeches were regarded as declarations of war, while it was forgotten that the men, groups, parties and sects to which I alluded at Florence had been waging war against Fascism for the last eight years."

"Struggling Against World."

"To kill Fascists merely because they are Fascists, is not that an act of hostility?" he cried. "To defame the Fascist régime and injure its credit, is not that an act of war? What calumnies, what infamies have not been launched in the world against the Fascist régime? Is not what was said after the executions at Trieste proof that war is in progress against the Fascist régime? For the present it is a state of 'moral war' but prepares for a military war.

"We are struggling against a world that is on the decline but still powerful because it represents an enormous crystallization of interests."

"Things are warming up.

"Anti-Fascism is not dead, but the terrain of struggle has been extended," he declared. "Yesterday it was Italy, today it is the wide world. Everywhere is a battle for or against Fascism. Thus, a state of moral war exists against us, and it is inevitable that it will get worse."

Charges War Preparations.

Then came the big moment.

"But along with this moral warfare, preparations of material warfare are going on along our frontiers," Mussolini cried.

"Look at this little book!"

The book he waved was later said to have been the general staff report, on what frontier we can easily guess.

"In it is noted down the day by day military preparations of 1927, 1928, 1929 and 1930 against Italy, long before my speeches at Leghorn, Florence and Milan. Here is a complete list of batteries placed, forts constructed and armaments created and put in place.

A Wolf Among Bleating Lambs.

"Can we, in view of this, postpone the awakening of the Italian people? Naturally those who find their masks stripped off try to turn things around and make it appear that Italy is unique, a peril to peace in Europe, and the only nation that is a wolf among a bleating flock of peaceful lambs.

"Such a game is childish. Fascist Italy is armed because all others are armed. We will disarm if all disarm."

And then Il Duce went back to that now famous phrase about the beauty of cannons.

"I repeat," he said, "that so long as cannons do exist they are the most beautiful of the beautiful, but often vain, words. When the word will suffice to regulate relations between peoples, then I will say that words are divine."

"Arming to Defend Selves."

"It is everywhere obvious that we are arming ourselves spiritually and materially for defense—not for attack. Fascist Italy will never take the initiative in war.

"Our policy of treaty revision, which is not of yesterday, is directed to avoid war and bring about a saving. An immense saving is what that means. The revision of treaties is not a matter solely of Italian interest, but of world interest. It is absurd to hold the view that treaties cannot be revised.

"Those who violate the covenant of the league of nations are those who at Geneva created and wish permanently to maintain two categories of states—armed and unarmed. What juridical and moral parity can exist between the armed and unarmed? How can one pretend that this comedy will last indefinitely when the protagonists are already beginning to show signs of their weariness of it?"

Looks to Self Preservation

With King Boris of Bulgaria and his new Italian queen still on the high seas en route to Bulgaria with an escort of Italian warships, Il Duce turned his attention to the Italian policy in central and eastern Europe.

"Our policy on the Danube and in the east is dictated by reasons of self preservation," he said. "We believe in utilizing the last clod of our territory. But at a certain point it will be saturated by a population which is increasing and of which we are proud. But in 1950 Europe will be wrinkled and decrepit and from beyond our frontiers this phenomenon of springtide of Italian people will have its recognition. It is only eastward that we are able to direct a peaceful expansion. Thus our friendships and alliances are understood. They have an absolute value today.

"Harsh toward the enemy, we will march with our friends to the end. We will follow a policy of frankness without mental reservations or insincerity. A covenant signed by us is sacred, whatever may happen. Nor do we know any other way for people to increase their prestige and the faith of others in it."

With great enthusiasm the white plumed Duce told his comrades how on the tenth anniversary of the march on Rome, in 1932, there will assemble in Rome more armed men than at any time in its three milleniums of history.

Schacht Blames World Business Depression on the Problem of German Reparations

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The present world wide business depression, fear, and tension was laid at the door of the German reparations problem by Dr. Bjalmar Schacht, former president of the reichbank, in an address last night at the University of Chicago.

After giving many statistics on the economic situation in Germany, showing that the heavy payments under the Young plan could only come from an increase of German foreign trade at the expense of other nations, Dr. Schacht declared:

"Doing away with the reparation problem is the best way to bring back prosperity to the world.

Upsets Whole Economic World.

"I think the whole world will stand now for one thing, that the reparations must never again be allowed to become a matter of political unrest and suffering. There is so much distrust between nations. They are not investing their capital in foreign countries. That is the reason international trade is not developing. There is lack of prosperity everywhere. Reparations has upset the whole economic world.

"Let us come down to facts. The economic facts in Germany do not differ from the economic facts in this country. If there is no prosperity there is no means of payment. It can only be solved in an atmosphere of general prosperity."

Here Only to Explain.

Dr. Schacht, who was introduced to a big audience of professors, students, and the general public in Mandel hall by Vice President Frederic Woodward, who said he was a world authority on economics and public finance, said that he was not here to complain but to explain. And he was not declaring a moratorium for the German government. Far from it. The German business men, he said, will sustain their reputation for honesty, and the matter of German bonds will be held as a sacred payment even above the reparations.

It was due, he said, to the recent awakening of the German workingmen to the fact that they must pay reparations out of their earnings, and that it could not be taken from the rich, that the Hitler movement recently attained such proportions in Germany.

"One day," he said, "they will all awake to this, and we will have a social problem of the greatest magnitude. They will say they do not want to give away $5 a year out of their $300 income for reparations. And after all it is the individuals, not the governments, which determine these things.

Say United States Is Paying.

"What about the payments of the last six years?

"We didn't pay. You paid. You lent money to Germany and with that we paid. We borrowed twenty billion marks and paid ten billion back in reparations and put ten billions in buildings and improvements, hoping to be able to produce. We have taken away from private people in order to pay politicians. If we cannot earn money to pay we are no longer entitled to take private money to pay politicians. One day Germany certainly must say that, as they doubt they can pay it back. Germany has never disappointed her creditors and will not now.

"If Germany is going to make good," he said, "she must increase her foreign trade 40 to 50 per cent. It must increase at the cost of other countries.

"Germany has no substance left, no liquid assets, nothing but earnings. There is no other way to pay. The earnings of 16 millions do not surpass $300 a year. Sixteen million more earn between $300 and $2,000. There are 370,000 who earn between $2,000 and $5,000, and only 80,000 persons in all Germany who get more than $5,000 a year.

"It can't be taken from the rich. It must come from the taxes of the poor. The middle classes have almost disappeared. They have lost their money by war and taxes. The industrial workers are better off today in real wages than they were before the war. See what happened in the metal trades when we tried to reduce wages just a little. The national income of all earning people is between 60 and 70 billions of gold marks out of which 63 million people must live and pay two billion gold marks a year in reparations.

It's a World Problem.

"Interest in this question is growing because all are going through a period of economic depression. We see it as a world-wide depression, which started, perhaps, in Germany, then touched this country despite all its natural wealth, and just now is beginning to touch France despite her riches. We feel there is a connection."

In the long run, he said, it would be shown that the economists were right and the politicians wrong, in this settlement.

He said he resigned from the bank because he could not sign a pact which bore the military sanctions, permitting creditor nations to do what they please with Germany if she did not pay on the line and letter.

Dr. Schacht's son, Jens, accompanied him to Chicago to take up work in a loop bank.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Oct. 27.—Constantin Dumba, Austrian ambassador to the United States during the war, has explained in a book to be published tomorrow how he came to be expelled in 1915 for trying to organize a strike of Austrian munition workers at the Bethlehem Steel company. Severe criticism of Woodrow Wilson as a man and President, coupled with equally ungrudging appreciation of his achievement in creating the league of nations, are other features of the book, entitled, "Triple Alliance and Entent Policy in the Old and New Worlds."

After recounting how his personal letter to the Austrian foreign minister, Herr Durian, concerning the plan to disturb munitions manufacture at Bethlehem and other plants fell into the hands of the English secret service, Dr. Dumba speaks of President Wilson's "puritanical hypocrisy," and accuses him of preaching public neutrality while favoring the allies from first to last. He doubts Wilson's sincere will for peace.

"Wilson only wanted peace if it came through him," the book continues. "The pope's mediatory note deeply disappointed him, since he wished to be the only great peace giver and savior of mankind."

PARIS, Oct. 27.—After an American visitor had arrived too late the other day to visit the palace of Versailles and its beautiful grounds, the guards who had turned him away learned he was none other than John D. PRECINCT CHIEF SHOT AT HOME BY TWO GUNMEN

Worker for Touhy in 27th Ward Victim.

Henry Haas, a race track cashier and a precinct captain for Sanitary District Trustee John J. Touhy in the Twenty-seventh ward, where Touhy is the Democratic committeeman, was shot and seriously wounded last night by two men who called at Haas' home, 220 South Peoria street, posing as political friends.

When the police arrived Haas was semi-conscious, but 12 year old Frank Smith, son of a tenant, had been an eyewitness and told the story. He said that his mother, Mrs. Emma L. Smith, admitted the men after they had represented themselves as fellow workers.

Taken Into Living Room.

"That's the fellow," they said as she ushered them into the living room where Haas was sitting.

Haas asked the callers who they were and what they wanted. They answered that they had a friend in the Des Plaines street jail they wanted him to release. Haas walked into a bedroom, put a revolver in his pocket, and returned with a polling list of the precinct. As he leaned over it one of the men walked around the table, put an automatic to the back of his head, and said:

"Come with us. We've got business with you."

Wounded Three Times.

They walked him down a flight of 20 steps and then started firing. Haas was wounded in the scalp, the chest, and the left leg. The two men fled to a flivver sedan parked in front of the house. Haas was able to raise himself on his elbow and empty his revolver at it.

At the county hospital, after he was revived, Haas muttered something about the shooting being "a political war." Later he told the police that one of the men who shot him was Jack McGurn, but the police were not impressed with this identification.

Touhy could not be reached for a statement.

Haas is said formerly to have been employed by the sanitary district and later to have been a deputy sheriff.

BISHOP CANNON SUFFERS SEVERE NEURITIS ATTACK

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Dr. R. Lyman Sexton, attending Bishop James Cannon Jr., said tonight the Methodist churchman is suffering from a severe attack of neuritis and inflammatory arthritis.

The bishop, who is at Sibley hospital here, will require from four to eight weeks of treatment, he said, for these ailments. The present attack of arthritis, Dr. Sexton explained, is a recurrence of trouble Bishop Cannon has suffered from for several years, complicated by "other nervous disorders."

Dr. Sexton was of the opinion, he said, that the churchman could be cured completely within the period of hospital treatment he suggested. His general nervous condition, the physician indicated, was the outgrowth of troubles which have beset Bishop Cannon during recent weeks, including the filing of new charges against him within the Methodist Episcopal church, South, by four ministers.

JEWS OF LONDON FIGHT POLICE TO HEAR WEIZMANN

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Crowds of Jews from London's east end stormed the Pavilion theater here tonight and fought with police in the effort to hear Dr. Chaim Weizmann, resigned president of the World Zionist organization, address a protest meeting against the Labor government's Palestine policy. The theater was already overcrowded when the late arrivals tried to force their way in. No casualties were reported in the battle. Dr. Weizmann vigorously attacked the government's recent "white paper" on Palestine.

"I say nothing against the British government's helping the Arab, but there is nothing in the mandate to say that England should build an Arab home on the backs of the Jews," he said. "The white paper is a blow in the back, but our work will not stop."

The meeting unanimously adopted a resolution to carry out plans for creating a Jewish national home in Palestine.

DE KING CASE AT AURORA BLOT ON RECORD OF DRYS

Woman Shot to Death During Raid.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Along the Fox River valley road, about five miles from Aurora, is a station called Lovedale. Near by is St. Joseph's cemetery, with a large and shining statue of Christ rising above the tombstones. And just beyond this place is a neat house by the roadside and a filling station with a big signboard—Joe De King's place.

Joe is a widower now and his wife's grave is nearby. He will tell all who care to hear the story of how the state of Illinois murdered his wife and how he has been unable to get justice.

The De King case is the black spot in the history of prohibition enforcement in Kane county.

No One Ever Prosecuted.

Mrs. Lillian De King, 38 years old, was shot and killed during a raid of state officers on her home on the night of March 25, 1929, and no one was ever prosecuted. Coroner's jury, grand jury, state legislative investigating committee heard the details of that case. The coroner's jury wanted to hold the deputy sheriff who did the killing for manslaughter, but the grand jury did not agree with this and scolded Joe De King for his bootlegging proclivities and indicted one Eugene Roy Fairchild, who had instigated the raid by an affidavit afterward found to be false. He has never been prosecuted. The legislative committee found the whole thing a political mess and recommended a new investigation, but no one paid any attention to the report.

In the year and a half that has gone by since the shooting prohibition enforcement has drifted along about as usual. It seems to have had no great effect on bootleggers. Aurora, while no longer a wide open wet town, is not very tight. The speakeasies are a little more careful about opening doors and serving to strangers.

Carbary Candidate Defeated.

The law enforcement situation undoubtedly has improved during the last two years, but the De King killing has not helped things any for the present administration. In the spring elections Gustav C. Malcor, dry entry, supported by State's Attorney George D. Carbary for sheriff, was defeated by the candidate of the liberals, Chief of Police Harry A. Crawford of St. Charles, by a vote of 22,489 to 11,251. The De King killing was a factor in this election, in which Joe himself was a candidate for sheriff, receiving about 1,000 votes.

It was the state of Illinois, through the office of state's attorney, which staged the tragedy at the De King home. On one side of the engagement were six state agents, armed with sawed off shotguns, pistols, machine gun, bullet-proof vests and tear bombs. On the other side were De King and his wife, Pete De King, a brother, and Gerald De King, 12 years old.

De King had served time as a bootlegger and his place had been raided several times before this spectacular affair.

Raid Is Ordered.

Carleton Shults, assistant state's attorney, ordered this raid. The deputy sheriffs involved were W. H. Treadwell, Roy Smith, who shot Mrs. De King; Charles Anderson, Perle Peck, Clarence Sayre, and Ole Nelson, an investigator.

Stories as to just what occurred conflict naturally, but the main facts are that Anderson, Treadwell, and Olson went to the De King residence first. They found no one at home except Gerald and Joe De King, who was in bed. This was late in the afternoon. De King came downstairs in an ugly mood and flourished a revolver, threatening to use it unless the deputies showed him a search warrant. They told him they had one, but did not give it to him. They left for reinforcements. They found some wine in the basement and brought it up to the kitchen.

Nelson wanted to avoid trouble. He went back to town to get Peter De King, a brother of Joe, and they returned to the house. They sat in the kitchen, having a few drinks together and discussing Joe's surrender. Mrs. De King, who has been out on some work in connection with St. Joseph's church, came home about this time. An excitable woman, she demurred at the arrangements and said the officers could not do anything without a warrant. She called up the family attorney and was talking with him when the second raid occurred.

Deputies Surround House.

The five deputies surrounded the house, guarding the back door, while Deputy Smith walked in at the front door, pushing by the boy, Gerald. He had his gun ready as he approached the kitchen door, where the parley was in progress. Joe De King had been warned by the boy of the presence of the officers. He had taken a revolver and had stationed himself near the kitchen door. Smith crept up on him and hit him over the head. He fell, dropping his revolver. Mrs. De King went toward her husband. Whether she reached for the revolver or not is disputed, but she was shot just at this moment by Smith.

The boy in the meantime had picked up a revolver and fired at the deputy. The bullet struck him in the leg. Mrs. De King died a little later. The deputy crawled out of the house, was taken to a hospital and recovered. The county paid his hospital bill.

The view taken by the dry elements in the community was that, while this was an extremely unfortunate killing, it was but an incident in a holy warfare that must go on, even though women and children fall.

On the strength of the first story told by Gerald De King, that his mother was reaching for the revolver on the kitchen floor at the time she was shot, the state's attorney decided against the prosecution of Smith, who was re-elected constable after this. The state's attorney condemned the way in which the raid was instigated and carried out and said that nothing of that kind would happen again, but he considered that Smith had acted in self-defense and closed the case on that.

This is the 18th of a series of articles on prohibition. The next will appear tomorrow.

NAVY DAY CELEBRATED AT GREAT LAKES

Flags Fly in City

Navy day, a tribute to the memory of President Roosevelt and in honor of his birthday, was celebrated yesterday at the Great Lakes Naval training station, as it was all over the United States.

Celebration began with the booming of guns over Lake Michigan at dawn. Sailors at the station went on dress parade three times and Rear Admiral Walter S. Crosley held open house. Visitors were given a chance to see the points of interest under the tutelage of guides.

In the loop flags fluttered from the skyscrapers in remembrance of the President who believed in the necessity of a strong navy. And for the people who were unable to go to Great Lakes, a training ship, the U. S. S Wilmette, was stationed at State street and the river. Capt. Edward A. Evers, in command, and his crew of fifteen men showed off the ship.

DOWDLES GIVE UP ON U. S. CHARGES OF TAX EVASION

Thomas P., Raymond R., and John J. Dowdle, who, with their contracting company, Dowdle Bros., Inc., 228 North La Salle street, were indicted last week on charges of trying to evade more than $200,000 in corporation income taxes, surrendered to bench warrants yesterday and scheduled surety bonds of $15,000 each with the federal court.

The bonds for the three brothers had been fixed at $25,000 each by the grand jury, but they were reduced with the approval of the United States attorney's office. The defendants were represented by the law firm of Brundage, Landon & Holt.

The contractors, who received almost $4,000,000 worth of work from the sanitary district under the régime of Timothy J. Crowe, are alleged to have concealed more than $1,000,000 of their income by padding pay rolls.

WOMAN CLAIMS SHE IS HEIR OF DR. MAC KELLAR

Mrs. Madeline Schubert, 39 years old, of 3001 Jarlath street, was granted permission by Probate Judge Henry Horner yesterday to file a petition claiming a share in the estate of the late Dr. Orville W. MacKellar, physician and surgeon. Mrs. Schubert declared she is Dr. MacKellar's daughter by a common law marriage.

Dr. MacKellar died Oct. 4, 1929, without leaving a will. His heirs are three brothers, Dr. John MacKellar of Chicago, Dr. Lawrence MacKellar of Elgin, Ill., and Dr. Milo MacKellar of Loveland, Okla., and a sister, Miss Hattie MacKellar of Elgin.

Attorney John B. King, representing Mrs. Schubert, said she was born in Deadwood, S. D., in 1891 and was brought to this city in 1895. A short time later, the attorney said, the child was placed in a hospital and never found her parents after that time. Dr. MacKellar practiced in Chicago for 37 years.

EVANSTON MAYOR ATTACKS PLAN FOR VIGILANTES

Evanston's proposed vigilante organization, to be comprised of members of the Evanston Business Men's Pistol club, was attacked as unnecessary by Mayor Charles H. Bartlett, speaking before the city council last night. Earlier in the day copies of a sermon condemning the proposed group were mailed out by the Rev. Julius J. Steffens, pastor of St. Matthew's Episcopal church, Evanston.

The original idea of the pistol club was patterned on that governing the ordinary gun club, Mayor Bartlett said. Some one looking for publicity, however, suggested the club would be an auxiliary of the police department, he added. The police, he said, were able to cope with any crime situation.

He was taken to th Lying-In hospital.

A $12,000 jewelry burglary last Tuesday night at the home of D. B. Kilbourne, 414 Linden avenue, Oak Park, the news of which was suppressed by the police of that suburb, was disclosed yesterday. While the family was on the first floor, the burglars entered through the window of a second story bathroom. The loot included a ring with 26 diamonds, valued at $3,000, a necklace, valued at $5,800, and a brooch, $2,000.

Press Won't Print Facts, Speaker Charges.

Patrick H. Callahan, secretary of the Association of Catholics Favoring Prohibition, brought forth statistics from the U. S. census bureau yesterday to prove to the Union Ministers meeting that prohibition has saved 130,800 lives, more than this country lost in the world war.

"These facts are not known," said Mr. Callahan, "because the metropolitan newspapers will not print the facts. Try as we will, the nation has not been reached with these indisputable figures, and the newspapers are full of false statements based on colored figures. These are neither wet or dry figures, but from the census bureau, and available to everybody."

Mr. Callahan based his statements on death rates from alcoholism, cirrhosis of the liver and Bright's disease attributed to liquor.

"The lowest annual number of deaths due to alcoholism before prohibition was 4,400 in 1915, while the average for seven years prior to prohibition was 5,200," Mr. Callahan said, quoting census figures.

"Since prohibition the lowest death rate from alcoholism reached 1,000 in 1920, and the average for 11 years since prohibition is 2,800. The total saving of life from alcoholism for the 11 years is 26,000 in the entire country."

Mr. Callahan, using the same plan of calculation, declared that 42,300 lives have been saved from cirrhosis of the liver and 150,800 lives from Bright's disease.

The rural press was called the salvation of the cause of prohibition by Mr. Callahan, who said:

"If you come from the country and get a paper from 'back home' you may have heard of this saving in life. Newspapers print what they think their readers should read, and they do not think they should read figures in favor of prohibition."

KING'S QUIZ REVEALS ENGLISH PRINCESS IS 4TH HEIR TO THRONE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The line of succession to the British throne has been definitely settled through an investigation instituted by King George. The result establishes first the claim of the three year old Princess Elizabeth over that of her infant sister, Princess Margaret Rose, who will be christened at Buckingham palace on Thursday.

It was suggested at the time of the birth of the second daughter of the duke and duchess of York that the princesses had equal claims to the throne.

Examination of acts of parliament and other precedents establishing the right of succession now have satisfied the king that the baby princess ranks fourth. The prince of Wales is first, the duke of York, second, and Princess Elizabeth, third.

CHINA'S CIVIL WAR ENDS WITH TOLL OF 200,000 DEAD

NANKING, Oct. 27. — (AP) — The seven-month rebellion of northern war lords appeared crushed tonight. Nationalist armies, the government announced, drove rebel troops of Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang out of Honan province, pursuing them into mountains of Shansi and Shensi.

Worn by continual battering in Honan and Shantung provinces and weakened by heavy casualties, the insurgents, who threatened overthrow of the government, began to give away when Gov. Chang Hsueh-liang of Manchuria intervened for the government. Pouring down from Mukden, the Manchurian armies late in September ousted Yen Hsi-shan from Peiping where he had set up a rebel government and thrust out his troops.

One million men fought in the civil war, the government estimated. Of these, 600,000 were nationalists and 400,000 insurgents. The government estimated 200,000 died in battle or afterward because of poor facilities for wounded. The nationalist loss was placed at 150,000, being greater due to offensive operation on a long line. An active campaign has been promised by the government against bandits and communists with 200,000 nationalist troops released from fighting rebels.

BISHOP GRISWOLD IS REPORTED TO BE NEAR DEATH

Bishop Sheldon Munson Griswold of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, was reported to be near death last night following a relapse at the Evanston hospital during the afternoon.

Shortly after noon the prelate became unconscious, and hope for his life was virtually given up. He rallied slightly later, and toward evening was reported to be in a comatose condition. This rally, it was believed, was not sufficient to bring his recovery.

Bishop Griswold entered the hospital on Oct. 10, and has been under the care of Dr. Dwight F. Clark. He is suffering from the return of an old ailment which afflicted him shortly after his election as bishop of the Chicago diocese last February.

The affairs of Pasquale Prestogiacomo, business partner of the murdered Joe Aiello, were under investigation by the police yesterday.

Prestogiacoma, who has assumed for convenience the simpler name of Patsy Presto, was questioned for several hours by Chief of Detectives John Norton and Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne.

Then a squad led by Sergt. Al Jenner was sent to the office of the Italio-American Importing company, 1104 Randolph street, the business in which Presto and Aiello were partners. John Sorca, cashier, and Miss Sylvia Hewitt, a bookkeeper for the company, were taken to the detective bureau for questioning.

Find Moonshine Containers.

Sergt. Jenner reported to Chief Norton that an inspection of the premises revealed large quantities of sugar, many five gallon cans, and other paraphernalia used in the manufacture of moonshine.

Norton and Prosecutor Ditchburne declined to discuss the nature of their extended questioning of Presto, but earlier in the day, when surrendered to Capt. Patrick Collins at the Fillmore street police station, the Italian made a detailed statement.

He declared that Aiello was one of his closest friends, and that to intimate that he, Presto, had given Aiello's enemies information whereby they were able to murder him was unthinkable.

Tells Fear of Assassins.

Asked why he had fled and remained hidden for three days, Presto declared that his wife had urged him to run away because she feared he, too, would be killed, and that he had not given himself up earlier because he was unwilling to remain in police custody over Sunday.

"Joe came to my home ten days before the shooting," Presto said. "He asked if he could stay there for a week or so and I, following the custom of our people, bade him welcome. He said nothing about his private affairs or troubles, and I, as a true Italian, never questioned him."

Follows Other Customs.

Following another old Italian custom, Presto remained in the house with Aiello. Still another custom was observed just before Aiello was killed, Presto said, explaining:

"Aiello said he was going to a barber shop, and according to the way of our people, we all, my wife, my daughter and my mother-in-law, gathered about to bid him good-by."

"He was only going to a barber shop and you all had to say good-by to him?" a policeman asked.

"It is our custom to bid a guest good-by whenever he leaves," Presto said.

The witness asserted that as soon as Aiello emerged from the Presto home at 205 North Kolmar avenue a storm of bullets was hailed upon him.

"I fell to the floor of the vestibule," Presto said. "I scrambled back into the house, gathered my family about me and we all lay down to escape the fire of bullets. When they had ceased my family begged me to go, and I left immediately."

Moran Is Freed Again.

George (Bugs) Moran was released again yesterday after suffering a second arrest at the hands of Lake county authorities. A charge that Moran had conspired to protect Leo Mongoven, his chief lieutenant, from arrest was laid against Moran, as well as a second charge of vagrancy.

Moran's attorney, Thomas Symmes of Chicago, and former Judge Claire C. Edwards of Waukegan brought habeas corpus proceedings before Judge Edward D. Shurtleff, who allowed Moran to sign his own bond on the vagrancy charge and accepted a $5,000 surety bond on the conspiracy charge. Moran will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Harold Tallett in North Chicago on Nov. 5.

The home of Mongoven, who, like Moran, is a public enemy, was located by investigators yesterday. The gangster's wife and three children were found in a small white and green bungalow at 106 North Harvard avenue, Villa Park. Mrs. Mongoven refused to admit the investigators, and her refusal was reinforced by the appearance of a snarling bulldog.

"I don't know where my husband is and I don't know when he will be back," Mrs. Mongoven said.

The Villa Park police said they had known of Mongoven's place of residence, but said they had not seen him for more than a year.

The prisoners are Sam Genna, 856 Blue Island avenue, one of six Genna brothers of whom three have been killed by rival gangsters or the police; Nick Giardina, 5407 South Francisco avenue, and Jasper Giora, 914 South Ashland avenue.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun, who questioned the men, said they were members of a gang which has resumed operations in a small way supplying moonshine to bootleggers.

BALLISTICS TEST TO BE MADE TODAY IN TRIAL OF MURDER SUSPECT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—For the first time in any major American criminal case the science of ballistics will be put to a public test tomorrow at the trial of Herbert M. Campbell, who is charged with the murder of Mary Baker, young navy clerk, last April.

Col. Calvin Goddard of Northwestern university will endeavor to prove before the judge and jury the infallibility of bullet identification, and should he fail Chief Prosecutor William H. Collins announced the government will ask the court for a directed verdict of acquittal.

The plan is as follows:

Five revolvers, one of them the .32 caliber pistol with which Campbell is alleged to have killed Miss Baker, will be used. The judge and jury will be conducted to the marine barracks near the District of Columbia courthouse, where two bullets will be fired from each gun into a padded target. With Col. Goddard out of the room the guns and bullets will be marked for identification and then shuffled together. Col. Goddard then will attempt to match the bullets with the guns from which they were fired.

HEIRS OF ZUTA SEEK TO STOP LITIGATION HERE

A copy of the will of Jack Zuta, slain gangster, which had been filed in Bell county, Kentucky, were filed here yesterday with Edwin S. Schaffler, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner. Attorneys for Zuta's heirs said they plan to stop court litigation over the estate by proving that the will has already been admitted to probate in Kentucky.

On Nov. 15 Judge Horner will open a hearing on what is to be done with the $2,500 sent to Zuta by the city after he was killed. The money represented final payment for condemning some property owned by the vice monger.

GUZIK BROTHERS, 'DAGO' MANGANO BEFORE COURTS

Jack Guzik, his brother Sam, and "Dago Lawrence" Mangano appeared in court yesterday. The Guziks were before Federal Judge Woodward on indictments charging them with evasion of income tax payments and both pleaded not guilty through their attorney, Capt. William F. Waugh. Jack Guzik, who is on the list of "public enemies," will go to trial on Nov. 12, it was decided, and his brother's hearing will follow.

Mangano, another "public enemy," appeared before Judge Edgar A. Jonas in the South State street court on the vagrancy warrant issued for him by Judge John H. Lyle. His lawyer, Roland Libonati, asked for a continuance until Nov. 13, and Assistant State's Attorney Russell Root said that Assistant State's Attorney James Brown has requested him to agree to the continuance. Judge Jonas said he would allow no further delay after Nov. 13.

Pair Rob Merchant and Wife of $4,500 Jewelry

Charles P. Stouffer, wholesale chinaware dealer at 2619 Prairie avenue, and his wife, Grace, were held up and robbed of $225 and jewelry valued at $4,500 last night by two gunmen who met them on the second floor landing of the apartment building in which they live at 6738 Cornell avenue. Stouffer told Woodlawn police he believed one of the bandits was the same man who tried to hold him up last Friday in front of the Wedgewood hotel, 6410 Woodlawn avenue.

HOOVER URGES FURTHER CUT IN WORLD NAVIES

Ratifications of Treaty Deposited in London.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—Fervent hope for a further extension of the policy of disarmament was expressed today by President Hoover and the prime ministers of Great Britain and Japan during an exchange of felicitations, broadcast over an international hookup, in celebration of the depositing of the instruments of ratification of the London naval treaty.

All three speakers hailed the depositing of the treaty ratifications, which made the pact effective, as marking the end of naval competition among the three signatory oceanic powers. President Hoover expressed the hope that the limitations effected at London would be followed by further reduction in naval armaments in the future.

Urge Franco-Italian Pact.

Both President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald took occasion to urge France and Italy to settle their naval limitation difficulties and join the United States, Great Britain, and Japan in converting the three power accord into a five power treaty. France and Italy failed to agree to the limitations placed on cruisers, submarines, and destroyers at the London conference and since that time have made little apparent headway in solving their problem.

President Hoover spoke from the cabinet room at the White House, beginning his address immediately after the ratifications of the three powers had been deposited in the British foreign office during simple ceremonies at noon. The prime minister of Japan, speaking at Tokio, followed him, while Prime Minister MacDonald spoke last from London.

Simple 10 Minute Ceremony.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The ratifications by the United States, Great Britain, and Japan of the London naval treaty were solemnly deposited with the British government in the Locarno room of the foreign office this afternoon while the ambassadors of France and Italy looked on as interested but strictly nonparticipating spectators.

Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson sat at the head of the table during the simple 10 minute ceremony, flanked by American Ambassador Charles G. Dawes and Count Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japanese ambassador, as the documents formally signed here on April 22 were returned with the approval of the governments of the United States, Great Britain and Japan. The British ratification was signed by King George in the name of Great Britain and all the dominions except the Irish Free State, whose Dail has not yet ratified the treaty.

U. S. Navy Must Match Any In World, Adams Declares

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Maintenance of an American navy second to none in fighting strength was advocated tonight by Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams in an address delivered as a part of the capital's program for the observance of Navy day. The secretary asserted a strong navy acts as a safeguard against war and assures the protection of foreign trade vital to the nation's prosperity and well-being.

The cabinet member's plea for adequate defense on the high seas marked the high light of a nation-wide observance of Navy day, which found the navy maintaining open house on all ships and at all stations. A score of speakers, including Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, spoke in various sections of the country.

Parity Without Suspicion.

Secretary Adams expressed confidence that the people of the country see the need and provide the funds for a navy second to none in strength. He pointed out that under the London naval treaty "we are at liberty to reach parity in naval strength without suspicion, envy or competition."

"The navy in the hands of those who direct our foreign relations is an agency effective in proportion to its strength," Mr. Adams said. "If it is manifestly strong and ready it is an instrument which does not have to be wielded. It needs merely to exist, in a state of readiness and strength commensurate with the interest it silently and peacefully supports.

Will Prolong Peace.

"The external relations of a country are interwoven with its foreign commerce. The nation whose goods and ships go to ports in all parts of the world has relations and interests to sustain in all the countries of the world in times of universal peace. If it has a commensurate navy it is safe to say that peace is prolonged through many a commercial rivalry.

"It may be, however, that some day our ocean commerce will need the protection of our navy when other nations fighting for their own existence upon the sea are careless of the rights of neutrals. It is our hope that our naval strength may then be so estimated that it need not be exerted."

FAIR TO ALL—HOOVER

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—(AP)—President Hoover asserted today as the London naval treaty became binding upon the United States, Great Britain, and Japan that it was "fair to all and dangerous to none" and substituted mutual trust, good will, and confidence for suspicion among nations.

Mr. Hoover's address, which took six minutes to deliver, follows:

"Today the governments of Great Britain, Japan, and the United States have deposited the instruments of ratification to the London naval treaty. Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Hamaguchi are joining with me in speaking to you to mark the significance of this realization of further advancement in the world's hopes of a practical limitation of naval armament.

Ends Rivalry in Armaments.

"The task begun eighteen months ago for the limitation of all types of naval vessels thus draws to a close. The naval powers have bridged obstacles and achieved an understanding to relieve their peoples of excessive naval burdens. Three of these powers, commanding the great part of the world's naval forces, have turned away from rivalry in armaments and disproportionate growth of their navies is now prevented by an arrangement founded in common sense.

"This relinquishment of competitive building among the three great naval powers, with its consequent contribution to the security of the world, is the greatest significance of this treaty. If the limitations now established can be maintained we may look forward with assurance to the fact that future conferences will find it easier to bring about further steps in reduction. It is the fervent prayer of right thinking men and women of this generation that the international confidence which has been so patiently and single-mindedly achieved may endure so that the agreements which have been reached may live and be extended. Never again must a race in naval armaments be allowed to develop.

Hopes for Franco-Italian Pact.

"France and Italy are not as yet full partners in the London treaty. They have been making active efforts within the last few months to arrive at a complete understanding. The people of Great Britain, Japan, and the United States, and, indeed, the peoples of the whole world, have watched those efforts and confidently hope that patience and good will may yet lead to a solution.

"The sessions of the five powers at London have served to strengthen mutual trust and confidence among them and they give me assurance that the hopes of the world will not be disappointed. It is a pleasure to felicitate the peoples of Great Britain and Japan, and the people of this country, upon the conclusion of a sound and reasonable agreement between them, fair to all and dangerous to none, which has been accepted by each nation as affording adequate protection and which substitutes for suspicion and competition mutual trust, good will, and confidence. Let this day fill us with thanks and inspire us to go forward with the courage of hope."

MacDONALD IS ENCOURAGED

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Emphasizing the world's hopes for disarmament, Prime Minister MacDonald asserted today that the solution of the American-British-Japanese naval problem under the London naval treaty should be a great source of encouragement to future endeavors in such agreements.

The prime minister's statement at today's ceremony follows in part:

"For the first time in history, the three principal naval powers will put into operation a system of limitation and reduction which will apply to all parts of their respective fleets up to 1936. Thus for the period named, and we fondly hope for all time, the evils of naval rivalry have been eliminated between them.

"Failure Is Unthinkable."

"The treaty was also signed by France and Italy, but these two powers are not yet parties to that section of the treaty which limits naval strength. It is my most earnest hope that the negotiations which have recently been proceeding between France and Italy to enable them to come into this part of the treaty may before long reach a successful issue.

"Ultimate failure is to me unthinkable, for world hopes for the progress of disarmament are focused on these efforts and the good wishes of all of us must go out to those who are responsible for these difficult negotiations. What a happy day for the world will be the day of that agreement! What a vast addition to national security will then be made. How high will the value of our peace efforts then rise!

Tells of Years of Work.

"Those who read that part of the London naval treaty which settles the ratios between the United States, Japan and ourselves up to 1936 may think this a fairly simple matter, but in reality the success of today was preceded by years of abortive negotiation and by the emergence of problems which at one time looked well nigh insoluble. The way of the peace maker and not only of the transgressor, is verily hard.

"During all those years there were natural feelings of irritation and suspicion in the countries concerned and behind all lurked the dark spectre of the race in armaments which has so often in the past proved to be the current running down to war. Unless we—and by that I mean every naval power in the world—manage to stop this now. History will inevitably repeat itself.

"Of course, the treaty has been attacked in this country as in the United States and Japan, but an interesting comparison has been made of the arguments used by the protagonists of this campaign in each of the three countries, and they have been found to cancel themselves out almost completely. In other words, each group of critics has considered the treaty unfair to its own country for reasons which, when tabulated, have been found to be almost identical."

A MORAL INFLUENCE

TOKIO, Japan, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The London naval treaty was described today by Premier Hamaguchi of Japan as a covenant which is "bound to exercise an immense moral influence on the growing consciousness of mankind." His address, in part, follows:

"The memorable conference which was held in 1921 and 1922 at Washington failed to give a complete measure of relief to a war weary world. A totally unexpected competition set in among naval architects in the production of numerous and very formidable cruisers. These vessels were so heavily armed, so swift and so well protected as to constitute a factor of extreme importance in any comparison of fleets. It was some time before the existence of the problem, and its dangers and difficulties became apparent. Various efforts were made toward its solution, but they seemed to lead to no result, and the leading naval powers were rapidly drifting towards an impasse, with the prospect before them of a renewal of the wasteful competition and crushing expenditure which had been temporarily arrested at Washington.

"This dangerous possibility was averted at London. The assiduous labors started in 1927 at Geneva were not without fruit, but paved the way for a welcome measure of disarmament. An understanding was reached between Japan, the British commonwealth of nations, and the United States to put an end to competitive building in all categories of auxiliary combatant vessels.

"One cannot but feel that the moment is favorable for a wide extension of the policy of disarmament embodied in this treaty. Now that the pact of Paris, initiated by M. Briand and Mr. Kellogg, has definitely outlawed war, it is clear that any breach of that solemn engagement must rally the whole world against the aggressor. Whether other powers come forward to offer active help or not, it is hardly conceivable that they would allow the pledge breaker to interfere with their trade and to enjoy the other privileges of a lawful belligerent."

MISS PATTERSON SETS PHILADELPHIA-N. Y. AIR RECORD FOR WOMEN

Roosevelt Field, L. I., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Miss Alicia Patterson, daughter of Joseph Medill Patterson of Chicago, landed here today flying her new Speedwing Laird from Philadelphia and set a new record for women pilots for the distance. She touched her wheels and rolled to a stop 40 minutes and 15 seconds after taking off from Philadelphia.

Miss Patterson, who was one of the first women in America to win a transport license, soon will take her plane on an attempt to lower the women's transcontinental records, both ways, now held by Mrs. Keith Miller. She said on landing that she had to buck a strong head wind on the way here and that weather conditions would delay her start on the round trip speed flight to the Pacific coast for another week at least. Meanwhile she will attempt to lower several intercity records here in the east.

Bandits Steal Cash and Cashier from Rail Terminal

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Two holdup men forced an assistant cashier for the Pullman company to leave his cage in the Pennsylvania railroad terminal today and transport a bag containing $1,087 through the terminal lobby to the street.

Francis Tobin, 33, the victim, was forced into a taxicab at the point of a gun and driven to Flushing, where he was dumped out.

Shoots at Burglar and Wounds Woman Neighbor

Mrs. Josephine De Witt, 27 years old, of 1744 Maypole avenue, was shot through both legs last night when she came within the line of fire of John Brown, 1759 Maypole avenue, a Negro, who was shooting at a fleeing burglar.

CUBAN INVENTS NEW AIR BOMB OF HIGH POWER

HAVANA, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Perfection of a new type of bomb to be used in aerial bombardment work was announced today by its inventor, Lieut. Florindo Prieto, Cuban army expert on explosives. The new bomb, of unique design, is made of a compound of chlorate of potash and sugar and weighs 18 pounds.

Tests have been made at the artillery firing range, near Cabana fortress. A bomb dropped from a height of 1,500 feet hit the target on the ground with accuracy and made a hole four feet in diameter and a foot deep.

Fragments of the bomb scattered to a distance of approximately 200 yards. The roof of an electric plant shed, 90 yards from the spot where the bomb exploded, was knocked off and two feet of upright post sustaining it broke off. The new bomb consists of ten parts: Body, fuse, fuse protector, charge chamber, fulminate supporter, rudder, wings, security wire, security shank, and charge.

Slender?
says Mrs. Helen Gebert, 6804 Prairie Avenue, Chicago

"When I went on my Welch's weight control plan, I started giving little Donald Lee a glass a day too. But until then, his progress was not so fast. He's so full of pep now, sometimes it's a problem to know just what to do with him. I can recommend Welch's to any mother."

A busy young mother surely, but a happy one . . . with her child's health and her own slender beauty insured by the Welch two-a-day formula.

Welch's has reduced to a simple, delicious formula the famous "grape cure" for which fashionable women of Europe flock to Montreux, Baden-Baden and other successful weight-control resorts.

You need no longer fear weight, or dread diets if you will serve Welch's as your fruit course at breakfast and dinner.

Now, with Welch's in your refrigerator, you just open a bottle and pour out an abundance of the essential fruit proteins, mineral salts and neutralizing acids that keep your body energized, your color glowing, without adding one ounce to your weight.

Children, too, thrive on these energizing elements.* So do adult workers and thinkers. Guests greatly appreciate this luscious non-fattening drink, served in many fascinating ways.

Try it one month. Serve Welch's as the twice-daily fruit course in your home. The results will thrill you. That is, they will if you make certain to get all the essential health elements* of real Concord grapes which pasteurizing alone brings you. Insist on pasteurized grape juice as processed only by Welch's.

13 BOND ISSUES GET APPROVAL OF EFFICIENCY BODY

Voters Asked to O. K. Chicago Projects.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Approval of all of the fourteen bond issues, except the $14,000,000 state issue, was recommended to the voters yesterday by the bureau of public efficiency. In addition to pleading the merits of each issue the bulletin of the bureau argues:

"It should be borne in mind that this is a good time to make essential or specially desirable public improvements. Municipal bonds can now be sold upon unusually favorable terms, which means a saving in interest charges. Also construction costs are now lower than they have been for some time, so that construction projects should be carried out with much smaller expenditures. Moreover, the expenditure of these bond funds would provide work for many men, and to that extent would relieve the unemployment situation."

Faherty Urges Ogden Project.

Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, issued a statement yesterday urging the $5,400,000 bond issue for completion of Ogden avenue for the reason that it will provide employment. He estimates that "it will provide direct employment for 4,800 men for four months to a year and a half."

On this same improvement the bureau of efficiency says that sooner or later this span over Goose island should be completed, that the city must pay the cost, and that further delay is an injustice to the property owners.

The bureau says "there is urgent need" for the county hospital nurses' home, estimated to cost $2,350,000. The sanitary accommodations of the forest preserves are characterized as "shamefully inadequate," and the bureau favors $2,500,000 for improvements. On the need of $3,500,000 for a new State street bridge the bureau says that the present foundations are in the path of a subway and that they must be removed before a subway is built. The present South Halsted bridge "is operated at considerable risk and to repair it is largely a waste of money," and the bureau recommends $2,700,000 for a new span.

Owners Should Be Paid.

The $4,310,000 to pay public benefits is money to pay property owners for land taken to widen streets. The amount has been determined by the courts and the bureau says that the owners should be paid. The $400,000 to extend Indianapolis avenue will "relieve traffic congestion at one of the worst points in the city," says the bureau.

Also approval is given the $300,000 issue for purchase of a west approach for a new 47th street viaduct under the Illinois Central tracks. The $2,000,000 for street lighting, $500,000 for traffic control lights, the same amount for playgrounds, and the $3,000,000 for the extension of Lincoln park northward are also recommended.

Lueder and Fyffe Will Talk at Luncheon Today

Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder and Colin C. H. Fyffe, attorney, will be the principal speakers today at a formal luncheon of the West Central association of the Union League club. Mr. Fyffe will discuss the proposed amendment to the revenue article of the state constitution, and also the various bond issues which are to be voted on Nov. 4. Mr. Lueder will talk on postal affairs and plans for the new postoffice. Frank J. Birk is president of the West Central association.

Campaign Notes

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick will speak over WLS from 7:30 to 7:45 this evening.

State candidates, including Edward J. Barrett, Walter Nesbit, and Mrs. Eva Batterton, are scheduled as the speakers at the weekly Democratic luncheon at the Sherman tomorrow.

State Senator Harry G. Wright of De Kalb issued a statement protesting against the statement of Lewis that DeKalb county and other Republican counties are in a conspiracy to steal the election from the Democrats.

Albert O. Anderson, Republican nominee for county commissioner, will be given a testimonial dinner tomorrow at the Swedish club, 1258 North La Salle street.

State Senator Edward J. Hughes, Democratic nominee for the board of review, has declared himself in favor of permanent stenographic records of all evidence present on complaints before the board.

Several Democratic candidates will be presented this afternoon at a reception of the Cook county branch of the Illinois Woman's Democratic clubs at the Hotel Sherman.

MONTROSE AVE. WILL CELEBRATE CAR EXTENSION

Fifty members of the Milwaukee-Montrose Avenue Business Men's association met last night at 4402 Milwaukee avenue to plan a three day celebration next month of the opening of an extension of the Montrose avenue car line from Knox avenue to Milwaukee avenue.

Dr. Henry J. Wieland, president of the Montrose Improvement association, reviewed the community's 17 year fight for the extension in an address at the meeting.

Tracks for the extension have just been laid and the Surface Lines has announced that the first car will be run over the tracks on Nov. 15. The business men's celebration will be held from Nov. 13 to 15. Edward A. Karge is president of the association.

LEWIS REPORTS $14,617 SPENT IN RACE FOR SENATE

He Puts Up $2,500; Cermak, $3,000.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic senatorial nominee in Illinois, has received contributions totaling $14,050 and expended $14,617.73, according to a report filed by him today with the clerk of the senate. Mr. Lewis was one of about 30 senatorial candidates in various states to file reports under the law requiring such statements not more than 15 nor less than 10 days before the election.

Contributions to the Lewis campaign fund included a personal donation of $2,500 by the candidate, $3,000 by A. J. Cermak, $1,400 by Robert Carr, $1,000 each by the Democratic national committee, Edward Landsberg, and Richard Folsom, $500 each by Sol H. Goldberg, M. A. Traylor, and Edward Russell, $300 by Stanley Field, $250 by R. W. Stewart, $200 each by T. J. Webb, Albert Hopkins, C. K. Knickerbocker, and Jarvis Hunt.

Among expenditures were $1,307.96 for printing, $1,000 to the Illinois Veterans' league for headquarters at Springfield, $950 for salary to Leopold Neumann, secretary of the German-American Liberty league, $589.58 to Mr. Neumann for "expenses and supplies."

A number of Illinois candidates for representatives in congress filed reports of contributions and expenditures with the clerk of the house.

Frank L. Smith, Republican nominee for representative at large, reported expenditures of $2,077.50 but no contributions. Representative Richard Yates, Republican nominee for reelection as representative at large, reported expenditures of $953.

Peter C. Granata, Republican nominee in the Eighth congressional district against Representative Stanley H. Kunz [Dem.], reported contributions of $1,121 in the form of proceeds of a picnic, and expenditures of $1,203.

Representative Carl Chindblom, Republican nominee for reelection in the Tenth district, reported no contributions and expenditures of $66.

JUDGE M'GOORTY HONOR GUEST AT DINNER TONIGHT

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court will be guest of honor at a banquet tonight in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house. The testimonial to the chief justice's fight against crime and racketeering was originally sponsored by De La Salle council No. 282 of the Knights of Columbus, of which Judge McGoorty is a member. Members of various civic organizations, who have aided Judge McGoorty in his war on crime, have been invited to attend the banquet. Lawrence Reardon, who has charge of arrangements, said yesterday that he expected more than 2,000 persons. James Joseph Kelly, a master in chancery, will act as toastmaster.

STREET CROWD HEARS SOCIALIST SENATE NOMINEE

George Koop, Socialist nominee for United States senator, addressed a loop crowd during the noon hour yesterday, while the candidates of the two major parties were holding meetings in nearby theaters on Randolph street.

When Mr. Koop mounted a refuse box a policeman ordered him to move on. "I am the Socialist candidate for the senate," Koop said, pointing to the crowds going in to hear the other candidates. He was permitted to make his address.

"Gerard was right when he named 64 men as the real rulers of this country," said the Socialist. "We will be governed from behind the scenes as long as working men and women continue to vote the old party tickets.

"If elected I would be the mouthpiece of the working people of Illinois, and the powers that be would say: 'This is a revolution by ballot, and we had better increase wages and shorten hours so the workers can consume what they produce so tremendously in this age of machinery.'"

FINAL WEEK OF CAMPAIGN BEGUN BY MRS. O'NEILL

Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, independent candidate for senator, opened the final week of her campaign last night with a meeting at the Woodlawn Baptist church at which she was introduced by Charles Clayton Morrison, editor of the Christian Century.

"I'll go along with the Republican party when it is right and I'll quit it when it is wrong," said Mrs. O'Neill. "I am standing four square for the constitution with the 18th amendment, and I'm the only candidate of the three who could take the oath of office without mental reservation or evasion.

"The next national Republican convention will have the question of prohibition before it and whatever decision that convention will make will be influenced by the results in Illinois. The referendum promoted by the city hall politicians will probably go wet, but the real poll of the dry strength will be the vote given me. The more I see of the chaos and confusion the more I think I'm the safest bet for the people."

RUTH McCORMICK TEARS INTO FOES AT LOOP RALLIES

Opens Final Week of Drive for Senate.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Ruth Hanna McCormick dwelt yesterday upon the "new Siamese twins" in politics as a product of Mayor Thompson's indorsement of James Hamilton Lewis. In two noonday loop meetings and at Rockford at night, in opening the hectic final week of the campaign, Mrs. McCormick took off her gloves and waded into the mayor's acts of Sunday in stationing police at colored churches to distribute pro-Lewis literature.

"Here we have," she said, "Mayor Thompson, who has 'America First' and 'Crack King George on the Snoot' as his mottoes, hand in hand, with J. Ham Lewis, the most frenzied advocate of our joining the league of nations."

Rips Into the Mayor.

At the Apollo theater at noon the Republican nominee for senator spoke of the Sunday activities of the police as political tract distributors.

"The mayor," she said, "found no difficulty in mobilizing our police force to peddle Lewis handbills, but he and his entire force of policemen cannot find Al Capone."

Mrs. McCormick said the mayoralty next spring is behind the "Thompson-Lewis alliance."

"Let the citizens remember," she said, "that a vote for the Anti-Saloon league candidate is a vote for J. Ham Lewis for senator. Let them remember now also that a vote for J. Ham Lewis for senator means a vote for Bill Thompson for mayor."

Blistering Windup Seen.

Noonday rallies are to be held again today at the Grand and Apollo theaters, and the campaign now seems moving to a blistering windup on both sides.

"I want to talk about a new element of danger," said Mrs. McCormick in opening her onslaught. "William Hale Thompson wants to be mayor of Chicago. He wants to get recruits from the Democratic ranks because he knows he will need them if he is ever to be reelected. He wants to win greater favor than ever he has enjoyed from Tony Cermak, Democratic leader. So Bill Thompson, presumably a Republican mayor of the country's second city, declares for a Democrat, J. Hamilton Lewis, for senator.

"In making his announcement, Mr. Thompson does me a real favor, for he tells the public that he has not been for me politically in two years and that I have not been for him. I would like to amend that statement by saying that he has never been for me and that I have never been for him. We do not think alike politically.

Mentions His False Attack.

"Mr. Thompson, a week ago, caused to be printed hundreds of thousands of circulars containing a malicious and false attack upon my late husband, Medill McCormick. He laid copies of this document on the desks of each member of the city council at the meeting last week. Having thus declared himself for the head of the Democratic ticket in Illinois, he went further, and yesterday, Sunday, he used the policemen of thirteen south side districts to distribute that pro-Lewis handbill to the men and women attending more than 600 colored churches.

"Hundreds of our policemen, taken from their regular duties, were forced to carry these dodgers to the church doors and hand them to citizens who do not agre with Mayor Thompson that a Democrat should be sent to the United States senate from Illinois.

"Our mayor undoubtedly knew that when he used the police force of Chicago in a purely political service—in this case a personal political service—he violated the civil service law and committed an indictable offense. But that did not deter the chief executive of our great city.

"Today Mr. Thompson is advertising that he has $100,000 in cash ready to give to ward leaders for the purpose of manning the polls on Nov. 4. The larger wards will receive $3,000, he says.

"But he puts one condition upon the distribution of this money. He is telling the ward leaders that they must first pledge that they will mark their ballots against Ruth Hanna McCormick. 'I am a Republican,' he says, 'but I want you to vote for a Democrat for United States senator. If you will agree to that, I will pay $100,000 to be used on election day.'

"What does Mr. Lewis think of that busines proposition? I am not going to ask what the people of Chicago think of Mr. Thompson and the use of his policemen and his $100,000 in cash, to be laid down on the signing of a pledge to make a mark for a Democratic candidate on a Republican ballot. I know what they think. I know that the citizens of Chicago and Cook county are pleased that Bill Thompson has given them the early opportunity to express on Nov. 4 their opinion of him and all his works."

LOTTIE O'NEILL HIS MAIN RIVAL, LEWIS ASSERTS

Prohibition Is Big Issue, Audiences Told.

James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic nominee for senator, declared last night that prohibition is the great issue of the campaign and that the contest now lies between him and Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, independent with Anti-Saloon league support. He spoke at the Midway Masonic temple and at Guyon's Paradise at night and at noon addressed a loop rally at the Garrick theater.

During the day Mr. Lewis received the indorsement of the Illinois division of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, of which Ralph M. Shaw is president.

"I now treat this contest," Mr. Lewis said at his Midway meeting, "as one between the competent lady, Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, who is a representative of the continuance and administration of the eighteenth amendment upon all the states, and myself, who am an advocate of the state's taking the control of the temperance and prohibition to itself, according to what it shall decide. In other words, the issue is between national domination of the states and a state administration to exclusion of the federal government.

Mrs. McCormick No Issue.

"This brings you to recognize that I treat Mrs. McCormick as representing no issue on the prohibition question. At present the prospective vote for Mrs. O'Neill has displaced Mrs. McCormick as the principal contender and settled her in third place, which presents to you whether you will select a candidate who has no issue and wishes to leave to you to determine what her issue ought to be—if she is to have any.

"I want you people to know that the democracy is submitting to you the referendum that is the only kind that brings a final decision. It is that you decide under the second provision of the eighteenth amendment what kind of legislation by your legislature of Illinois would, according to your judgment, properly execute the eighteenth amendment and the state temperance laws, under the eighteenth amendment, while you reserve to yourselves the naming of the officials who shall execute your laws where you will retain the right to dismiss them for incompetence or corruption.

Wants States to Rule.

"By this system you rid yourselves of the official named by appointment at Washington. Also I wish to have you designate the form of government you think will best execute a complete system of home temperance and state prohibition where the expense and tax shall be the minimum and rescue you from the great tax, totalling hundreds of millions, that is now put on you by the national administration.

"To all of this we ask you to add that which is my part of the work: an act of congress which will provide against any state invading or trespassing on the prohibition and temperance policy of any other state. This will be executed by the officers who will serve on the borders of these different states, just as you have today the system in the protection of agriculture against the crossing of the border of certain noxious plants or destructive vermin—or the fruits, vegetables or plants from such localities attempting to pass to other states.

"And now I wish to demand that you authorize the democracy to go into control at Washington and expend the necessary sums from the treasury as it will at once open our waterway, build our postoffice, construct the soldiers' hospital and general reparation building. By this alone will we put in Illinois all of those people in our state who are now without employment. And I now tell you that there should be a joint arrangement between Chicago and the national government for the building of wharves along the lake front, where steamers and shipping are destined, in order that our Chicago should be the market place at once for such produce as from the surrounding states will come through the waterway and as a result of the new ship canal."

The indorsement of Mr. Lewis by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment followed a poll of candidates for senate and house at Washington. "Mr. Lewis proved to be the only senatorship candidate to reply to the questionnaire sent out by the association," said Chairman Shaw. "He declared himself unqualifiedly in favor of repeal of the eighteenth amendment and modification of the Volstead act."

The Lewis indorsement was given at a meeting of the executive committee, supplemented by a special committee. R. T. Crane Jr., Stanley Field, B. M. Winston, A. A. Sprague, Barrett Wendell Jr., and Mr. Shaw are the executive committee, and Charles H. Hamill, James G. Condon, Eugene V. R. Thayer, and George A. Ranney compose the special committee.

Surprise them with a Parker Duofold
GUARANTEED FOR LIFE
And they will surprise you
You know some youngster you would like to hear from occasionally—a son or daughter, a nephew or niece. But it's like pulling teeth to get youth to write.
Yet for reasons known to themselves (and to us), giving them the Parker Duofold also is giving them the writing habit.
For one thing, its flashing beauty reminds them to write.
For another, they're proud to pull out this streamlined style-leader in any surroundings. They like its low non-bulging set in the pocket. And its smooth-tipped Pressureless Point takes the chore out of correspondence, and produces a more attractive, more legible hand.
There's nothing else like Parker's Duofold point. It's produced by the aces of point-smiths. It must pass 11 merciless tests before we accept it. Then we pay its maker a bonus in cash.
Guaranteed for Life
Go and balance this streamlined non-breakable classic in your hand. And write with this bonus point beside any other pen you can find.
That will explain why a person can't own a Parker Duofold without feeling the urge to use it early and often.
One caution—look for the imprint, "Geo. S. Parker—DUOFOLD." That guarantess it for life.

The Best Shoe Value at $10.50 in America!
FOR years the shops of I. Miller from coast to coast have been fashion centers for those smart women who are accustomed to pay from $14.50 upward for their shoes.
Yet even with such wide acclaim from these thousands of women, there were thousands and thousands more—young, economical, budget-bound, perhaps — who could not afford to wear $14.50, $16.50, $18.50 I. Miller Beautiful Shoes or I. Miller De Luxe models (although recognizing their intrinsic quality and reasonableness of price). These women wanted to buy their shoes of I. Miller; they liked the inviting atmosphere of the shops; they liked the service, the authoritative fashions, the variety of choice, the style flair for which I. Miller is noted.
Hence, to meet the budget demands of these thousands of women, I. Miller established last May an Ingénue Department within this I. Miller Shop, offering a complete shoeshop service in youthfully-styled slippers at youthful budget prices ($10.50 mainly).
In a short few months, this Ingenue Department has become famous for the extraordinary values which it offers in $10.50 shoes. Women have maintained that in style, in fit, in fashion-correctness and in service, these shoes are the finest obtainable anywhere at $10.50—and many have even gone so far as to say that our Ingénue models at $10.50 compare most favorably with those selling elsewhere at $12.50.
Now for some news: Scores of new styles have recently come in. Thousands of new shoes for the outdoor activities of autumn; low heel models for the fall tailleurs; evening slippers in the current Grecian manner; smart, chic afternoon slippers dulled as Fashion demands. And practically all of them are priced at $10.50—so that all youthful-hearted women may enjoy unlimited style despite a limited budget!

CHICAGO BATTLE ON 3 OFFICES IN FINAL WEEK

Democrats Center Hopes on Local Patronage.

BY PARKE BROWN.

With the headliners—nominees for United States senator, chairmen of organizations, and similar stars—holding the calcium, the little army of candidates for county and other local offices went plugging along yesterday into the final week of the campaign, each hoping to attract favorable attention of the voters.

There was an announcement from Democratic county headquarters that for the final week its efforts will be concentrated on three local offices, those of sheriff, county treasurer, and bailiff of the Municipal court, for which the nominees are Ald. William D. Meyering, Ald. Joseph B. McDonough, and Ald. Albert J. Horan.

"These three offices employ nearly 2,000 persons, practically all of whom are selected entirely with a view as to their political affiliations," read the headquarters statement. This fact is being emphasized in instructions to Democratic precinct captains given by Michael L. Igoe, chairman of the organization committee.

Report Orders to Scratch.

The statement spoke of these three offices as those which "the city hall machine is endeavoring to hold or recapture"; but the latest reports of activity on the part of Mayor Thompson say that he has sent out word to scratch particularly Howard P. Savage, the Republican nominee for treasurer, and Bernard J. Kelly, the nominee for bailiff of the Municipal court.

That the mayor still is standing by Maj. Carlos Ames, the Republican entry for sheriff, was indicated yesterday afternoon when the nominee sat beside him on the rostrum of the city council chamber while the mayor told the assembled employés of the law department that Ames is his candidate.

Following the meeting Corporation Counsel Ettelson verified reports that a collection is being taken among employés of his department as a contribution to the mayor's campaign fund, presumably the same fund that he has offered to ward committeemen if they will desert the head of their ticket, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick.

Ettelson Makes Statement.

A statement issued by Ettelson in reply to published charges that heavy assessments were being levied on employés read as follows:

"Voluntary contributions are being made by some employés of the law department to the county campaign fund. When the money is collected it will be turned in to the county campaign fund and will be paid where the mayor directs.

"The matter arose in this way. A number of employés came to me and suggested that they would like to contribute. A name was mentioned—Breen, Ames, Savage, or somebody else—and I said why not do it in a concerted way for the benefit of the candidates.

"I understand this money will be used in connection with manning the polls on election day. There is no assessment. Contributions are purely voluntary. I expect to contribute a substantial amount myself."

Savage headquarters issued a statement during the day concerning the registration of voters in the Fifteenth ward, where McDonough, Savage's opponent, is the Democratic ward committeeman.

"In that ward 1,500 suspect notices were issued and of the entire number but 150 have appeared for qualification before the election tribunal," read the statement. "Eight suspect notices have been served on the address of 553 West 37th street owned by Joseph B. McDonough and only one has been returned for qualification.

"It is obvious that floaters and repeaters were all set to do business in the 15th ward."

Aim Attack at Jarecki.

An attack directed at County Judge Jarecki was issued in pamphlet form by a committee supporting Municipal Judge William E. Helander for Jarecki's post. Among the names signed were few that are widely known in political or civic affairs.

"Judge Jarecki," read a concluding paragraph, "has not been able to enforce the law or to guarantee to the people of Cook county honest elections. The law gives to the county judge ample power to conduct honest elections and Judge Jarecki and the election commissioners whom he appointed have had ample appropriations to enforce the law, but his administration has steadily deteriorated, and it is plain that he is unable to cope with the conditions that confront him."

In his speeches last night President Cermak of the county board attacked the Republican state administration for extravagance and for proposing the pending amendment to the revenue article of the state constitution.

"There is only one way to answer this impudent attempt of the governor to impose additional tax burdens upon the already overtaxed people of Chicago," he said, "and that is first to put a cross in the Democratic circle as an indication of general resentment of Republican misrule and then to put a cross opposite the word 'No' in the first column where the governor's amendment appears."

Reich Attacks "Alliance."

Cermak's Republican opponent, Otto F. Reich, brought the name of Al Capone into the campaign for the first time.

"Under the present county bi-partisan arrangement," he said, "civic affairs have become so rotten that Al Capone has become Chicago's best known citizen. To redeem Chicago's reputation and restore honest, efficient government, we must repudiate this alliance of political parties by placing a Republican at the head of a Republican county board."

TWO CIGAR STORES ROBBED.

Three armed men yesterday obtained $200 from each of two United Cigar stores at 3158 West Harrison street and 3539 Roosevelt road.

MOSES REPORTS TO PRESIDENT ON G. O. P. SENATORIAL CONTESTS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Latest reports on senatorial election contests were placed before President Hoover today by Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.], chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee. The President is understood to have summoned Senator Moses to Washington. The conference continued for more than an hour.

Senator Moses, who usually is talkative on political prospects, remained silent after emerging from the White House and showed irritation when questioned as to the likelihood of the loss by the Republicans of a number of senate seats. After leaving the President Senator Moses went to headquarters of the Republican national committee, where he conferred with Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee.

The White House conference emphasized the keen interest which the President is displaying in the campaign. Despite his refusal to take a hand in the campaign publicly through the indorsement of individual Republican nominees or even through an appeal for the election of a Republican congress the President has been in close touch with the party campaign managers and has had much to do with the determination of policies.

While the President is not participating publicly in the campaign his cabinet members are becoming increasingly active. Virtually all of the cabinet members either already have spoken in the campaign or will do so this week.

Announcement was made today that Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson will speak tomorrow night in behalf of Charles H. Tuttle, Republican candidate for governor of New York.

gateway entrance to the estate and thrust into an automobile. Witnesses later said they remembered seeing a car parked near the gate and two men sitting inside.

After a lapse of some time Mrs. Yocum became alarmed. She called for her husband and then attempted telephoning. This discovery was then made that the telephone wires had been cut on a pole at the southwest corner of the estate by a person who had climbed the pole with telephone lineman's creepers.

The Yocum home is on the edge of the city. The estate is heavily wooded and surrounded by a high brick wall. The kidnapers had many natural advantages in seizing the banker, the investigators pointed out.

Police Approve Paying Ransom.

A marked resignation was shown by the authorities concerning the abduction. Chief of Police Tate Aman, guarding the gateway, voiced a vigorous approval of Mrs. Yocum's decision to pay ransom.

"Why they're a terrible bunch, that gang," said the chief solemnly. "If you didn't do what they said, they'd come down here and blow this big house to pieces. No sir, you can't afford to trifle with those tough fellows."

State's Attorney Carl A. Melin drove over to the scene and was discovered looking at the gateway with interest. He hurriedly disclaimed any intentions of violating Mrs. Yocum's wishes.

"I just needed the airing and thought I'd drive over," said Mr. Melin, and drove off.

Among the banker's acquaintances a similar disinclination toward attempted capture and punishment of the kidnapers was evidenced.

"What is $50,000 to him, compared to his health and maybe his life," said one. "Those fellows are professionals. Look how smoothly they've pulled all these kidnapings. You can't do anything about it."

SENATE BATTLE IN RHODE ISLAND IS HARD FOUGHT

Candidates Avowed Wets; Referendum Slated.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Providence, R. I., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Rhode Island is an exceedingly doubtful state in the congressional election this year. The contest between Senator Jesse H. Metcalf, Republican candidate for reëlection, and his Democratic opponent, former Senator Peter Goelet Gerry, is close, with the decision resting with the French-Canadian population, which holds the balance of political power in this state.

It looks, however, as if the drys are about to lose another vote in the senate, whether Mr. Metcalf or Mr. Gerry wins the senatorship—in fact, two votes, if Rhode Island goes wet in its referendum.

Runs on Repeal Platform.

Mr. Gerry is dripping wet and is running on a Democratic platform declaring for repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Mr. Metcalf has voted dry in the senate and he entered the race for reëlection as a dry running on the Republican platform, which committed him to abide by the result of a referendum in this election on the question of repealing the eighteenth amendment.

It was not long, however, before Mr. Metcalf discovered that he would be snowed under if he remained dry. Mr. Gerry, raising hopes of a speedy restoration of beer and wine, was clearly running away with the ball in the industrial centers, largely populated by the French-Canadians. It was true that Mr. Gerry was defeated for the senate two years ago, when Al Smith carried Rhode Island by 1,451 votes, but that was because Mr. Gerry's opponent, Felix Hebert, was of French-Canadian parentage.

Declares for Repeal.

Mr. Metcalf was confronted with a condition, not a theory, and he acted promptly to stem the tide that was running against him. He turned wet. He made a public statement declaring for repeal of the eighteenth amendment in which he said:

"By the very nature of the constitution the federal government should, with the assistance of the states, guarantee to the people and the states freedom from the annoyance of liquor law violations. Instead, we have created a cumbersome police power within the federal government which has invited much corruption, and which, to my mind, is doing more to lower the moral tone of the American community than it is doing to lift it up to a higher plane.

"The growing disrespect for law which this generation is experiencing will naturally be handed down to our children. I believe it would be unfair and unwise of the adults of this generation to hand down to our children a government fraught with the dangers brought into existence by the 18th amendment to the constitution.

Favors State Control.

"After ten years of observation of national prohibition, I have concluded that better social results can be obtained with regard to the traffic and consumption of alcoholic beverages by return of control to the states."

He wound up by saying that this is a statement of his personal position and that it does not alter his commitment to abide by the result of the Rhode Island referendum on repeal of the 18th amendment. The general expectation is that the state will declare for repeal, in consequence of which the drys will lose the vote of Mr. Metcalf even if he should be reelected, and also the vote of Senator Herbert, who was elected as a dry two years ago. If Mr. Gerry should be elected the drys will lose one vote, even should the state go dry in the referendum.

Retention Is Issue.

The question propounded to the electorate in the referendum is:

"The 18th amendment to the constitution of the United States; shall it be retained?"

The wets wanted the question to be whether the amendment should be repealed, but the dry influences in the Republican majority of the legislature insisted on the word "retained." The wets immediately charged that the phraseology employed was devised for the purpose of confusing voters. Unobserving persons would vote "yes" thinking they were voting for repeal, though actually voting to retain the amendment.

This explains the "no" clubs which one encounters everywhere in Rhode Island in this campaign. The "no" clubs have been organized by the wets to educate voters to vote no in the referendum and thereby vote for prohibition repeal.

Mrs. Gerry Takes Stump.

The French-Canadians are independent in politics. One year they go Republican, another year Democratic. Both parties recognise that this element of the electorate will decide this election and are vying with each other in catering to its favor. Mrs. Gerry, who formerly was Mrs. Edith Stuyvesant Vanderbilt, speaks French fluently and is delighting audiences of French-Canadian mill workers at Woonsocket and throughout the Blackstone valley my addressing them in their native tongue. Few of these mill workers can speak or understand English.

PHILOSOPHER TESTS HIS FAITH IN HUMAN NATURE—AND LOSES

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Will Durant, who has written books telling why people are the way they are, recently bought a farm at Woodstock, N. Y., from George W. Mason for $12,500. He said he accepted without question the statement of Mason, who has since gone to Miami, that the title was free and clear.

Today he sought, in Supreme court, removal of a $2,260 lien against the property he later discovered was held by Mrs. Ida M. Alsberg of Woodstock, Mason's sister.

Decision was reserved.

Wife Wins Divorce from Lester Cook, Former Banker

Mrs. Gladys Cook, 4761 North Luna avenue, yesterday won a divorce and $15,000 alimony from Lester Cook, former vice president of the Jefferson Park National bank, before Circuit Judge Lynch. She charged cruelty and infidelity. Cook is now proprietor of the Norwood inn, a restaurant at 6127 Northwest highway. Mrs. Cook was awarded the custody of their daughter, Joyce Louise, 5 years old. She was represented by Attorney Harry X. Cole.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON
Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.
Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

MIGRATING JOB HUNTER GIVES SALLY PROBLEM

Chicago Unemployed Must Be Helped First.

Two major problems faced Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE and the Illinois Free Employment service, 116 North Dearborn street, yesterday at the beginning of their second week of joint effort to locate jobs for the unemployed. They were:

1. More jobs must be found for men.
2. Chicago's first duty is to her own unemployed, and jobs for those from elsewhere seeking work here will be served only after Chicago citizens are served.

Many from Out of Town.

"We are finding a large increase in applications from the unemployed who come here from the surrounding county to seek work," said Mrs. Lilla H. Walter, acting general superintendent of the Illinois service, at the end of the second largest registration—over 1,000—since the Sally Joy Brown special service was inaugurated. "They must realize that we must give what jobs there are to Chicago citizens first, and there will not be enough jobs to go around."

Mrs. Walter turned to statistics just completed and brought to her desk. These she cited to show that more jobs must be found for the men rather than the women, and that jobseekers migrating to Chicago cannot expect to find work.

Far to Few Jobs.

"The registration for today alone went beyond 4,000, of which more than 800 were men," she said. "During the past week we had 3,587 registrations from men, for whom there were only 412 jobs. During the same period 1,311 women registered, for whom there were 474 jobs.

"There have been more jobs for women than men. It stands to reason that a man, in most cases the breadwinner for a family, should have work. Therefore, we entreat factories, hotels, garages, offices, every one who can possibly make a job for a man to make one."

Mrs. Walter called attention to the coming Christmas season when factories take on extra help. There should be engraving, novelty work, and cream rolling jobs in candy factories to prepare for the Christmas trade, she said. With more conventions in town during the fall and winter season hotels should need more employés. There should be also openings for assemblers and punch press operators.

Turning to a stack of job offers that had been received from Sally Joy Brown Mrs. Walter observed that there seemed to be a slight improvement in the wages offered by housewives for maid and housework service.

Offer More for Maids.

"These are really encouraging," Mrs. Walter said. "Here are several calls for maid service offering $15 a week and room and board. Some others are offering $10 a week and room and board and some $8."

Among the other job offers telephoned to THE TRIBUNE for Sally Joy Brown yesterday was one from a peewee golf course which desired a check girl. Two furrier firms wanted fur finishers. A dyeing firm wanted an inspector. The V. O. N. firm wanted an experienced electrician and M. F. & Co. three experienced men for cabinet work. Mrs. H. telephoned for a male nurse to care for a sick man, and Mrs. S. W. needed a man to chop wood. There was also a call for a boiler maker.

Think over your jobs, business man or householder. If you don't have a job for an unemployed man, suggest it to your neighbor. Call Sally Joy Brown at Superior 0100. She will send the offer to the Illinois Free Employment Service. From the hundreds of waiting men and women you will find a competent worker.

WOMAN ROBBED OF GEMS.

Mrs. Charles Saperston, 7661 Sheridan road, was robbed of two diamond rings valued at $1,700 yesterday afternoon by a bandit who stopped her in the hallway of her apartment building.

220 U. S. Cities to Raise 55 Million to Care for Jobless

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—(AP)—President Hoover was told today that human suffering was appearing in the large industrial centers where the hands of willing workmen were idle in the unemployment crisis.

After a country-wide study of the situation, Allen Burns, executive director of the National Association of Community Chests and Councils, reported to the chief executive that steps were being taken to prevent any one freezing or starving during the winter.

"Already," he told Mr. Hoover, "there is much human suffering in large industrial centers. Through the efforts of the several governments and relief organizations, no one is going to freeze or starve this winter."

Urge Industry to Assist.

Financial programs of 220 cities having community chests have been increased about 7 per cent to care for the larger number of the needy, Burns said. About $55,000,000 is to be raised. Burns made his report as the President's emergency committee for employment began its regional work of obtaining jobs and urging industry to assist in finding them.

Fred C. Croxton of Columbus, O., took up the study of the situation in Ohio and other great lake and midwestern states where conditions were reported by Burns to be serious. The Ohioan will return to Columbus tomorrow with Dr. R. M. Gries, construction expert of the commerce department, to discuss with superintendents of state and city employment offices plans for finding work.

Approving a plan proposed by the New England council at Boston calling for the voluntary registration of persons wanting work, the committee forwarded the recommendation to six state manufacturers' associations in New England.

For Most Needy Workers.

The committee was advised that the industrial section of the forthcoming sixth New England conference in Boston, beginning Nov. 20, would devote itself exclusively to development of a program to mobilize all available work for the most needy workers.

The war department gave impetus to the relief measures by approving a plan of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company to deepen the lower reaches of Sauk river and Port Washington harbor on the west shore of Lake Michigan in Wisconsin. The entire project calls for an outlay of about $25,000,000 in construction.

PENNILESS U. S. STUDENT DROWNS SELF IN SEINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 27.—Another tragedy in student life on the left bank of the Seine, traditionally the home of penniless intellectuals, was revealed today when the body of Austin B. Blair, 31, a law student from Cambridge, Mass., was fished out of the river. A preliminary investigation by police indicates Blair committed suicide because of poverty and loneliness. The student occupied a dingy garret in a small hotel near Sorbonne university, where he was completing his studies.

His landlady declared that he was virtually starving a great part of the time and was often unable to pay his hotel bill for weeks at a time. A week ago Blair told his landlady that he was going to the American Express company to obtain some money to pay his bill. Apparently the expected check did not arrive, and the student in a moment of despair decided to drown himself.

According to the landlady, Blair was absolutely alone in the world. His only friend was a young Russian student. He worked at all hours of the night and day, occasionally relieving the strain by going on violent sprees lasting two or three days.

RAILROAD DENIES PINCHOT CHARGES IN PENNSYLVANIA

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The board of directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad company today took cognizance of charges made against it and its officers in the present political campaign in Pennsylvania, principally by Gifford Pinchot, the Republican candidate for governor, by issuing a statement to stockholders, its employés, and the public, denying the various charges made.

W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, recently resigned as a member of the Republican national committee, giving as a reason that he could not support the entire Republican state ticket. Before and after that action Atterbury has been attacked by Pinchot, who in one speech referred to the railroad president as "my arch enemy."

Pinchot Not Mentioned.

The statement issued by the directors, which does not mention Pinchot, but quotes some of his declarations, said that "charges against the Pennsylvania railroad and its officers have been recklessly and repeatedly made and are receiving wide publicity. The integrity and good faith of the management have been impugned and the effort has been made to place the company in a false and unjust light before the general public, the owners of the securities, and its employés.

"It has been accused of delinquency in its obligations to the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, of neglect and discrimination against the city of Philadelphia, of permitting the funds of the city to be used for the improvement of the company's property, and of dictating to its employés how to vote.

Wants "Truth Known."

"In order that the truth may be known," the statement says, "these false charges against the Pennsylvania Railroad company and its management, together with actual facts in relation thereto, are summarized."

The statement then denies a declaration that the company does not pay taxes in Philadelphia and adds that the amount of such taxes paid was $1,564,232 for this year; denies the railroad is spending $50,000,000 for Jersey City port facilities, and states it has been instrumental in bringing steamship lines to Philadelphia.

Denial is also made that company employés are coerced with respect to their votes.

PINCHOT SUIT TO CONTROL FUNDS OF G. O. P. DENIED

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The petition of Gifford Pinchot, Republican candidate for governor, and his associates who sought to prevent the Republican city committee from collecting and distributing campaign funds and to prevent the issuance of watchers' certificates to that body was dismissed today by Common Pleas court.

Judge William C. Ferguson, who with Judge Raymond MacNeille, handed down the decision, characterized the petition as "scandalous, impertinent and frivolous in the extreme."

S. Davis Wilson, city campaign manager and counsel for Pinchot, announced that an appeal would be taken at once to the state Supreme court.

Acidity Slams More Doors than Temper!

"Touchy" and grouchy husbands are often only sick men! It's acid in their systems speaking when they bark and growl.

Acidity is due to our unnatural eating, excessive smoking and irregular hours. The excess acid causes acid indigestion with gas, sourness and burning. It sets up putrefaction and fermentation in the intestines which spreads poisons through the system and often results in sick headaches, nervousness, irritability and depleted energies.

A remarkable new corrective of acidity has been developed by a famous 100-year-old pharmaceutical house in Germany.

This new acid corrective comes in the form of a small, white tablet called Magnesia Oxoids, which do not have to be chewed, but may be swallowed whole. Magnesia Oxoids, upon contact with the acid in the stomach, generate nascent, or active, oxygen. Now, as any doctor will tell you, active oxygen, when created with in the digestive tract, does just the things required for acidity. It stimulates the secretion of the alkaline mucus. It checks putrefaction and fermentation in the intestines. It stimulates the activities of the intestinal walls and aids the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to a real correction of acidity.

Make This Acidity Test

See for yourself how much acid has to do with your indigestion, your crabby spells, your blue days and sleepless nights. Make this acidity test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen's Drug Stores, Economical Drug Stores, or any other reliable druggist. Take two after each meal. Note the pick-up in your pep and vigor. Mark the new peace in your stomach and nerves. If, after taking one-tents of one bottle, you don't notice a decided improvement in your spirits and health, return the bottle to your druggist and he will refund your money.—Advertisement.

GOOD FELLOWS, THESE ARE FOLK YOUR GIFTS HELP

Typical Cases of Needy Families Are Listed.

Here are reports from social agencies on some typical families that are being helped through the winter by Good Fellows, who are continuing to mail checks and pledges to THE TRIBUNE:

The Central Charity bureau [Catholic] recommends aid for Mrs. E., a widow with five children. The oldest child, a boy of 19, has been supporting the family since the death of his father, but the youth is now out of a job. The other children range in age from 14 to 8.

Mrs. E. is receiving medical care at a charity hospital. She is not able to do more than the household tasks. She is receiving $12.25 worth of fuel and food a month from the county and, according to the Central Charity bureau, will need $91.97 a month from some Good Fellow to keep her family together this winter.

Family Needs $141 a Month.

This charity agency also reports the case of M. and his wife and six children. The steel company where he had worked for two years dropped him from the pay roll last June in a general reduction in the factory forces. The children are undernourished and their mother has heart trouble and rheumatism. They need $141 a month.

The United Charities recommend Good Fellow assistance to D., a Spanish-American war veteran, whose wife and six children are without means of support while he is confined in a veterans' hospital due to physical disabilities traceable to war service. They receive a small pension from the government and some help from the county, but $99 more a month is required.

Mother Ordered to Hospital.

Mrs. W., colored, is another United Charities case submitted for some Good Fellow's assistance. Her husband died two years ago, leaving three children besides the widow. Mrs. W. has been sewing clothes in an attempt to support her family, but doctors have ordered her to a hospital for treatment of acute nephritis. The budget for the family of four lacks $76 a month.

The Salvation Army tells of L., a carpenter out of a job since spring, although he has a record of being a good worker. He has a wife and six children, the oldest 11 years old and the youngest 2 months. The wife is ill, due to improper care at childbirth two months ago. The family needs $152 a month for food, shelter, fuel, and clothing.

Owe Grocer and Landlord.

The Salvation Army also recommends to some Good Fellow the case of Z. and his wife and four children. He has been able to work only part time, earning $6 to $14 a week, whereas the minimum requirements under the standard budget are listed at $123 a month for this family. The children are undernourished. The family is in arrears three months' rent at $15 a month, and can get no more credit from their grocer, to whom they owe $20.

One of the Good Fellow cases from the Jewish Social Service bureau is that of B. and his wife and two children, who, due to unemployment, have sold their furniture and crowded into a flat with another family, but are still unable to feed and clothe themselves. They need $85 a month.

The Camp Fire Girls of the John Marshall High school mailed $5 that was earned by the sale of candies they had made. The North Branch Industrial association raised $29.65 for the fund with a dinner. Four Postal Telegraph messenger boys, the oldest under 16, sent $4 and pledged themselves to the same amount monthly. The wife of a radio manufacturer took ten families for the winter. The waitresses in a large restaurant are giving $25 a week. The counter girls in a small department of a large loop store are giving $3 a week. A prominent society woman sent a check for $100.

GOOD FELLOWS!

KYLE MUST GO TO CELL, SUPREME COURT DECIDES

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Fuscan and Joseph Sadlack, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Philip Finnegan.

Lawrence O'Connell, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge G. Fred Rush.

Joseph Kyle, wealthy real estate dealer, will be imprisoned in the Bridewell for two months for reckless driving as soon as the mandate of the Supreme court is delivered to the authorities. State's Attorney Swanson made this announcement yesterday when he revealed that the Supreme court had affirmed the sentence against Kyle. In addition to the imprisonment Kyle must pay a fine of $100.

Kyle, who once was convicted of manslaughter after his automobile killed an aged farmer, was convicted of reckless driving before Judge Samuel H. Trude in the Municipal court. He was charged with injuring Michael Hober, 3906 Normandy avenue, by driving his automobile into the victim's milk wagon on May 30, 1929.

PRESS HUNT FOR HEAD OF CLOSED REALTY CONCERN

The search for Albert W. Cohn, president of the Robert S. Strauss Real Estate company, on a warrant charging him with operating a confidence game, was pressed yesterday by detectives from the state's attorney's office. The concern went into receivership ten days ago. Bonds and notes to the amount of $2,400,000 may be involved, the detectives said.

The warrant against Cohn was obtained by Albert Lewis, 7612 South Shore drive. Cohn and his secretary, Mrs. Julia H. Lasry, 7822 Essex avenue, are believed to be in New York.

THE MUNICIPAL JUDGES.

THE TRIBUNE publishes today its recommendations for the election of judges of the Municipal court. They are the same as those of the Chicago Bar association with three exceptions.

The three exceptions are Judge Herbert G. Immenhausen, Judge John H. Lyle and Judge Albert B. George. We favor the reëlection of these judges because we hold to the principle that sitting judges should be retained in office unless they have shown lack of qualifications for judicial offices. We believe none of these three judges has shown lack of qualifications.

The bar association committee on candidates finds that Judge Lyle is lacking in the judicial temper. The crime commission of the Association of Commerce, which is in the thick of the fight against organized crime, emphatically indorses Judge Lyle, and THE TRIBUNE does not consider that the at times erratic temperament of Judge Lyle has expressed itself in a manner to disqualify. On the other hand, Judge Lyle's courage and determination to justify the criminal law as a practical instrument of public defense have won the confidence and approval of law abiding citizens and are important reasons for his reëlection. We consider Judge Lyle has shown in a crisis of our effort to destroy the power of organized crime a driving force of the greatest value to the success of that effort—an effort which we regret to say has from top to bottom been altogether too prone to submit to the technical evasions of justice to which resourceful and unscrupulous defense is constantly resorting.

The underworld, the alliance of crime, commercialized vice and corrupt politics, is out to get Judge Lyle. Good citizens should allow no lesser question to shake their determination to meet this assault and defeat it. Judge Lyle has been fighting fearlessly for them. Their cause is his. His cause is theirs. Next Tuesday is the day on which they can show by his reëlection that the underworld and its allies in politics do not rule Chicago.

We think Judge George in the bar primary was the victim of an unfortunate race prejudice and of the fact that there are not many members with colored blood in the association. Neither the vote in his case nor in that of Judge Immenhausen, though for different reasons, represented a fair judgment upon their judicial qualifications, and we think a proper consideration of the wise rule of the retention of qualified sitting judges calls for their reëlection.

The names of candidates for the Municipal court will be found on a separate ballot, and THE TRIBUNE'S recommendations are as follows:

For chief justice, Harry Olson in the Republican column. For associate justices, John J. Lupe, Herbert G. Immenhausen, Edgar A. Jonas, Charles F. McKinley, John H. Lyle, Harry F. Hamlin, Albert G. George, William W. Wilson, and to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Peter H. Schwaba, Alfar M. Eberhardt, all in the Republican column; and John F. O'Connell, Edward S. Scheffler, J. A. Schiller, J. M. Brooks, and to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Philip J. Finnegan, Harold P. O'Connell, all in the Democratic column.

THE POLICE AS POLITICAL AGENTS.

The congregations of the colored people of the south side going to church Sunday morning found uniformed and armed policemen at their church doors distributing circulars with Mayor Thompson's indorsement of James Hamilton Lewis, the Democratic candidate for the United States senate. Ministers who were displeased were unable to stop the proceedings and in at least one instance a remonstrance had to be made against policemen entering the church. The police said that their orders were from the mayor and that they had no discretion.

The people of Chicago have become accustomed to strange and threatening conduct in the present mayor of Chicago, but this use of the police would indicate that his friends have lost all control of him. The political use of public employés is nothing new, although it is kept as much under cover as circumstances will permit, but the spectacle of uniformed police with their revolvers in their holsters stationed at church doors to give armed authority to the distribution of a campaign document is strange beyond credibility.

The open use of the police with their power to force themselves upon private property and gatherings of citizens as political agents is a development for the very serious consideration of the people of this city.

AN UNFRIENDLY GESTURE.

A dispatch from Guayaquil reports that a petition of residents of Quito asks the Ecuadorean congress to take steps toward leasing the Galapagos islands to France, Germany or Japan. This action is, of course, a result of recent suggestions in THE TRIBUNE that these islands might be purchased or leased by Americans interested in their preservation as a wild life preserve, under conditions favorable to Ecuador's interests.

The omission of the United States from the petition has a significance which is plain enough. We know there is persistent and organized intrigue against the United States in South America aimed at creating ill feeling and thus profiting our trade competitors. This has fashioned the bogy of North American imperialism and persistently misinterpreted our actions, our intentions, and our spirit.

We trust neither the congress of Ecuador nor its people shares the spirit which actuates this affront to a friendly nation, from which Ecuador, it is not improper upon such occasion to recall, has received some substantial proofs of good will. In Guayaquil, at least, that good will should not be so soon forgot.

REFLECTIONS AFTER NAVY DAY.

The naval and military forces of the United States are now going through the process of reduction which has followed each of our great wars. We are the only great nation, except, in lesser degree, the British, which responds in this manner to the natural reaction the sacrifices of armed conflict bring. The contrast is notable at this time. With the exception of Germany and in some respects Great Britain, the countries of Europe have not reduced armament. Some of them have substantially increased it since the war. France is much stronger relatively than in 1914, and probably Italy. Europe is full of armies, and when the United States brought about at the Washington conference a cessation of capital ship building the other naval powers signatory immediately shifted and in fact increased and accelerated expenditure in other important categories.

For example, in the years following that historic sacrifice of American power and position, up to 1930, the United States laid down only three submarines while Great Britain was laying down 19, Japan 35, France 67, and Italy 32. Destroyer building showed about the same parallel, the United States building none, Great Britain 22, Japan 47, France 48, and Italy 37. If it is objected that the United States had already a preponderance in this type because it had built to meet its special rôle in the war, the fact remains that its destroyer fleet was receding through age, while the foreign fleets were being modernized. In cruisers by 1929 the United States was tied for third place with 8 to Great Britain's 15, Japan's 15, France's 8, and Italy's 6.

Pacifists who are always demanding that we set an example in disarmament have ignored this exposure of their pet fallacy, but the American people should not. There is no record in history of a sacrifice of strength such as the United States voluntarily made at the Washington conference, but it had the opposite effect from that which pacifists ask us to rely upon. Armament increased in every great country save our own, and our relative position rapidly receded and our sacrifice not only failed dismally as an example but weakened our influence for bringing about the reduction pacifism is demanding in season and out regardless of circumstances.

Still we persist. At London we agreed to further limitations of naval force by which France and Italy promptly refused to be bound. Mr. Hoover assures us the agreement of Great Britain to the principle of parity in fleet strength was a great victory for us, although it is conceded and incontestable that we could outbuild her or any other power. But parity does not now exist, because of our sacrifice at Washington and our policy since, while the actual disposition of Mr. Hoover at this moment, if report is credible, seems to be to reduce our existing naval and military forces. This is advancing to parity, in Hamlet's phrase, "like a crab backward." The naval power of Great Britain is still easily preponderant over ours, not merely in the vital elements of bases and merchant marine of military value, but in ship strength. The naval power of Japan has been and is increasing both relatively and positively. Both France and Italy are advancing. But if we disregard official pronouncements and regard action our government is bent upon independent reduction of both the naval and military forces of the United States.

Economy of public expenditure is very acceptable to the taxpayer at this time, and the American nation is never fond of spending money on national defense. But we find it difficult to follow a policy which, while urging private employers to keep up employment and spend until it hurts, proposes the discharge of thousands of trained men in the army and navy and the drastic reduction of expenditure by the government on national defense—a policy which while announcing the achievement of parity as a great diplomatic victory marches away from it. If the President is demanding economy and retrenchment, as the greatest employer in America he is not offering precisely the example he would have other employers follow. If he is reducing the army and navy as an international example he has nothing in experience, recent or remote, to justify him.

Editorial of the Day

WHAT DO THEY CARE?

[Akron Beacon Journal.]

There is anger in Chicago because so many of the government improvement projects which were planned "to give men work" have struck a snag. Last winter it was announced from Washington that the federal government was going to spend tens of millions on public works, including river and harbor improvements and the Chicago postoffice. Meanwhile not a lick has been done on these projects. They are not yet advanced to the blue print stage. All because the bureaucratic chiefs who have the enterprises in charge will not snap out of it and put men, dredges and steam shovels to work.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is on good ground in taking a whack at the system which palsies the government's efforts to provide unemployment relief. It says the theory that "slack can be taken up by public works and that relief can be had from this reservoir can't survive experience with bureaucracy as revealed here. The personnel of bureaucracy at Washington is untouched by any of the hardships common to other communities. The government pay roll, outside the army and navy, is secure. The bureaucrats pursue the routine of their indifference and incompetence unmoved by appeal. The machinery of government turns and turns, getting nowhere and doing nothing. Emergency stops the bureaucratic mind. Exigency paralyzes its functions. It dies in its ruts. Relief could as well be expected from a glacier!"

What can be done about it? A shakeup of tax supported jobholders might help if the engineer in the White House would take down the big stick and use it in quarters where such an awakening is needed. The same corrective would help if applied to some city governments we know.

WHERE YELLOW JACK STARTS.

It seems to have been established that yellow fever was brought to the western hemisphere from the west coast of Africa, south of Sahara. The disease found there is in just the region from which came the slaves who, distributed widely in north, south, and central America, carried with them the seeds of destruction.

The native Negroes there have plenty of it and the mosquitoes which spread it abound. As is the case in America, the varieties of mosquitoes which spread yellow fever breed in or near houses and hang around human habitations. As a rule, they do not get very far from the place where they breed.

Flights of about three hundred yards are ordinarily the limit, though occasionally they go as far as half a mile. This is quite like the behavior of yellow fever mosquitoes on the western continent. The effort just now is to find some species of animal, possibly a wild animal of the forest, which serves as the reservoir for yellow fever.

There seems some likelihood that some animal keeps the disease alive and feeds it to the natives through the mosquito as an intermediary. Infected men, caught and sold as slaves, spread the disease over America.

Another disease, which it is thought might have been brought to America by slaves, is malaria. It is certain that the Indians had little malaria, if any, before the white man came among them, even though there was an abundance of mosquitoes which spread it.

In Africa the west coast region from which the slaves came there is plenty of malaria, and plenty of the kind of mosquitoes which spread it. Whether or not the animals and birds or any of them have malaria in Africa has not been determined. However, we know that in parts of America there is a considerable bird malaria. In Panama Clark has found that the wild monkeys are infected with malaria to a moderate degree. In a recent hunt for infected monkeds he secured specimens of four varieties and, in two of these, the animals were malarial.

Since the same mosquitoes which bite men also feed on monkeys, and since this mosquito prefers the woods to houses, it is possible that infected monkeys are a factor in infecting man. It is also possible that now, having monkeys to experiment on, discovery of malaria cures and preventives may go forward more rapidly.

GUARD AGAINST PLEURISY.

Mrs. C. E. C. writes: Can pleurisy be prevented? Every winter the party referred to has an attack which is very serious. Is there not some kind of bandage or something to be worn?

REPLY.

Why not wear some kind of warm, windproof vest during the cold season?

If you develop pleurisy each winter I think you should be examined for tuberculosis.

Have you thought that your trouble may be rheumatism, or neuralgia of the chest wall, rather than pleurisy?

DANGER TO THE BOY.

Mrs. R. A. F. writes:

1. Three years ago my physician told me I had tuberculosis. I have stayed at home. I do not run a temperature and seldom cough, only when I lie down in the daytime, and then I raise quite a lot. Circumstances have compelled me to sleep with a ten year old boy. Do you think I am a menace to him or to other members of my family?

2. I have gained considerable weight. Isn't that unusual?

3. My doctor said it was chronic. Just what does he mean?

REPLY.

1. You are. If you cannot go to a sanitarium or a hospital, arrange to sleep alone. Above all, keep away from children. Take all other precautions. In many places it is against the law for children to associate with consumptives.

2. Somewhat. It is a good sign so far as it goes.

3. It means that your disease is only slowly progressive. Could you have another thorough examination?

MUST PROVE DAMAGE.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Two months ago I bought a barber shop and in the bill of sale put the following clause:

"It is further understood by and between the parties hereto that said party of the first part is not to operate, or cause to be operated, another barber shop within a radius of one mile from the above described premises for a period of two years."

Could I collect damages if the party of the first part opened another barber shop within 300 feet of my shop? J. R.

Yes, if you could prove such damages.

CINDERS TO REPLACE GLASS.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—[Friend of the People.]—I should like to call your attention to a large hole at the approach to the alley on the south side of Ainslie street between Drake and Central Park avenues. This hole is usually filled with glass. In wet weather it is muddy and the effect is bad on the springs of any automobile. J. S.

Our ward forces have been instructed to fill in with cinders the hole in the macadam pavement on the south side of Ainslie street at the entrance to the alley between Drake and Central Park avenues.

MARRIAGE AFTER DIVORCE.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please tell me how long a divorced person must wait in Chicago before remarrying? H. M.

No delay is required under present Illinois law. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NO SUCH LAW.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A soldier's son, age 14, father deceased but mother living, has gone to spend the winter with his grandmother in Michigan. The law of that state requires nonresidents to pay tuition while attending high school. Is there a federal law to the effect that soldiers' orphans are exempt from payment of such tuition? C. P.

No. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

THE DEMOCRATS VIEW WITH ALARM.

The Democrats are certainly worried; you can tell it from the way they act. They're afraid they're going to get too much and carry not only the forty-eight states, but also Honolulu, Guam, Madagascar, Tasmania, New South Wales, Canada, Mexico, and England, Scotland, and Wales.

The Republicans have played right into their hands by giving the country the new tariff law, the 18th amendment, the lowest lows that the stock market can produce, the drought, the revolution in Brazil, unemployment, peewee golf, early winter, general apathy, winter itch, 78c wheat, the 1930 census, the ambushing of Joe Aiello, the corn borer, the boll weevil, Henry Ford, whooping cough, and the nonappearance of Edith Mason with the Chicago Civic Opera company this season. The Democrats are worried; they never had things presented to them on a silver salver before.

They're beginning to think there's a string tied to something or a trick in it somewhere. Maybe there's been dirty work at the crossroads. The Democrats have been run over by the steam roller so often that they can't believe their luck when they see it. They're going around pinching themselves on the arm to make sure they're awake. The Democrats are all right and perfectly happy when they're licked; they're used to it. But now it looks to them as though the government is going to be handed right over to them. And a lot of people right now say that if that happens they wouldn't try to run it; they'd sublease the damn thing.

WHY?

You went away so casually,
Laughed with me, and then
Held my hand so tightly . . .
But you did not come again.

We had known so many dreams,
Made our plans together,
Down the trails that we should take
In gay and stormy weather.

I pass you on the street sometimes—
You smile and tip your hat.
Some day I'm going to boldly ask
Just why you left me flat.

HELEN WELSHIMER.

WE HATE TO PRINT IT—IT'S SO DOGGONED SAD!

Beverly Smith, who conducts The Lantern in the New York Herald-Tribune, seems to have been the only man in New York who managed to remain calm and set down on paper the thrilling speech of Groucho Marx in introducing Heywood Broun over WABC the other night. Heywood is running for congress (he says) and Mr. Marx made a speech so thrilling, so devastating, so—well, so so—that it would have been denied to posterity as was Abraham Lincoln's famous Lost Speech at Bloomington if old Beverly Smith hadn't kept his self-possession, and, although alternately bursting into frenzied cheers or shaking with convulsive sobs as Groucho spoke, managed to move his pencil over his tear soaked pad of paper, taking the speech down word for word:

"Man and boy I have known Heywood Broun for thirty years. He has also known me for thirty years. This makes a total of sixty years and brings us down to the fiscal year of 1861, when conditions were much as they are now. My father was out of a job at the time, the farmers were complaining about the prices, and the Prices, who lived right next door, were complaining about my father.

"While the other boys in our neighborhood were out stealing apples Broun was home stealing bananas and reading the Congressional Record. This was quite a feat, as the printing press had not yet been invented and a $10 overcoat was considered away up town.

"Two weeks later troops were massed at the border, plowshares were being bitten into plows, and in a little garden a boy who was later to become the Archduke Ferdinand was playing with his tin soldiers, little recking that an assassin's pistol was lying in wait for him. That little assassin, ladies and gentlemen, was Heywood Broun.

"Heywood Broun, the Great White Father of Heywood the Third, first saw the light of day in the sleepy little village of Centerville, N. Y. Three days after he was born he took his carpetbag in hand, stuffed it with marked cards and Marc Connelly, and boarded the steam cars for the big city. At the depot the train went wild with joy as the crowd pulled out, and twenty minutes later a tiny dot appeared in the sky, broke through the clouds, and brought the plane down for one of the prettiest little accidents ever seen on the fields of Mineola. That little accident, ladies and gentlemen, was Heywood Broun.

"When we next clap eyes on Heywood Broun the horse had disappeared. Up and down the Mississippi went the word; from Natchez to Vicksburg, from Cairo to Shreveport, and from Tinker to Evers to Chance sounded the tocsin. A new five cent cigar had made its appearance. Little buzzing knots of idle scoffers speculated; dubbed it the Mississippi Bubble. Little buzzing knots in the cigar made it almost impossible to smoke. 'Broun's Folly,' sneered his opponents. Came the day of the great experiment, clear and windless. On the windless Broun is hoisted into the cockpit of the cigar while a thousand throats are hushed. 'Will it fly?' is the unspoken query in the hearts of the multitude.

"Look, look! Slowly it strains at a gnat, swallows a camel, and rises. It is off, to the roar of a million throats! But in a far corner of the field, with tears in her great brown eyes and a lamp in her throat, a horse is watching. That horse, ladies and gentlemen, is Heywood Broun.

"And so, pupils of the Pratt Street Grammar school, so we have come together here today to observe Arbor day and plant a tree in honor of the great Polish explorer, Heywood Broun. Let us hope that one day the frozen Yukon wastes will give him up. Let us hope that something, at least, will give him up. Perhaps he will give himself up. I gave him up long ago."

PUTTING THE FINISHING TOUCHES ON THE 1930 CANVASS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 28, 1914.

PARIS.—The war ministry's statement says: "In the region to the east of Nancy, between the forest of Bezange and the forest of Parroy, we have assumed the offensive and driven the enemy across the frontier."

LONDON.—The Morning Post correspondent telegraphs from Paris that the insurance companies estimate the damage to Reims at $200,000,000. Over 1,200 civilians were killed in the streets and houses during the months' bombardment, he says.

LONDON.—Neither Paris nor Berlin makes any definite claims that their troops have won the advantage in the battle of west Belgium and northern France. It is admitted that the losses on both sides are the greatest in any single battle in the war.

LONDON.—What is unmistakably a grave revolt against the British government in South Africa has broken out. The colonial office issued a dispatch from the government of the Commonwealth of South Africa stating that the famous Boer general, Christian De Wet, who gave the British so much trouble in the South African war in 1900, is leading a revolt in the Orange Free State, and another well known Boer general, Beyers, heads a similar revolt in the western Transvaal.

OCTOBER 28, 1900.

CHICAGO.—The second great sound money parade is a part of Chicago's history. For nearly six hours yesterday the rumble of wagons and the sharp click of horses' hoofs were heard in the downtown streets. Traffic was at a standstill. Stores were closed, and it was a day devoted to patriotic expression. Careful counting showed 36,423 persons in line as a protest against Bryanism. Four years ago a similar event occurred. The parade was viewed by Senator Hanna and other prominent Republicans from the Grand Pacific hotel. Mayor Carter Harrison looked on from the city hall.

CHICAGO.—As a result of the reign of crime in Evanston, Mayor Thomas Bates wrote a letter to Police Chief Bartram instructing him to order the police to "shoot to kill" any one seen perpetrating a robbery. The letter was prompted by four new attempts of porch climbing and burglary.

PHILADELPHIA.—The last flash of the gridiron season between the east and the west resulted disastrously to the west when Alonzo Stagg's Maroons met George Woodruff's Quakers on Franklin field and were defeated, 41 to 0. The Maroon line crumpled like paper under the sledgehammer blows of Hare, McCracken, Teas, and Gilmore. Chicago's hero was little Jimmy Sheldon. But for him the Quakers' score would have mounted higher still.

OCTOBER 28, 1880.

NEW YORK.—The man who wrote the bogus Garfield letter, Kenward Philp, was arrested and arraigned for malicious libel. He is one of the editors of Truth. He was held in $5,000 bail to appear tomorrow. Experts reported unanimously that the author of an editorial in Truth, headed "Garfield's Death Warrant," was the forger of the letter purporting to come from Gen. Garfield favoring cheap Chinese labor.

WASHINGTON.—Republican headquarters announced that they have made such arrangements for a special train from New York City to carry the antidote to the Chinese letter to the Pacific coast that the antidote probably will arrive in San Francisco a day ahead of the regular train. Chairman Barnum of the Democratic national committee is said to have flooded the Pacific coast with a statement that the New York Truth has made good its promise to prove that Garfield did write the Chinese letter and that he lied when he repudiated it.

CINCINNATI O.—The Hon. E. D. Mansfield, a veteran newspaper writer and author, well known to readers of the New York Times as "Veteran Observer," and to those of the Cincinnati Gazette as "E. D. M.," died at his country home near Morrow, O., in his eightieth year.

JUDGES AS COMMITTEEMEN.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—I would like to see printed the names of all candidates for judge who are now the ward committeemen of their respective parties, or candidates for ward committeemen at the coming election. We all know that most politicians are two-faced, but how can a politician be so two-sided as to be able to protect his party's interests, its henchmen in his own ward, and then be a fair, unbiased judge (possessed of judicial temperament) when one of his own party or his political enemies are brought before him for trial? It is inconceivable that a man who aspires to sit in judgment upon his fellow man, friend or enemy, politically speaking, should also aspire to a position of power, even though he is only a subordinate, taking orders from his superiors in his own political party.

NOBLE EVANS.

GRIMY CERES.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Answering Mr. W. J. Harrison:

None of the smoke affecting Ceres atop the Board of Trade emanates from the building itself, but all from surrounding buildings and particularly the Board of Trade hotel across the street.

GRIMY CERES.

PRECISELY SPEAKING.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Mr. W. J. Harrison writes that the statue on the Board of Trade building is all daubed up as a result of smoke, and he suggests that the building should have installed modern "smokeless boilers." My gosh, Mr. Editor, there it goes again! Not one boiler in the whole city of Chicago smokes. It's the furnace that does that. What? W. H. COUCH,
Financial Secretary the Chief Engineers' Association of Chicago.

COME AGAIN.

Platteville, Wis., Oct. 19.—Through the courtesy of Joseph A. Gartin, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of today has been especially interesting. In making a trip through your plant we saw the comic section being printed. We had no idea of the mammoth job to produce your paper until we visited the establishment. It is simply wonderful!

Mr. Gartin is so well informed and explained every department in such detail that we came home feeling a much keener interest in your paper. I think we shall always enjoy reading it more than ever before. The guide was very particular to make us feel at home and at ease.

We wish to thank your management for a real treat and particularly the gentleman who guided us through.

MR. AND MRS. HOBBS.

STUFFING A COLD.

La Grange, Ill., Oct. 23.—I would like to correct an impression which seems to be prevalent. The original of "Stuff a cold and starve a fever" was "If you stuff a cold you'll have to starve a fever." In its abbreviated form it is poor advice. B. D. WILLIAMS.

THE COST OF LINCOLN PARK GOLF.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—As a taxpayer I protest against the Lincoln park commissioners building another golf course in Lincoln park at Waveland avenue, for the simple reason that the cost is entirely out of proportion to the benefits derived. It will take, say, 300 acres for the fancy course which they are making at somewhere near $350,000 per acre, or $105,000,000. Take 6 per cent on such an investment, plus 5 per cent that the government stands to lose in taxes or a total of 11 per cent per annum, which gives a total of $11,550,000 that the golf course will cost the taxpayers per year. Supposing that the golf course will be used 100 days during a year. That will make the cost $115,000 per day. How much will that make per hole played, not even considering the cost of building the course and its upkeep?

The poor pedestrian has no place to put his weary feet, while some lucky devils are playing golf at the cost of $1,000 per game. Being chased off the grounds at Waveland avenue, the taxpayer goes south, where he finds another golf course taking up all the wide open spaces, so that he has to crawl through a small opening in a viaduct, with the horses and some reckless riders threatening his very life. This is a nice thing to get for our tax money!

From the point of view of sound business sense, a golf course is too expensive in the center of the city.

I hope that some other taxpayers of the Lake View district will join me in starting a lawsuit to compel the Lincoln park board to use our money to better advantage. J. M. ULLMAN.

THE MILWAUKEE COMMUNITY FUND.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—In 1880 an immigrant stepped off the boat and walked down the street. Before he got to his friends he was buttonholed by four different men offering him a job. Don't say we can never have those good old times again. Reduce the taxes and abolish the restraining laws on trade and industry; in short, pattern our laws in that respect to agree with those of the year of 1880 and we will have the same good times again.

The latest estimate places our tax per family at $440. Imagine the government going to every employer and saying, "Here, we want a tax of $440 per year for every many you hire," and you will have what is being done in an indirect way. Is not the high tax one of the things that killed the building game?

The best thing a voter can do is to vote against every increase in taxes or expenditures and he will indirectly gain in the end. HENRY NITSCHE.

$1,600,000 FUND TO AID JOBLESS, PLAN OF GETZ

A community chest of $1,600,000 to provide emergency relief for the destitute and jobless of Cook county alone this winter was the goal set yesterday by George F. Getz, chairman of the governor's unemployment commission.

Mr. Getz discussed financial aspects of his task following a meeting in his office of the Chicago committee of 25, headed by Edward L. Ryerson Jr. He indicated that the drive for the community chest might start within two weeks.

In Mr. Getz' view, solicitation should begin with the capitalists, bankers, big business men and executives, who might be expected to contribute from $1,000 to $25,000. This solicitation could be made by personal calls and by mail.

Will Canvass General Public.

Next the general public would be approached, perhaps during Thanksgiving week, which might be designated "Community Chest" week. Buttons could be sold for 50 cents or $1 each, speakers be assigned to the stages of theaters and movie houses and collections be made in the houses.

Funds raised by the local committee are to be administered by the organized charities, all of which are experiencing a situation far beyond their ordinary means to meet. The fund would be used for sixteen weeks at the rate of $100,000 a week.

His plans, Mr. Getz explained, are subject to approval of the commission's finance committee, upon which will devolve the task of filling the community chest. Mr. Getz and George Woodruff, chairman of the board of the National Bank of the Republic and chairman of the finance committee, were to confer today. Mr. Woodruff expects to summon the finance committee tomorrow or Thursday.

Regarding various methods suggested for reaching the general public in the community chest drive, Mr. Getz expressed approval of the plan of A. J. Cermak, president of the county board, who proposed that county employés be drafted or volunteer to make a house to house canvass, getting signatures to pledge cards.

Mr. Cermak outlined his plan at a noon conference attended by most of the elective and appointive county officials, including State's Attorney Swanson and Judge Jarecki. Representing the governor's committee and organized charities were Mr. Getz and Wilfred S. Reynolds, director of the Cook county council of Social agencies.

Criticism of the Cermak scheme as "impractical," came from Edward R. Litsinger, member of the board of review, who, in coöperation with Ald. Arthur F. Albert, has already set up a relief organization in the Forty-third ward with a donation of $1,000. It was Mr. Litsinger's thought that the ward organizations could perform the relief work not reaching the organized charities.

Wants Central Organization.

At this suggestion Mr. Reynolds claimed the floor and spoke for ten minutes on the necessity for centralizing all relief activities to avoid duplication and waste. Edward J. Kelly, president of the south park board, employés of which have already organized a relief association, then proffered the coöperation of that group to the governor's commission and Mr. Getz.

Answering the criticism of Mr. Litsinger, Mr. Cermak assured the meeting it was his intention to organize the canvass with the approval and under direction of the governor's commission. Thereupon, at Mr. Getz' suggestion, he agreed to appoint a committee of two to work with Mr. Getz and Mr. Woodruff on the plan.

Independent relief organizations were announced yesterday by the Rock Island lines and the Chicago and North Western railway. Under the plans of the roads, which are almost identical in scope, employés will be called upon to contribute to a fund to be administered by a board, representing both the employés and the company.

Thousands to Be in Need.

L. C. Fitch, vice president of the Rock Island lines, estimated the road has about 31,000 employés, of whom between 5,000 and 6,000 will be in need this winter. George B. Vilas, general manager of the North Western, said that carrier's organization numbered about 42,000, of whom about 8,000 will require help. In neither case will the company contribute toward the relief fund, it was stated.

The city council committee on unemployment, to which the mayor appointed five aldermen at a special council session last Wednesday, finally held a conference yesterday. A meeting called for last Saturday was deferred, due to lack of a quorum.

Col. W. A. McIntyre of the Salvation Army, County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, George W. Dixon and George F. Nixon participated yesterday in the dedication of the new lodging house for the unemployed at 509 North Union street. Warm clothing was distributed to some of the men who found shelter at the old building.

MRS. CLARA KAPSON.

Threatening death, an armed prowler held up Mrs. Clara Kapson and her maid in the Kapson home at 816 Independence boulevard yesterday, and after binding them with cord escaped with gems valued at more than $1,000. Mrs. Kapson and the maid, Miss Rose Ginley, 18 years old, came upon the burglar in the dining room. They were forced into another room at the muzzle of a revolver, and trussed. The thief then completed his search, pocketed several rings and fled.

KING OF ETHIOPIA SPENDS MILLIONS FOR CORONATION

ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, Oct. 27.—(AP)—This ancient seat of Ethiopian power today was in the midst of state and religious preparation for the coronation on Nov. 2 of Ras Tafari as emperor.

In order to qualify as "king of kings of Ethiopia," Ras Tafari will personally kill a lion this week. This custom is in accord with the picturesque Ethiopian tradition that no man is fit to govern a gallant and chivalrous people or lead warriors in battle until he has slain at least one of the "king of beasts."

With the arrival of several more foreign deputations, the ranks of delegates of fourteen countries were filling up rapidly. Today was the day of the French envoys. Yesterday the Japanese, Polish, Egyptian, and Dutch visitors arrived. To each was given a truly royal reception in which the gaily decorated capital took part enthusiastically.

Crowns Rest in State.

Day and night bishops and priests pray over the jewel-encrusted pure gold crowns of the emperor and empress. These crowns rest in state in St. George's church, conveyed there on Saturday, according to ritual, by 1,000 Coptic clergymen under guard of long lines of Ethiopian cavalrymen.

When Ras Tafari ascends the golden throne of David, a week hence, as Emperor Haile Selassie I., king of kings of Ethiopia, elect of God, conquering lion of Judah and light of Ethiopia, he will be, according to Ethiopian historians, the 336th sovereign of that empire. These authorities hold that the Ethiopian empire was founded in the 97th year after the creation of the world, which, according to the Ethiopian calendar, occurred 5,500 years before the birth of Christ.

Oldest Royal House in World.

Thus Selassie, by this reckoning, will begin on Nov. 2 the 7,333d year of the reign of the Ethiopian dynasty, which would make it the oldest royal house in the world.

Adam no longer is claimed by Ethiopians as the original ancestor of the kinfs of Ethiopia, modern Abyssinians claiming as their first king Ori, or Aram, the son of Shem, who is mentioned in the book of Genesis.

The first dynasty of Solomon, from which Selassie claims descent, reigned no less than 1,300 years by these authorities, while during the 531 years between the flood and the fall of the Tower of Babel 42 different Ethiopian sovereigns ruled Africa.

Acknowledges Hoover Gift.

Although Ras Tafari would like the outside world to consider him a modern ruler, he still signs himself "Inheritor of the Throne of David, King of Kings and Annointed of God," as evidenced by a letter which he sent today to Addison E. Southard, American consul general at Addis Ababa, acknowledging President Hoover's coronation gift, the American chief executive's autographed photograph.

To make his coronation worthy of a descendant of King Solomon and the queen of Sheba, Ras Tafari is spending $2,000,000 of his own money for imperial crowns, coronation robes, state carriages, triumphal arches, monuments, new roads, special trains, gifts to foreign potentates and bounties to ruling Ethiopian princess. The government is raising another $2,000,000 by special levies upon the population.

Ras Tafari today said he intended to modernize his country slowly and progressively.

Workmen yesterday started to excavate on the site of the projected Randolph street viaduct over the I. C. tracks preparatory to the sinking of caissons to support the viaduct and also the new passenger station which will be erected under it some time next spring. The foundation work is being done by R. T. Hanrahan, contractor.

The new roadway, with automobile lanes, will extend from Michigan avenue at Randolph street east to the Outer drive. Rrom there it is planned to build a new road northward to the Chicago river and another eastward to connect the south end of the new Outer drive bridge. Construction on the latter is being held up for government permission to extend the harbor line.

N. Y. CARS SPEED AT 60 MI. ON "L" PAVED HIGHWAY

First Section of "Street in Air" Exploited.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The first section of Manhattan's $18,000,000 elevated express highway was opened today when a caravan of automobiles, speeding at sixty miles an hour over its granite block pavement, swept from Canal to 22d street, twenty-five feet above the tangled traffic of the west side waterfront.

The mile and one-half link traversed by motor cars for the first time this afternoon will not be ready for general traffic for another three weeks. There remain to be completed the refinements—lights, street markers, decorated guide posts, and several blocks of paving.

Today's opening was for the benefit of the press. The formal ceremony will not take place until Nov. 13, when the highway on stilts will be dedicated to the public and turned over to the taxi drivers.

No Cross Streets.

Headed by Borough President Julius Miller and other city officials, the inspection party in eight automobiles entered the "second story" speedway at Canal street and rolled northward at a breath taking clip untroubled by cross streets or red lights. A steel girder in the center divided the elevated structure into two great roadways along which six cars may move abreast, three northward and three southward.

The running time for the mile and one-half trip today was eight minutes because of stops and detours around uncompleted stretches. When the highway is officially opened the running time will be two minutes, according to Mr. Miller.

In the middle of West street at the Canal street entrance to the highway there has been constructed a new bronze police booth that looks something like a modernistic radio cabinet. The incline to the speedway is gradual and is guarded by imposing white stone walls.

Guard Rails of Steel.

The guard rails along the elevated highway also are of steel covered with concrete. Designs in the wall suggest eagle wings, and two stone eagles, looking a lot like the turkey gobblers that are sold in the markets nearby, guard the entrance. The exterior railings, lamp standards and other ornamental fixtures along the highway are in striking contrast to the drab old bluildings that look down on the roadway from either side of the street.

The express highway from Canal to the 22d street is costing the city $6,500,000. Work was begun May 29, 1929. The remaining three sections will be completed within two years, work having already begun on the link between 60th and 72d streets. When completed, the highway will provide a rapid transit route from Canal street to Riverside drive along the Hudson river and i. expected to be of great aid in relieving a traffic situation that was almost intolerable.

Engineers estimate 5,000 vehicles an hour can move in either direction over the seventy foot wide roadway. This is double the capacity of 5th avenue. A fifty mile an hour speed will be permitted at all points.

There are no crossroads, entrance to the highway being by ramps.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Oct. 27. — Deposed President Washington Luis' colored laundress is a person of note in Rio de Janeiro today. She is unalphabetic and unacquainted with revolutionary practices, but has a realistic view of things.

When the laundress was told that the president had hurriedly left the palace, leaving a week's washing with her, she said, in words to this effect:

"He all ain't come to git his shirts and collars, and ah reckons he'll be gone a long time," and she then proceeded to sell the former president's shirts, socks, handkerchiefs, and collars at auction. They brought high prices as souvenirs.

SHOT IS FIRED AS DETECTIVE PURSUES WOMAN

A shot, a chase, and an automobile smashup preceded the arrest yesterday of Mrs. Lena Ciccone on two charges of larceny.

The chase began when House Detective Larson followed Mrs. Ciccone out of the L. Klein department store at 14th and Halsted streets. Larson, who said the woman had taken articles from the store, told Capt. Patrick Kelliher at the Canalport station that Mrs. Ciccone fired a shot after he had stumbled and dropped his gun. This she denied, saying that Larson himself had fired. Mrs. Ciccone, who left the scene in her automobile, was arrested after she had crashed into the parked automobile of Charles A. Schneider, an executive of the Roberts Sash and Door company, in front of the company's office at 920 West Cullerton street.

Mrs. Ciccone told police she lived at 3130 Flournoy street. Her daughter, Dorothy, 13 years old, and a stepdaughter, Frances Malcolino, 16 years old, who were with her, were sent to the juvenile home.

movement and that he as president-elect—as his followers hold—would come immediately to Rio with his gauchos, and it was a question whether the junta wanted to line up with him.

Junta Takes Second Place.

Junta leaders today, through Gen. Tasso Fragoso, announced that they had at no time had any intentions of assuming the government of Brazil, and that they intended merely to stop internecine warfare such as had been going on for three weeks. Gen. Fragoso indicated that he wanted to get rid of his responsibilities as soon as possible.

It is certain now that Sao Paulo, the state against which there has been much envy and charges that it for the last few years has been controlling the federal government with its politicians and running Brazil for its own benefit, will be left out in the cold under the Vargas régime.

It was made known today through troops coming up from the south that casualties in the last battle around the railroad junction at Itarare amounted to over 600.

The counter revolutionary movement that broke out at Rio de Janeiro this afternoon was caused by two battalions of military police, back from the Minas Geraes front, seizing the central police station. Their mutiny was initiated by Col. Bandeiro de Mello and was only put down after two hours' fighting by junta troops under the command of Col. Jose Pessoa.

Barricades were hastily thrown up around the principal offices of the army junta in control of the government until the arrival of Dr. Vargas. Rio was thrown into commotion. Banks and shops were immediately closed and detachments of troops rushed through the streets at the double. Machine guns planted in the front of the quarters occupied by the mutineers opened up a heavy fusillade. In the meantime planes flew overhead. Confusion was added to the uproar by indiscriminate firing by communist agitators, but they were soon overpowered.

After the revolting battalions had been driven back to their barracks the junta kept soldiers, sailors and marines on the alert patroling the city to prevent the possibility of any new outbreak. It was estimated that over 100 men fell in the fighting.

BROKER HELD IN $14,000 BOND ON GIRL'S CHARGE

Stephen Nemes, president of the Bond Company of Illinois, was arraigned in Felony court yesterday before Judge John H. Lyle on the charge that he attacked a young woman whom he lured to his office on promise of giving her work. The case was continued until tomorrow on the request of Nemes' attorney, Samuel Hoffman. The bonds were set at $14,000.

Facing Nemes in court, the girl, Helen Flynn, 23 years old, 4340 N. Oakley avenue, fainted and had to be carried to the judge's chambers.

Assistant State's Attorney Nat Ruvell sought to have Nemes held in $25,000 bonds, but Judge Lyle refused to increase it to that amount.

CHORAL CONCERT BRINGS ECHO OF MUSIC FESTIVAL

Prize Winning Groups Are Loudly Applauded.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Two choral societies that gave prize winning performances on that golden August night joined in a jubilee concert in remembrance of the occasion when an audience of 150,000 cheered them on Soldiers' field. They were the Orpheus choir of Hammond, Ind., and the Mundy choristers of Chicago, and they were accompanied by the Walter Dyett String and Woodwind ensemble.

More than two hundred singers and instrumentalists, white and colored, filled the stage of the hall that represents the best in American musicianship and they gave a brilliant and varied program.

Again, as on Soldiers' field, the Mundy choristers were heard in the Hallelujah chorus from "The Messiah," and again their rendition of it, superb in volume, rich in quality, precise in attack, and delicate in shading, moved the listeners to rapturous applause—applause so insistent last evening that the choir had to repeat the exacting number.

"Ol' Man River" Again.

And again we heard young John Burdette in "Ol' Man River," that sob song of the roustabout which he makes heart searching because there is heartbreak in his voice and poetry, true, simple and very touching, in his nature.

Again, too, the spirituals; three of them last evening—"Ezekiel Saw the Wheel," "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," and "Joshua Fit the Battle of Jericho." They were a choice selection because they illustrated in their separate ways the plaintive yearning, the deep devotional spirit, and the rich humor of this department of folk song.

The concert was of special interest in the contrasts it provided. I mean the contrasts between Caucasian and Negro musical interpretation—the one delicate and touched with fragile loveliness, the second bold in attack, sonorous, and almost overwhelming in fervor. It was like the contrast of clear blue sky and flaming sunset.

Artists of Two Races.

The spirit of the occasion was fine. Proficient artists of two races assembled, performed beautifully, and warmly applauded one another. Their united efforts were heard to high advantage in their noble and reverent singing of the "Stabat Mater" of Rossini, delicacy and power there combining with great effect.

The evening closed with the presentation by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of silver medals to each of the Mundy choristers and of an ivory baton to their leader, James A. Mundy. The women of the Hammond choir and their leader, George Calder, had earlier received their TRIBUNE gold medals commemorating their victory in the festival.

A letter of good wishes from Gov. Emmerson was read and Carl Craven, one of the festival judges, made a happy little speech about "the singing people of Chicagoland," and conducted artists and audience in "The Star Spangled Banner."

Judge David Celebrates 67th Birthday at Party

Judge Joseph B. David of the Criminal court yesterday celebrated his 67th birthday with an informal party in his chambers. He was given a birthday cake by Assistant State's Attorneys Abraham Morovitz and Albert Wall. The judge has held judicial office for more than 14 years. He recently refused an appointment to the Appellate court.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Further arrivals over the week-end almost completed the Indian delegation to the round table conference which meets on Nov. 12 at St. James's palace. The week-end saw a series of meetings among the delegates, in which much progress is said to have been made in straightening out the differences among the various sections of Indians, with the object of presenting a united front to Great Britain when the conference meets.

The most important meeting was that of the delegates from British India, who agreed to press for a constitution and a strong central government as a first step, and to resist the reported plan of the British to try to settle the provincial governments before taking up central rule.

Following the meeting of the princes on Saturday the prime ministers of the independent Indian states met yesterday. They decided to open conversations with the British Indian leaders on plans for a federal government for India into which the princes might come without sacrificing their essential independence.

EUROPE SWEPT BY GALES, FLOODS AND BLIZZARDS

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Gales, torrential rains and heavy snowfalls swept over a large area of Europe today, blocking roads, interrupting communications and causing widespread damage. From Istanbul to southern Germany reports tell of flooded rivers, broken telegraph and telephone lines and blocking of roads by impassable snowdrifts.

Austria reports the worst weather experienced in 70 years. Damage from floods in the Vienna district is estimated to be extremely heavy. At Istanbul, and far into Asia Minor, excessive rainfall has produced serious floods. The lower portions of the city of Smyrna were inundated, at least 68 persons perishing and 3,000 being rendered homeless.

Czecho-Slovakia has experienced severe snowstorms and floods throughout the country. In Lower Silesia the rivers Bober and Niesse have overflowed their banks, forcing many to abandon their homes or to take refuge on the roofs. Houses collapsed in many villages. A heavy gale is raging in the eastern Mediterranean, driving storm tossed vessels to refuge in Salonika Harbor, Greece. Several lighters and other small craft were destroyed.

KING OPENS 7TH PARLIAMENT OF HIS REIGN TODAY

To Read Speech Prepared by Labor Party.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The stage is set for the most exciting session of British parliament in recent years, which will be opened with a full state ceremony tomorrow by King George V. Accompanied by Queen Mary, he will ride in a gold coach from Buckingham palace to the house of lords, where, standing before the throne, he will read his speech, written for him by the Labor party's prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald. He will then declare the seventh parliament of his reign open for business.

Tomorrow's appearance will mark the king's resumption of his attendance at Westminster after his critical illness two winters ago. Royal commissioners have opened parliament since his illness.

Predict Labor Victory.

A few weeks ago the air was full of talk of an early defeat for the labor government and a general election. The best opinion now is that the government is stronger than ever. This is based on the deal made with the Liberals to introduce an electoral reform bill granting an alternative vote.

The Liberals believe that under the present system of straight voting they have no chance of getting a fair representation in the house of commons.

In return the Liberals have pledged to support the government in a moderate reform program for the relief of unemployment. It is said the Liberals will even back the new trade union rights bill, which will restore to trade unions the right to impose a levy on members for political purposes.

Why Labor Feels Safe.

Both the electoral reform bill and the trades union bill are expected to be thrown out by the house of lords. This will require their passage three times by the house of commons in consecutive parliaments, and will take at least two years. Hence, labor feels that it is safe for that period at least.

JUDGE TO RULE TODAY ON SUICIDE NOTE IN IOWA MURDER CASE

Anamosa, Ia., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The note supposed to have been written by Edward Miner of Olin, just before his death last Feb. 25, in which he threatened to commit suicide, did not get before the jury here today at the trial of Albert Hartwig, 65, wealthy retired farmer, who is accused of aiding Mrs. Tillie Miner to kill her husband by buying the poison for her.

The state contends the letters, of which there are three, were written by Miner. Judge Atherton B. Clark will rule on the motion to exclude them tomorrow.

It was generally admitted here tonight that if the state can prove that the letter was written by Miner, Hartwig will be acquitted and Mrs. Miner will be released from prison.

THE UNIQUE MARKET—in sales advantages: Philadelphia has sales permanence. There are more individual homes and home owners, here, than in any other city in America.

Philadelphia has stability. Industry pays out $443,157,400 yearly in wages. (Census by Penna. Dept. of Internal Affairs.) Products are so widely diversified that employment is unusually steady.

Philadelphia has low selling costs. Compact shopping centers enable speedy distribution; a great warehousing system, with direct rail and water connections, keeps shipping costs down.

The unique market—in advertising cost: Philadelphia has the lowest advertising cost of any metropolitan market. Sixty-five cents an agate line provides a dominant campaign.

And in newspaper coverage: The Philadelphia newspaper situation is unparalleled in metropolitan markets! The Evening Bulletin reaches more than ninety per cent. of the homes.

BIG TEN VOTES DOWN CHICAGO CHARITY GAME

Plays and Players Move Fast.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Speed! This is the basis of Notre Dame's success on the gridiron this year. Speed has been an overwhelming factor in the Irish intersectional victories over Southern Methodist, Navy, Carnegie Tech, and Pittsburgh. Notre Dame uses its speed in two ways. Its players, backs and linemen, are fast, but more important, Rockne's plays reach the line of scrimmage with a rapidity no other eleven can match. The reverse play on which Marchy Schwartz scored the first touchdown against Pitt last Saturday was run more quickly than Pitt's straight line smashes. Normally a reverse play, or any play involving change in direction of attack, should require more time than a direct plunge.

Speed of Play Counts.

Individual speed cannot be controlled, of course, by a coach. He must work with the men he has. But Rockne is responsible for the speed of Notre Dame's plays. His style of offense has deception equal to any other system of offensive football and has a tremendous advantage in quickness of the attack.

Rocking is essential to attack. No team, regardless of the offense it attempts, can succeed unless the players charge and block with mechanical precision. Notre Dame has no advantage in this respect over other outstanding elevens. But, once again, speed aids Notre Dame players in their blocking assignments.

The linemen do not have to put their opponents completely off their feet, for the runner reaches the opening so quickly (because of individual speed and the rapidity of Rockne's attack) that the offensive linemen have an advantage. Linemen on a slower team must stay with their men longer and block more completely. Even then the delay in the attack reaching the line of scrimmage frequently permits a defensive man to recover and tackle the runner.

Linemen Start Fast.

It's a football axiom that when linemen charge against each other the advantage rests with the one starting more quickly. Again speed is the answer—speed in starting, which permits Notre Dame linemen to outcharge opponents. The faking with body and head would not avail against rugged defensive players unless starting speed met Notre Dame linemen against their opponents a fraction of a second quicker than the defense charged to break up the play.

Rockne will tell you that his type of attack for his ends also is a basis for his team's successes. He calls it flexibility. The ends shift along the line of scrimmage to charge against the defensive tackle from the most advantageous position. Once more speed is an assisting factor. Notre Dame rarely uses more than one man (the end) against the tackle and one blocker (a back) on the defensive end for plays directed between these defensive players. Speed makes these assignments possible.

Now add versatility to the speed which is Notre Dame's. All the backs, Schwartz, Brill, Mullins, and Savoldi, can plunge. Mullins and Savoldi receive recognition because their assignments call for more plunging than running. Brill, who is rated Notre Dame's best tackler, may be called a blocking half back. But Brill can run far better than the average half back. Schwartz, the runner and passer, can block. That's why Brill can gain as readily as Schwartz can score with Brill blocking.

Versatility Based on Speed.

Carideo's first duty is that of field general. Incidentally, he is the best punter of the regular backs. And he can pass. He's a certain receiver of passes.

Versatility based on speed. That's why Notre Dame's back field already has been called the equal of the Four Horsemen of 1924.

Versatility increases the troubles of the defense. Against an ordinary back field the defense may know in advance that the full back always plunges. Perhaps he cannot skirt the ends as Joe Savoldi does for Notre Dame. The defense is prepared to expect one man to pass, another to run exceptionally well in the open field. One player may excel as a pass receiver. All Notre Dame backs and ends can grab passes with more than average ability.

Rockne has placed his men to take advantage of the one thing they do best. Practice has welded them into a unit which coördinates on every play.

May Lose Yet.

Notre Dame may be beaten. Northwestern, Army, and Southern California have great teams, any one of which might break the Irish record. A powerful line smashing offense, even if it gains only three yards on each play, might plow ahead to score. And such an offense would keep possession of the ball preventing Notre Dame from attacking. Chicago used such tactics to score three touchdowns on Illinois in 1924, but even then Illinois was in possession of the ball enough times so that Red Grange fooled the Maroons and the game ended, 21 to 21.

Notre Dame's test comes in these three concluding games. And if Rockne's team wins, if it goes through a ten game schedule undefeated, it will have proved its greatness and the right to be called Notre Dame's best.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

KINDLY, PATIENT MR. ZUPPKE.

WE all know personally or by reputation Bob Zuppke, dynamic, able, and unusually bitingly sarcastic coach of the Fighting Illini. With all his other qualities, we know him also as a psychologist. Therefore, friends and readers, meet the kindly and considerate Bob Zuppke, with not a word of harsh criticism for his still fighting Illini who are not fighting so successfully this season.

Friends and readers, you would hardly know the chap. The Wake talked with him before and after the Michigan game Saturday and remarked to him on the change. "Well, what are you going to do with a bunch like ours? They are giving in every game all they've got, but it isn't enough. We're small physically compared to most Illinois teams and we're inexperienced. We make mistakes, but you can't scold the boys for that. We scold if they repeat the same mistakes. This team is different from most elevens I have coached. They are sensitive. They will and become discouraged under strong criticism.

"I think they must be a bunch of students," remarked Zup, with a smile. "They stand well in their classes. They try all the time, and as a whole they are a game outfit."

After the game we asked about the Wolverines' passes, and Zup, in his characteristic manner, replied, "How can I teach a defense against that? The passes were over the heads of our secondary. We haven't any man on our squad who can throw that far, so we're not accustomed to it."

Thus the philosophic psychologist, Bob Zuppke, is kindly and considerate toward a squad which showed remarkable improvement between the Northwestern and Michigan games.

BOB ZUPPKE.

That Illinois Line.

There is on the Illinois coaching staff a man whose name seldom finds its way into the newspapers. He is Justa Lingren, who teaches chemistry or mathematics or something of that nature, but comes to our attention annually in football. Since memory of man runneth not to the contrary, Lingren each season has given Illinois a good—often a great—forward wall. Before the Michigan game, knowing Michigan's good line, we asked, "How's your line?" In his modest, analytical manner, Lingren replied, "I think we have a pretty good line." It was just that. Michigan made three first downs from scrimmage all afternoon against that line.

Point After Touchdown.

We invite Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite of Wisconsin to renew his membership in our Association Opposed to the Point After Touchdown. Glenn is an original member, and suggested such change at the last rules meeting, but it didn't get anywhere. We also invite Coach Noble Kizer of Purdue to join. While Purdue won by that elusive point over Wisconsin, it still would be unbeaten if such a point had not decided the Michigan fray. O, yes, we know we're in the minority, but we're never going to be convinced that a lone point after touchdown should decide games between elevens otherwise evenly matched.

Beg Your Pardon, Illini.

In our report of the Michigan-Illinois game we were made to say that Illinois fumbled seven times and had one kick blocked. What we tried to say was that there was a "composite" seven fumbles and one blocked kick—meaning that number by Illinois and Michigan. Our point was that the Wolverines recovered the oval on seven of the eight occasions when mistakes were made by either team. We'll not try that word "composite" on telegraph operators or copy readers again.

BRUEN QUITS AS MADISON SQUARE GARDEN MANAGER

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Frank J. Bruen today resigned as vice president and boxing manager of Madison Square Garden, a post he has held for the last sixteen months. The resignation was communicated verbally to William F. Carey, president of the Garden corporation, who made the official announcement, with the explanation that Bruen resigned voluntarily to devote his attention exclusively to horse racing with which sport he has long been associated.

FRANK BRUEN.

President Carey, keenly disappointed at the resignation of Bruen, albeit he professed to knowledge for the last six months of the boxing director's contemplated withdrawal, announced a successor to Bruen was not under consideration.

President Carey indicated that Bruen's resignation will cause a reversion to himself of the manifold duties and responsibilities he assumed at the time of Tex Rickard's death, and indicated that Matchmaker Tom McArdle will be cloaked with additional authority in direct control of boxing at the Garden.

The information of Bruen's resignation came as a distinct shock to boxing critics who are intimate with Garden activities and administration, since there had been no previous hint that Bruen contemplated such action.

Chooses Horse Racing.

That there existed any dissatisfaction over Bruen's administration or that Bruen was discontented in his office was vigorously denied by President Carey who, with the approval of Bruen, announced the latter resigned to devote his time in the future to the sport of horse racing, with which he has been identified for years in an executive capacity. Bruen was formerly general manager of the Arlington Park track in Chicago.

"Mr. Bruen simply has reached that stage in his career where he had to make a decision on choosing between horse racing and boxing and he decided he would prefer giving his time exclusively to horse racing," said President Carey. "I regret sincerely that he found it necessary to sever his connection with the Garden because, aside from his popularity and a likable personality, I am satisfied he is a good man to have as a business associate."

That he was parting on friendly terms with Mr. Carey, the retiring official emphasized. Reminded that reports were current of dissension and dissatisfaction in the administration of the Garden, Bruen declared he had nothing to say. The sudden, almost impulsive resignation, however, caused a considerable stir in boxing circles.

Will Leave in 10 Days.

Bruen said he will leave within ten days for Miami, where in discharging his executive duties with the Miami Jockey club, he will manage the race meet there from Jan. 15 to March 7. He admitted he recently declined an offer of $50,000 a year to accept an executive position with the Havana-American Jockey club at Havana.

BY ARCH WARD.

The colleges are washing their dirty linen a bit early this fall. The football season is only half over, but already the headlines have carried charges of professionalism and proselyting. This kind of thing should be reserved for December and January when the papers need stories hot enough for eight column lines.

The situation at Kansas is not unlike Iowa's plight a year ago. Both were ousted from their conferences for recruiting and subsidizing athletes contrary to the code of the Big Six and Big Ten.

The difference, according to press dispatches, is that Kansas is going to stand back of its accused athletes, whereas Iowa made its players the goats of a policy which the university had condoned.

James Bausch, the Kansas player whose right to compete in Big Six competition was protested by the University of Missouri, will continue to represent his school on the gridiron. At least that is the promise of George Schad, Kansas member of the Big Six faculty group.

The interesting angle to the sideliner is that football players get along better financially in the Big Six than in the Big Ten. Several Iowa athletes were disqualified from conference competition because they were beneficiaries of a slush fund. Investigation showed that the amounts varied from $15 to $50 for the year. The Kansas lad caused his school to be thrown out of the Big Six because he was receiving $75 a month from an insurance firm in Topeka.

A press agent from a Pacific coast school recently told a TRIBUNE writer that athletes cost about $75 a month in that league, too.

It seems that Iowa got mighty good material for the kind of money it spent.

Why should a half back in the Big Six or Pacific coast leagues be worth $75 a month when the boys who score touchdowns in the Big Ten get only $50 a year?

Mr. Rockne's Logic.

Knute Rockne has gone on record as saying that no football team is really great until it has been licked once.

Wonder who he figures will help prove Notre Dame has a great team? The boys themselves seem to have done their share. Now it is up to Indiana, Pennsylvania, Drake, Northwestern, Army, or Southern California. If any one of them drops the Irish for the count Notre Dame is a great team. If they fail, it's just another Notre Dame football team.

It seems that Rockne is acquiring some of that professorial logic.

We are of the old school, so we cling to the idea that a football team that outscores its rivals Saturday after Saturday is a pretty fair sort of a club.

Notre Dame this year has outscored Southern Methodist, Navy, Carnegie Tech, and Pittsburgh on successive week-ends. In at least three of those games Rockne pulled his punches. He could have doubled the score on the Navy. When his regulars were ready to add another touchdown to their total against Carnegie Tech in the last quarter he took out two first string half backs. There was no further scoring. Against Pitt last Saturday his regulars ran up 28 points in 18 minutes. The reserves added seven more before Rockne could get the situation in hand.

It will be just too bad if one of those remaining foes doesn't knock off Notre Dame. Otherwise, 1930 will be just another year to Mr. Rockne.

STUDENTS TO AID MAROONS POINT FOR PRINCETON

Pep Meetings to Break Campus Calm.

Accustomed to accepting football games without any of the usual mass-meetings and bonfires, the University of Chicago has adopted a new policy for this week which will be known as Princeton Week.

The festivities got under way last night with a big welcoming demonstration for the Maroon baseball team that returned yesterday morning from a trip to Japan.

Plan Bonfire Thursday.

Thursday night a huge bonfire will be lighted on Stagg field, the football team will be on hand, and Coach Stagg and several former Maroon stars will speak.

Despite the fact that the Maroons and Princeton have displayed little talent on the gridiron this season a victory over Princeton will make the season successful to many Chicago alumni.

Neither Wien nor Tolgo reported for practice last night, which was curtailed early when the arc lights suddenly went out.

No Chicago-Princeton Dinner.

Last year when Chicago went to Princeton to meet the Tigers, Coach Stagg and his group of 20 men were guests of Coach Roper and the Princeton squad at dinner on Friday night. Mr. Stagg sought to return the hospitality this week, but a national alumni reunion dinner, at which the Princeton squad will be guests, prevented acceptance.

The Maroons lead the Tigers by a margin of 2 to 1 in the three games played so far, and Coach Bill Roper, who is retiring at the end of the season, is eager to even the score. With 10,000 alumni in the stands, the Tigers will battle to the limit.

Nearly 30,000 tickets have been sold so far, with an equal number remaining for disposal this week.

TIGERS TAKE REST

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—A day of complete rest from football was prescribed for the Princeton varsity squad today, a two mile walk comprising the entire session.

After the decisive defeat by Navy, the coaches plan to lighten the work before the clash with Chicago at Stagg field on Saturday. Today's walk was the first of the week's light drills, and Coach Roper pointed out that it served to work out some of the bruises and bumps sustained in Saturday's hard battle with the Midshipmen.

No serious injuries were reported. James, sophomore back who was forced out of the Navy game early in the second quarter, is the only regular whose return to form is in doubt, but Coach Roper said today that he expects him to be ready to play against Chicago.

While drop kicking last Friday James hurt his foot and the slight injury forced him to the side lines early in the game.

Coach Roper also said that Zundel, veteran full back, will be ready for action this week. Zundel has been out since the Brown game, and his return is expected to improve the Tiger defensive strength.

The squad will have only three days of work this week as the players will entrain Thursday night for Chicago. No scrimmage will be held this week. Frequent scrimmages have been conducted during previous weeks and the announcement today marks a definite reversal of policy.

H. P. Whitney a Rich Boy Who Made Good in Sports

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 27.—Harry Payne Whitney's obituaries recount the fact that he was once a ten goal man in polo, a member of the big four which won the international polo cup from England, a yachtsman, a hunter, and, as early as 1915, a flyer. In other words, he was one of that element of American aristocrats who played risky games for the fun of them, contrary to a public delusion of some years back that rich men's sons were no match for the poor boys in character, athletic skill, physical stamina, or daring.

It has been a long time since this delusion was held by any considerable element of the population, but I recollect that it used to be quite popular and that the type known as the rah-rah boy or the rich man's son at college, was held to be much inferior to the average young man of like age and humble circumstances.

It was a great comfort to the humble classes, no doubt, and a boost for democracy at a time when the drama was showing up the rich as debauchees and the poor or middling poor as virtue's own. It never was any great fun to be poor, except in retrospect, and it may have been some consolation, however specious, to believe that an ordinary boy named Joe could lic anybody with any Vanderbilt or Astor in him.

Recalls Story of Ole.

Perhaps it was furthered by the George Fitch football stories and the football practices of the time, which implied that the best football players to be had in the United States were freight handlers, teamsters and bartenders. Mr. Fitch's Ole Skjarsen, the hireling hero of Siwash, who couldn't understand the signals and ran 100 yards the wrong way of the field with his entire team clinging to him, trying to bring him down, expressed the idea.

Meaning no disloyalty to the lower classes, I much doubt that this ever was an accurate comparison of the classes. The prince of Wales, for instance, has bounced off his horses often enough to make most young men of average determination pause and wonder if horse jumping were their favorite sport after all. However, not to imply that a poor youth of his age at the time would have chucked the game for safety's sake, it certainly does seem that the prince himself must be a very game young man.

The Prince Can Take It.

One familiar photograph of him just after he had dismounted on his face in a rockpile showed the heir to the British throne, and all the headaches appertaining to the same, laid out on his back, with a dark swipe across his features and his eyes shut in a coma such as very few prize fighters ever are reduced to in the ring for pay. The prince is quite well to do, by all accounts, and if his were the sporting tendencies of the average sport fan, who is distinctly sedentary, he would have hired some rider to bounce off his horses for him thereafter, while he sat by and exclaimed "Well bowled." But he was back on his horse, or on and off his horse, within a few days.

Now and again in the summer I see at the horse tracks a middle aged party with a black mustache standing around, usually alone and apparently somewhat aloof. He has been pointed out to me as Mr. Forhall

Whitney's Son to Carry on Family Racing Interests

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The Whitney silks and the Whitney name, made famous on the turf by William C. Whitney and Harry Payne Whitney, who died Sunday, are expected to be carried on by Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, son of Harry Payne Whitney and grandson of William C. Whitney. Turf followers and members of the Jockey club discussed today the disposition of the vast Whitney racing interests, which are the most extensive in America and among the greatest in the world.

Last spring when the bulk of the Whitney string was in training at Belmont park, Sonny Whitney, as C. V. is known, was a more frequent visitor at early morning gallops than ever before. He was enthusiastic over th chances of Whichone defeating Gallant Fox for the Belmont stakes, and again at Saratoga was confident that the great son of Chicle would turn the tables on his erstwhile conqueror.

The value of the Whitney interests on the turf is incalculable, but it is interesting to note that in the last 25 years Harry Payne Whitney won approximately $4,000,000 on the turf in purse money alone. Up to 1929 he had been the leading money winning owner in the country seven times. He was second on the list five times, third four, fourth once, fifth once, and sixth twice.

On the breeding side horses bred by Mr. Whitney won a total of $835,374 in 1929 alone. Not all of these, of course, raced in the famous Eton blue and brown. Last year horses bred by Mr. Whitney won 278 races, were second 284 times and third 234 times. This is an unparalleled record.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church in Park avenue. Only members of the family will attend. Interment, at Woodlawn cemetery, will be private also.

9 PROFESSORS VETO N. U. PLEA FOR TRANSFER

Refuse to Waive Technicality.

The faculty committee of the Big Ten, in this case nine professors, yesterday refused Northwestern university's request that a technical rule be waived in order that Chicago charities might receive from $150,000 to $200,000.

The committee notified Northwestern that it must not transfer the Northwestern-Notre Dame game, scheduled for Nov. 22, from Dyche stadium to Soldiers' field.

Northwestern and Notre Dame, playing at Evanston, could draw at most only 48,000 spectators. That is the capacity of Dyche stadium. Transfer to Soldiers' field, offered rent free by the South Park board, the game might draw 110,000 spectators.

It was planned to turn the proceeds of the 60,000 extra tickets over to charity. Neither Northwestern or Notre Dame would have lost a cent, while thousands of Chicago's unfortunates would have been helped by the charities.

Northwestern Group Approved.

Northwestern's athletic committee approved of the switch in playing fields. Members of Northwestern's board of trustees enthusiastically endorsed the suggestion. President Walter Dill Scott, after weighing all the objections, approved it. Kenneth Wilson, athletic director, and Dick Hanley, coach, were willing to have the change of gridirons made.

But the nine professors, none of whose schools was affected in the least by the plan, did not believe that the benefits the $150,000 fund would prove to the unemployed, outweighed the evils of breaking a Big Ten rule.

The nine professors on the committee which rated the rule higher than charity are: A. C. Callen, Illinois; Frederic Woodward, Chicago; C. C. Williams, Iowa; W. J. Moenkhaus, Indiana; William Marshall, Purdue; James Paige, Minnesota; J. F. Fyre, Wisconsin; Ralph Aigler, Michigan, and Thomas French, Ohio State.

It is possible some of these men voted to grant Northwestern's request. But each one, asked to state his vote, replied that their action was secret and that the committee acted as a whole.

Wilson Makes Statement.

Kenneth Wilson, when he learned of the professors' action, said:

"When the suggestion of transferring the game to Soldiers' field in order that the additional tickets could be sold for charity was presented to the athletic committee of Northwestern university, they saw sufficient merit to pass it on to the conference faculty members for their decision. In my conversation and correspondence with athletic directors and coaches of the conference in the last two weeks, they also recognized the worthiness of the proposition, but evidently after considering all sides of the case, the faculty members realized that a favorable decision would open the field for repeated requests of this type, a number of which have been received this week, namely from Detroit and Milwaukee."

Rockne Surprised at Verdict.

Knute Rockne, coach of Notre Dame, who had enthusiastically approved of the plan, was more outspoken, although he pointed out that Northwestern had never asked Notre Dame's approval of the switch in gridirons.

Rockne said:

"Notre Dame gladly would have consented to transfer the game if Northwestern had invited us to do so. As far as the playing conditions are concerned it makes no difference to us. We can play as well at Dyche stadium as at Soldiers' field. But here was an opportunity for two universities to do something in a big way for the welfare of their communities. Chicago has been kind to Notre Dame. We would have welcomed the chance to do something for Chicago. I am surprised that the Big Ten faculty men turned it down."

President Scott is in the west. Prof. Long, chairman of Northwestern athletic committee, did not make a statement.

A report of Chicago's need for charity funds had been made to President Scott by the heads of the city's three big charity organizations. They expressed surprise last night that the conference committee permitted a rule to block the charity enterprise.

Northwestern leaders, too, were surprised at the conference action. The conference rule prohibiting Big Ten teams from playing home games away from their own gridirons was passed primarily to protect gate receipts. It was intended to keep a Big Ten team from playing at Soldiers' field on the same day Northwestern or Chicago were playing on their own gridirons.

Maroons Away Nov. 22.

On Nov. 22 the University of Chicago team is playing Michigan at Ann Arbor.

It made no difference to any other Big Ten team where Northwestern and Notre Dame played.

Prof. Moenkhaus, in announcing the refusal, said:

"I am not in a position to express the considerations that led to the negative votes, but I am sure that there was no lack of appreciation of the merit of the cause to which the

BY FRENCH LANE.

Kincsen, the daughter of Cudgel-Buckwheat, which Harry Morrissey, the noted starter, sold for a song in New Orleans last winter, again demonstrated that she is quite a race horse at Hawthorne yesterday when she won the East Gate purse which was the feature.

Ladrone, which had been made a short priced favorite, was outrun all the way, although he was closing fast in the final strides and was beaten only a length by Kincsen, which had been eased up. Hold On, up with the front runners most of the way, was so badly whipped by Kincsen in mid-stretch she was lucky to finish third.

Kincsen and Hold On fought it out for the first mile, but when Jockey Willie Moran got Kincsen into stride at the head of the stretch she soon demonstrated that she was a much better horse than any of those which were trailing her. She galloped on home quite easily and after the plunge on Ladrone paid $8.22 to win. She ran the mile and a sixteenth over a track that had been soaked by an early morning rain in 1:47.

Betting Plunge Fails.

One of the biggest betting plunges of the fall season went amiss when Kamalli, owned by Peter B. Kyne's El Galivan Rancho stable, was beaten a half length by Michigan Girl in the Seville purse, which engaged some of the best 2 year olds here.

A sixteenth from home, with Kamalli a length in front and apparently running in better strides than any of her rivals, it looked like the lads from the Pacific coast who bet on the daughter of Easter Bells were going to collect.

Leyland occasionally rides a strong finish, but he has ridden through few stretch struggles with more courage and more power than he did when he got Michigan Girl home in front. In the last sixteenth of a mile Leyland was doing everything but picking up his mount and throwing her on toward the line of finish.

Riley Seems Bewildered.

In the meantime, Jockey Riley on Kamalli seemed to have been bewildered by Leyland's stout tactics, and when he stopped to look around and see what was going on, Leyland rode Michigan Girl on past the faltering Kamalli.

The Pacific coast plungers groaned, but the race was all over; Michigan Girl was running stronger than any of the others. Austerlitz was far back of the two leaders, but landed third money. Michigan Girl ran the six furlongs over the slow track in 1:14 1-5 and in the mutuels paid $18.66. She is a full sister to the early season 3 year old star, Michigan Boy, and races in the black and green jacket of J. L. Pontius of Detroit.

Thousands of Ducks Settle Along Illinois

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lacon, Ill., Oct. 27.—They're here and many thousands strong. The quack-quack flying army consisting of greenheaded mallards, widgeon, pintails and a few teal, to say nothing of the bluebills and black jacks which migrated to this section several weeks ago, has settled down in the shallow bayous and lakes which fringe the old Illinois, and what a picture these thousands of birds make.

Mixed in with the big ducks are great flocks of mudhens which feed unmolested. Back in the sloughs and ponds you see the blinds for the mallard and pintail shooting.

Pass Bluebill Blinds.

Yesterday morning as one of the boys steered the little outboard which took us down to the blinds, we passed three bluebill blinds which are close to the river bank. All of them were getting plenty of shooting. In fact, one of these blinds is just a stone's throw from the town but the hunters have no trouble in getting a good bag of birds because the open water ducks fly down and decoy easily.

Have you ever rowed into one of these Illinois river marshes where the widgeon, mallards, spoonbills and pintails have been gathering for several days and watched them go up in waves? That was the situation here when we pushed an old tub of a boat toward a blind.

Pintails Are Plentiful.

Most of these birds were mallards, but the long necked wary pintails also were plentiful. We forgot the difficulty of shallow water, almost impassable mud, hard rowing and even harder walking conditions when the birds milled around in the morning sunlight, thousands of 'em on flashing, beating wings hurrying to get away from the invading rowboats. Yes, the birds are here, but don't think it is easy shooting.

CHAPMAN STARTS PREPARATIONS FOR 6 DAY RACE

John M. Chapman, promoter of Chicago's twenty-fourth international six day bicycle race, which starts in the Stadium a week from Sunday night, arrived here yesterday to prepare for the race. Chapman said thirty riders will compete, fifteen American and fifteen foreigners.

Cecil Walker, American sprint champion and the all round champion of America for the last six years, will be paired with Harris Horder, former American sprint titleholder. Walker and Horder are Australians.

Walker has won many bicycle prizes, but never a six day race. He is determined that he will win his first six days grind in Chicago. In Horder he has an excellent partner.

WHITNEY A RICH BOY WHO MADE GOOD IN SPORTS

Keene, a polo player for 30 years, a ten goal man, which means a champion, up to the time of his retirement in 1917, and probably the most cracked up athlete next to one or two of the old professional hockey players that this country ever produced.

Years ago Mr. Keene's crackings up were as familiar in the papers as the subsequent dismountings of the prince of Wales, and one rare old sheet in the reference files gives a diagram of him with a casualty report that reads like a year's business at a fairly busy hospital. He was tapped on the head with a polo mallet, his horse jumped in his lap going over a stone fence in Ireland and he was dragged by a stirrup, his collar bones were cracked, and he was tossed out of two racing automobiles in the days when the races were run over country roads. Before that he would have played football at Harvard except that injuries kept him out of the game.

Hitchcock Defies Fate.

Mr. Tommy Hitchcock, the great polo star of the present, also offers some little refutation of the old delusion referred to, but his polo and his riding over the shrubs and fences pursuing the hounds, stimulating as these games may be, are nothing to his earlier adventures. Mr. Hitchcock enlisted in the French army at the age of 17, brought down three German planes, was captured with a bullet in one thigh, escaped from a train in Germany, walked 100 miles in his French uniform, and turned up in Switzerland. Then he got a commission as a flyer in the American army, and went back for more.

WILDCATS DRILL FOR MINNESOTA; BRUDER RETURNS

Purple Captain Tells Hanley He's Ready.

For the first time this season the answer was unanimously "Here" when Dick Hanley called the roll yesterday preliminary to launching his Northwestern Wildcats on a hard week's work for their third Big Ten battle against the Gophers at Minneapolis Saturday.

Bruder Comes Back.

Capt. Bruder returned to the campus from the Chicago Isolation hospital yesterday morning and in the afternoon donned a suit for the first time in more than two weeks. Having engaged in a light workout during the last week of his confinement, Bruder appeared to be ready for any kind of work. A few punts were used as a starter, and the manner in which the reckless Purple leader booted them down the field brought smiles to the faces of the coaching staff.

Bruder then resumed his old position at left half back and galloped through a long dummy scrimmage. He was wearing a sweat shirt, but underneath was concealed the same old No. 13. If Bruder's kicking was satisfactory, his running was equally so. At the completion of the drill he informed Coach Hanley that he never felt better.

Will Work Out Daily.

Bruder reported at his normal playing weight and showed no visible signs of the smallpox which kept him cooped up in quarantine for two weeks. He will work out daily this week to get his legs and wind back into top shape.

With Bruder back, Hanley lost no time in choosing a lineup which probably will start the game against the Gophers. Lee Hanley was calling signals at right half, Pug Rentner was at full back and Reb Russell was at quarter. This quartet functioned behind the regular line, which was composed of Oliphant and Baker at ends, Hartell and Riley at tackles, Woodworth and Evans at guards, and Clark at center.

Hanley plans to work this combination daily in an effort to secure greater coordination between the back field and line, the absence of which has made the Purple's running attack look puny against formidable opposition.

Fencl Only Casualty.

Dick Fencl is the only casualty on the Wildcat squad at present, but despite a broken bone in his hand, he worked out for a while last night. Larry Oliphant, who has been dividing the work with Fencl, also took part in the dummy scrimmage in spite of the back injury he received against Centre.

Northwestern plans to invade the Twin Cities in large numbers. Three special trains, one bearing the Northwestern band of 150 pieces, will carry the local rooters to the game. Already more than 2,000 tickets have been sold in Evanston and the game is reported to be a sellout at Minneapolis.

RATES N. U. OVER STANFORD.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Back from scouting Northwestern, Coach Fritz Crisler told the Gophers tonight that next Saturday they would face the best team that Dick Hanley has had at Evanston and a team that seemed to have no weaknesses. He said the Wildcats would be a far stronger team in the local homecoming attraction than Stanford was two weeks ago.

After explaining the Northwestern style of play to the regulars, Crisler sent his men into the first Monday scrimmage of the season. The Gophers were on the offensive most of the afternoon, trying out new plays to be used against the Wildcats. Stein, center, and Anderson, end, were the only regulars who were kept out of scrimmage.

ZUPPKE PROMOTES RESERVES.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Robert Zuppke, Illinois football coach, today used Donald Munch, reserve team quarter back, in place of Pete Tanuskus at half back, and Casien Bennett, reserve end, at Boyd Owen's place. Coach Zuppke said that these men were almost left off the list of players to be taken to Michigan Saturday, but their work against the Wolverines was good enough to give them a chance to stay in the varsity lineup.

Munch, who weighs 156 pounds, is from Joliet, while Bennett, who is 6 feet 1 inch tall and weighs 173 pounds, is from Marshall.

MICHIGAN CAPTAIN BETTER.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The Michigan team will study Harvard plays tomorrow in its first session since the victory over Illinois and will begin work Wednesday for the intersectional clash with the Crimson Nov. 8.

Capt. Ducky Simrall was back on the campus today, little worse for the thumping he took Saturday when Capt. Olaf Robinson of Illinois crashed through Michigan's right tackle and hit him hard. Simrall walked with a slight limp, however, as the result of an infection in his leg. He is expected to be ready to take his place in the back field by Thursday or Friday.

Howard Auer, tackle, who has been in University hospital for nearly two weeks because of an infected ear, attended Saturday's game and will be out for practice this week.

CONNOR DRILLS DE PAUL LINE FOR LOYOLA BATTLE

Hal Cherne was not performing up to his usual standard and was shifted back to the second string. Fitzgerald was used in Cherne's place at tackle and may be started in the game at Soldiers' field Sunday. Capt. Paddy Driscoll was outstanding in defensive line work.

With the frosh running through Loyola formations, Whity Engle impersonated Les Molloy. He made several gains. At the guards Emmett Cowhey and Bud Borelli were used effectively. The other tackle job may go to Frank Hamilton. Driscoll was at center.

Jackie Field's Knee Hurt; Cancels Paul Pirrone Fight

Cleveland, O., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The Jackie Field-Paul Pirrone bout, sheduled for Wednesday, was canceled by the Cleveland boxing commission today because of Field's injured knee. Jack Kearns, his manager, asked for a later date, which was being considered by the commission. Fields is a former world's welterweight champion.

ALBIE BOOTH IS DISMISSED FROM HOSPITAL

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Albie Booth, Yale quarter back, was dismissed today from the university infirmary, where he had been a patient since Saturday with minor injuries suffered in the Yale-Army game.

The 145 pound back, who participated in only one play against the Cadets before he was carried off the field, was in uniform at today's practice for Saturday's game with Dartmouth.

BADGERS REFUSE OHIO'S OFFER TO FETE GRID TEAM

Columbus, O., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Plans for a joint dinner of the University of Wisconsin and Ohio State university football players here Friday night were called off today at the request of the Badger athletic department.

The joint banquet was to have been held at the Columbus Athletic club to celebrate the renewal of football relations between the two schools, halted for the last 10 years, and as a part of the Buckeye homecoming festivities.

In a communication to Charles Griffith, president of the Scarlet Key, Ohio State Athletic Managerial association, the Wisconsin officials said that the dinner would prove "too great a strain on the boys."

It has been the custom of the organization to banquet the opposing teams the night before the homecoming game.

BADGERS HAVE DAY OFF.

IOWA CRIPPLES RETURN.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Most of the injured players on the University of Iowa football squad resumed practice today for the Detroit game next Saturday.

Jim Hay, varsity end, is the only regular who is not likely to be in condition for the Detroit contest. Hay still carries his arm in a sling as the result of a pulled ligament in his shoulder. Ray Story replaced him.

COACH WARNS PURDUE.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—"No team coached by Bob Zuppke has ever been easy to beat, and the one we will meet this Saturday will be no exception," Coach Noble Kizer told the Purdue squad tonight as the Boilermakers started preparation for their first invasion of the Illinois stadium since 1917 and the first game between the two elevens since 1919.

Inasmuch as Illinois is Purdue's fourth straight conference foe, Kizer is fearful that there may be a letup in the Boilermaker drive. Tonight was devoted to one of the most strenuous scrimmage sessions of the year for the reserves, although the regulars were given a night off to rid themselves of proceeds were to go. The faculty representatives were no doubt influenced not so much by the factors in the present problem as by the effect the granting of this sequest might have upon the consideration of other proposals involving the waiving possibility of other conference rules."

Big 10 Faculty Group Turns Down Chicago Charity Game

The "other proposals" referred to are believed to be the agitation now on in Milwaukee and Detroit for charity games played at the close of the Big Ten season between the University of Wisconsin and Marquette and the University of Michigan and Detroit.

Prof. William Marshall of Purdue said: "Our athletic committee agreed to keep secret our vote. I presume the fear of establishing a precedent in charity games was the deciding influence."

No Analogy, N. U. Leaders Say.

Northwestern leaders pointed out that there was no analogy between their request and the suggestion that the conference abrogate its rule against post season games.

Melvin Traylor, chairman of the board of trustees at Northwestern, said: "I'm surprised to hear the conference turned us down. I guess that ends the project."

Athletic leaders are always fearful of commenting on the actions of the faculty committee. One of them, declining to have his name mentioned, gave this explanation of the faculty action:

"Several of the Big Ten universities were afraid to let Northwestern and Notre Dame play a game which would help charity lest they be asked to aid charity with their teams," he said. "Most of the universities are extremely jealous of their gate receipts. They do not want the public to get the idea that the big football games might be used to help the unemployed. Moreover, professors love to enforce their rules."

Kizer announced that the Purdue squad would not leave here for Champaign until Saturday morning, arriving in the Illinois stronghold just in time to dress for the game.

INDIANA SEEKS FULL BACK.

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Indiana's squad of 55 football players resumed practice this afternoon for its three remaining contests against Notre Dame, Northwestern, and Purdue. Due to a muddy field the drill was held in the field house.

Coach Pat Page is looking for a full back to perform Saturday at Notre Dame. In the game with Southern Methodist last Saturday, both Edmonds and Hughes, varsity full backs, were injured. Kuchins, a tackle, was also on the injured list. It is probable that Saluski will be shifted from half back to full back.

Barlow Shades Kline in Englewood Arena Fight

In the semi-windup Phil Ross knocked out Frankie Boyle in the first round. A right cross sent Boyle to the mat. Other results were: Juan Lira stopped Jimmy Ryan in the fourth round; Joey Espinoza knocked out Valerno Martin in the fourth; Tommy Wilson won the four round decision over Kelly Kulac, and Mickey Mack was given the four round verdict over Felix Young.

SON OF MEXICAN PRESIDENT BOXES IN COLLEGE RING

Atchison, Kas., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The son of the president of Mexico, Fernando Ortiz Rubio, 18, has been named on the boxing squad of St. Benedict's college and will make a public ring appearance here tomorrow night. Fernando, who weighs 142 pounds, learned to box at a private school in Mexico City. He will be matched tomorrow on an intramural card with Gus Glaser of St. Joseph, Mo.

BIG BOXERS END DRILL TODAY FOR COLISEUM BOUTS

The twelve heavyweights who will perform for Chicago boxing fans at the Coliseum Friday night will complete serious training today. Rope skipping and shadow boxing will be on the program for the rival gladiators tomorrow.

Tuffy Griffith is the outstanding attraction on the card. He meets George Neron, Greek heavyweight champion, in an eight round bout which is labeled as half of the double windup. Griffith rules a favorite over Neron, although the Greek has numerous supporters among his countrymen.

The other half of the windup will bring together Larry Johnson, south side Negro, and Natie Brown of San Francisco.

The eight round bouts will feature Charlie Retzlaff of Duluth against Andy Shanks of Michigan, and Paul Pantaleo of Chicago against Harry Dillon of Canada.

Two four rounders will complete the program. Joe Corbett, a west sider, will meet Knute Dane, and Marion Matuszak will take on Buck Everett.

King Levinsky, Chicago light heavyweight, who will fight Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo in the windup of the Chicago Stadium's card, Nov. 6, spent yesterday turning down offers from eastern promoters.

Matchmaker Tom McArdle of Madison Square garden, wants to secure Levinsky to battle either Pete Latzo or Jimmy Braddock. The Boston garden has offered the king a bout with Jack Gagnon.

"If any of these boys want to challenge the king, let them come to Chicago and do it," Ali Miller, Levinsky's manager, said yesterday. "We'll do our fighting at the Stadium."

TAYLOR BUYS HIS RELEASE; TO PLAY WITH SHAMROCKS

Deal Considered Victory for New Hockey Body.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Ralph Taylor, former defense man of the Chicago Blackhawks, who later was sold to the New York Rangers, has purchased his unconditional release from the New York team and signed a contract with the Chicago Shamrocks.

This announcement yesterday caused a great deal of scurrying about by the public relations operatives of the American league, who pointed with pride to what they said they considered one of the most important early triumphs in the war with the National league.

Shows League Is Sincere.

The American league representatives say that the acquisition of Taylor is important not only because it adds a good defense man to the Shamrocks, but also because it shows that the league is sincere in its contention that it is in no sense an outlaw organization and that the policy of the league is to respect player contracts in the rival league. If the league were not determined to live up to the rules of organized hockey, it is contended, Taylor could have saved several thousand dollars by simply jumping from the National to the American league.

The price Taylor paid for his release was not disclosed by the New York club, but the amount is said to have been in excess of the waiver price of $5,000.

To Report at Once.

Taylor will report at the Shamrocks' training camp in Minneapolis tomorrow.

Taylor came into prominence in amateur hockey in his home town of Toronto and turned professional with the Chicago Cardinals in 1926. From the Cardinals he switched to the Chicago Blackhawks, with which team he played through two seasons. Last year he was taken over by the Rangers and played every game after joining the New Yorkers.

MANDELL PILES UP EARLY LEAD TO WHIP LIGOURI

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Sammy Mandell, Rockford, Ill., former lightweight champion, withstood a determined last round challenge to outpoint Tony Ligouri, Des Moines, in a ten round bout here tonight.

Mandell piled up points in the earlier rounds mainly through his ability to tie up his opponent. Most of Ligouri's blows landed on the former champion's gloves or slid off his bobbing head.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES STEADY; DEALINGS LIGHT

Interest Again Centers in Insull Shares.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Trading on the Chicago exchange yesterday furnished little in way of important price changes. Dealings were not heavy, but the market showed comparative steadiness throughout the day.

Again the interest was centered in the Insull group of stocks. Transactions in one or two of them accounted for a good share of the day's turnover of 128,000 shares. The increase in activity in these stocks has not been unaccompanied by the rumors which usually tag the active issues.

The latest "dope" concerning the Insull shares is that a potent pool has been organized for the purpose of supporting these stocks in the market. Like most rumors of the sort, it can claim some evidence of plausibility. It is pointed out that the group of issues concerned have recently shown comparative firmness while irregularity has existed elsewhere in the market.

Closes Slightly Higher.

Middle West Utilities turned over in good volume yesterday, and after sinking to 22 came back to close with a fractional net gain. Insull Utility performed in similar fashion on comparatively heavy trading.

Demand was conspicuously lacking in the motor group, as it was in other isolated stocks in the list. Closing price among the motor and accessory shares were slightly below the level of last week's final quotations.

Activity appeared in Chicago corporation issues, but resulting price changes were inconsequential. Corporation Securities common and certificates made moderate headway.

Ancillary Receiver.

No action has been taken yet to reopen the books in the three stocks which were sponsored by E. R. Digge & Co., for which a receiver was named last week by the federal court of New York. Federal Judge Walter E. Woodward yesterday appointed the Straus National Bank Trust company as ancillary receiver for the firm. The action was taken on the motion of Paul C. Clovis, attorney for the Twentieth Century Press, which brought the original petition up.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30 Addressograph International corporation reports net profit of $1,036,600, equivalent to $1.90 a share, as compared with $1,123,218, or $2.16 a share in the corresponding period of 1929.

STATE BANKING LAW CHANGES UP TO VOTERS

BY O. A. MATHER.

Important changes in the Illinois banking law will be submitted to the voters at the general election next Tuesday. The ballot will be a referendum on amendments drafted by a commission of bankers and legislators, whose recommendations were passed by the last general assembly in the form of House Bill No. 145.

In general, the changes in the state banking law are designed to strengthen the banking machinery in Illinois, which has suffered its share of bank failures in recent years and largely because of inadequate capital and inexpert management. It is the contention of the commission the amendments will be beneficial not only to the banks but to their depositors.

With a view of providing banks with adequate capital, the amended law increases the minimum amount of capital stock with which a bank may commence business. This minimum is increased from $25,000 to $50,000 for banks not within a city, village or incorporated town, or in places of less than 10,000 population. The minimum for banks in cities of 50,000 or more population is increased to $200,000.

State Bank Control.

Another amendment gives the state auditor greater control over existing state banks and authority to prevent formation of unsound banks. The present law requires the auditor to issue a permit to organize a bank when application is made to him. Under the new provision, the auditor is directed to examine the application, investigate the truth of the statements and issue a permit to organize only when the applicants are entitled to it.

The new law also provides additional safeguards for depositors. The auditor may withhold from a new bank a certificate to begin business until the bank has provided a surplus equal to 10 per cent of its capital stock and a reserve for operating expenses equal to five per cent of its capital stock. No dividends may be paid to stockholders until 10 per cent of net profits earned since the last dividend have been carried to surplus, unless the surplus amounts to at least 20 per cent of the bank's capital stock. Furthermore, dividends are prohibited if losses have been incurred equal to the bank's undivided profits on hand.

The new law also gives to stockholders of Illinois state banks an advantage now held by national banks throughout the country and by state banks in some other states. It provides that banks may issue their capital stock in shares of not less than $10 nor more than $100 each, par value. Heretofore, Illinois state banks have been required to issue shares of $100 par value.

Beyond Small Investor.

The demand for bank shares for investment in recent years and the increased earnings of the large institutions, particularly in Chicago, have increased market prices to a point beyond the reach of small investors and also restricted marketability for existing stockholders. The change in the law will permit existing banks to split their shares and new banks to issue shares of smaller denomination.

Considerable improvement in trade in the middle west took place last month, although it was not as broad as a year ago. This situation is set forth in the monthly review of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank. Furniture manufacturing also improved, while automobile production declined slightly.

"Increased activity in the merchandising of commodities in the seventh district took place in September over August," the review says. "Compared with September a year ago, however, statistics failed to reflect gains. In reporting lines of wholesale trade the expansion was largely seasonal in character. Declines from last September ranged from only 4 per cent in groceries to 39 per cent in dry goods.

"A gain of 30 per cent for September over August in department store trade represented the second consecutive monthly increase."

Duty to Withhold Merger Information, Defense Says

Youngstown, O., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Cyrus S. Eaton and his associates who opposed the Youngstown Sheet and Tube-Bethlehem Steel merger were accused today by defense Attorney Frederick H. Wood of adopting an attitude of "unalterable opposition," justifying the suspicion that they would have distorted the information on which the merger was based had it been turned over to them.

Wood charged that Eaton's opposition committee and its auditing firm, Ernst & Ernst, sought the figures used in the merger negotiations only for the purpose of misrepresenting them to the stockholders in the hope of defeating the deal.

Wood told Judge David G. Jenkins, who is trying the suit of the Eaton interests for an injunction, that the opposition group was not entitled to the figures and that it was the duty of the Youngstown directors to withhold the information by reason of the opponents' conduct in the proxy campaign.

Assuming that all Youngstown officials had been willing to accede to Eaton's demands, the merger computations, as prepared by Price, Waterhouse & Co., auditors, could not have been turned over to the Cleveland financier's group because they were in Bethlehem's hands, the attorney argued.

Not a Definite Report.

"The figures did not constitute a definite report and without the proper explanation they would have been misleading," he said. "They did not contain all of the information on which the merger was based. Two offers were made to the opposition committee, giving them access to the figures on the assurance that they would be examined by disinterested accountants. Both were refused.

"The qualified denial rests upon Bethlehem's doorstep and cannot be made the predicate of a charge of fraud against the directors of Youngstown."

The Bethlehem attorney sought to lay the groundwork of his contention by a review of the methods adopted by the anti-merger group from the outset of the proxy battle which preceded the April 8 stockholders' meeting.

Two members of the opposition committee, Philip Schaff and W. H. Foster, were Youngstown stockholders only by virtue of transfer of shares to them by Otis & Co., Cleveland brokers, in which Eaton is a partner, he said. The stock and the accumulated dividends were turned back to Otis & Co. "after the war was over," Wood said.

Finds It Hard to Believe.

"On March 7 Schaff wrote a letter to James A. Campbell, Youngstown chairman, congratulating him on the bargain he had made," the attorney said. "It taxes credulity to believe Eaton's testimony that Schaff approached him with the original suggestion that the opposition committee be formed."

After asserting that but one member of the committee, Hugh Wick, was a stockholder of record when it was formed, Wood began reading circulars and letters sent out to stockholders by the opposing group. The first one, he said, was sent out March 14, two days after Youngstown directors recommended the sale, and contained the words "as holders of substantial blocks of the common stock of the company," etc.

"Their campaign began with misrepresentation by that statement," Wood said.

Next he read a letter to stockholders from the committee's law firm stating that if they did not vote their shares for the merger they could demand cash instead of Bethlehem stock should the deal be consummated.

"That was the most sinister sort of deception," Wood said. "So far as it goes it is a correct statement of the law, but it is only half of a statement. It did not point out that failure to vote at all amounted to a vote against and that if a sufficient number of favorable votes were not obtained the merger might be defeated."

The largest volume of construction projects for any similar period since the spring of 1929 has come to the eastern offices of large contractor builders for estimates and figuring during the past three weeks Lou R. Crandall, president of George A. Fuller & Co., a subsidiary of U. S. Realty and Improvement company, states.

R. C. A.-Victor plants at Camden, N. J., are reported producing 8,700 radio sets daily, of which about 300 are for export. Plants at present are employing 25,800 persons and it was said there has been no indication of a let down in demand from dealers and distributors.

Youngstown reports state that Youngstown sheet mills are increasing production this week.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad is arranging for 75,000 tons of steel rail for 1931 delivery to cost about $4,800,000.

STANDARD OF N. J., PURE OIL CO. TO LINK PIPE LINES

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Pure Oil company are completing arrangements for operating pipe lines and certain producing properties on a joint basis, the New Jersey company announced today.

Negotiations are being completed in connection with the new Ajax pipe line from the Glenn pool district in Oklahoma to Wood River, Ill. They will result in the linking up of one of the most extensive oil pipe line systems in the country, the announcement said.

The deal involves the trading of a part of the Jersey company's mid-continent crude production for a portion of the oil from the new flush Van Zandt field in Texas, in which Pure Oil is the largest producer. The Ajax line, controlled by the New Jersey company, has been under construction this summer and fall.

Ownership in the Ajax Pipe Line company, which is building the line, will be participated in by both the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Pure Oil company. The announcement goes on to say:

"From Wood River, the destination of the ten inch line now being built, arrangements have been made with the Illinois Pipe Line company and other eastern carriers to move the crude oil on to its destination in Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, and Canada. This will give the Pure Oil refineries near Charleston, W. Va., and Newark, O., connections with the company's production in the midcontinent field. Connections will also be made with the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey refineries at Parkersburg, W. Va., and other points."

U. S. TREASURY SHOWS $148,286,721 DECLINE IN 1930 INCOME TAX

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Less income by individuals was indicated today by the internal revenue bureau as the major cause of a decrease of $148,286,721 in income tax collected during the first nine months of the 1930 calendar year as compared with the same period of the previous year.

Total collections for the nine months of 1930 were $1,779,382,127, as compared with $1,927,668,848 the year before. Individual taxes dropped from $971,328,259 in the first nine months of 1929 to $838,355,855 this year, while corporation taxes decreased $15,314,318 from $956,340,589 in 1929 to $941,026,271 in 1930.

Out of the 72 collection districts of the country only 12 showed an increase in total income tax collected, while 60 showed decreases. Sixty-seven of the 72 districts showed the effect of the decreased individual income while 46 of the districts showed decreases in the corporation collections.

New York state paid the largest income tax with a total of $605,012,119, a decrease of $48,800,000, as compared with the nine months of the previous year. The state paid $276,083,626 in corporation tax and $328,928,493 in individual tax, a decrease of approximately $4,280,000 in the former and of $44,500,000 in the indivdual bracket. North Dakota paid the smallest total tax with $343,155, a decrease of $170,203, as compared to the previous year.

Illinois paid $164,553,883; Indiana, $17,060,747; Iowa, $8,860,172; Michigan, $90,144,925; Minnesota, $20,131,643; Missouri, $37,625,531; Ohio, $95,381,599; and Wisconsin, $25,277,188.

Net earnings of the parent company in the full year 1929 were $1,632,576, or $9.60 a share on the stock.

For the nine months to Sept. 30 last net earnings of the parent company were $1,330,610, or $7.83 a share, against $1,225,509, or $7.21 a share, earned in the first nine months of 1929.

Draw Battle Lines Over Regulation of Utilities

BY SCRUTATOR.

Utterances of public utility executives themselves prove that the difficult questions about who shall operate our utilities in future have not been settled. They go to show, moreover, a real and ever-present fear that a new era of demands for more intense regulation and, in the extreme, for government operation are expected.

The battle lines are drawn now on whether regulation of the great corporations that supply our electricity and gas, in particular, shall continue with the states as the largest regulating bodies or whether the government shall take over this function. The utility men are frankly arguing that state regulation is best, that it has accomplished its purposes and that extensions to a country-wide scale would be disadvantageous.

Would Avoid Government Bureau.

They wish to avoid having a Washington bureau with power over the widespread holding companies, comparable to that wielded by the interstate commerce commission over the railroads. Whatever the arguments, the utility man's idea is that he should be subject only to state regulation of his service and his rates and that the financial and enterprising aspects of his industry should be left with no more "safeguards for the public" than now exist.

With clear thinking auditors or readers it is clearly demonstrable that there is no urgent need for complete federal regulation. It probably is demonstrable that in the last three decades the enterprise that produced the expanding utility business has been of far more value to the American people than any regulation, which would have lessened this enterprise materially, ever could have been.

Growth Is Enormous.

There is something almost astounding in the growth that has come in electricity alone. In 1907 the United States generated less than six billion kilowatt hours, the industry had less than two million customers and less than 7,500,000 persons lived in premises wired for electricity. Last year nearly ninety-three billion kilowatt hours were generated, customers were barely under thirty-four million and the number of persons wired for exceeded eighty-five million.

Some huge industries get nearly all their power requirements from electricity. William J. Hagenah, vice president and counsel for the Byllesby interests, has found that 95.7 per cent of the power used in making machinery is electrical; in the automotive trade, 95.1 per cent; in rubber products, 91.7 per cent, and in non-ferrous metals, 89.6 per cent.

While such business was being built up, large fortunes were made in the electric utility industry. The pioneers who were successful took the rewards for starting the industry. They did this with the holding company setup, which permitted economies of supervision and at the same time allowed the concentration of large income returns and of control in common stocks.

Might Limit Risks.

It is useless to talk of persuading men of ability to promote enterprises like electricity, competitive with other power, and to take the risks if their hope of return is limited to a small per cent. What they have taken for themselves in electricity is small compared to the returns they have made their customers. The latter, as Matthew S. Sloan of the New York Edison company remarked, don't believe they are in the grip of a monster.

Overregulation might bring the electric industry to the plight of the railroads, losing ground slowly and helpless to help themselves. The carriers have dug themselves in and are begging for a chance to live, when as free agents they probably would have been busy consolidating other forms of transportation with theirs to a greater extent, making money and giving better service.

DETROIT HOLDS MEETING OF REAL ESTATE BOARDS

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 27.—Business conditions in Detroit and throughout the nation today were subjected to the scrutiny of nearly 100 representatives of railroads, public utility corporations, chambers of commerce, and real estate boards gathered for the annual fall meeting of the industrial property division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Virgil Jordan, economist for the McGraw-Hill corporation of New York, said he had noted a change in conditions during the last few weeks, which he believed presaged a general business revival. He cited an improvement in the textile industry and in residence building.

C. E. Ward, industrial commissioner for the Erie Railroad company of New York, advocated the installment plan of payment for industrial sites as a means of aiding manufacturers. He said the financial institutions of the future will do for great industries what they have done for small consumers by making available the plants they need on easy terms.

Walter S. Darden, a Detroit realtor, told the meeting one of the basic reasons for Detroit's development "was its original and continuing opposition to labor unions," which, he said, "has done more to make the city great than the automobile business."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 27.—The stock market took another dose of bad news standing up today. Closing prices were higher, with a majority of the leaders on the upside and the more important losses largely confined to less important issues.

And the best part of it is that the finals with few exceptions were the highest prices of the day—thanks to a rather smart little rally which developed in the closing hour under the leadership of United States Steel, American Can, Westinghouse and a group of other big time industrials.

An early tendency toward high prices had been somewhat smothered by announcement of another brokerage house failure and by a fresh budget of poor railroad earnings reports for September—among other items. Not that any of these developments caused any big rush to sell, sales in fact came in mere driblets, but there were enough of them to erase the early gains and point the list definitely toward lower levels. This state of affairs held until the middle of the afternoon or later, many stocks drifting 1 to 4 or 5 points lower. Then came the central bracing up, a little liveller clock to the trading and the finish with all hands coming strong.

Trading Slows Up.

Taken as a whole, however, the session was a painfully dull affair, the total transactions amounting to only about 1,812,000 shares. Traders of

When Jim Smith, factory hand, produced four units per day by the sweat of his brow, production costs were largely a matter of Jim's wages. Today, Jim Smith, machine operator, produces 400 units per day. Accounting for the cost of Jim's machine is now more important than accounting for Jim. American Appraisal Service supplies the basic information with which to account for Jim's machine.

CUMULATIVE TRUST SHARES are certificates of ownership in a fixed group of leading common stocks deposited with The Bank of America, N. A. under a carefully drawn trust agreement. This fixed group of stocks is held in trust by the trustee for the benefit of holders of CUMULATIVE TRUST SHARES.

An investment of $500 minimum, or more, represents a participation in the composite potentialities of the leading companies in 14 industries. The holder knows exactly what securities underlie his certificates at all times and that no discretionary substitutions may be made in this group of stocks.

An investment of $10.35, the average price of these shares in 1921, if then available, would have appreciated to $59.71, the average price for the first six months of 1930, or to 576% of the original investment. Cash income during the period would have averaged 10.99% annually on the initial investment.

Each CUMULATIVE TRUST SHARE is a certificate of ownership in the above fixed group of common stocks trusteed with THE BANK OF AMERICA, N. A., New York.

WHEAT PRICES SLIP OFF NEAR TRADING CLOSE

Corn Is Strong, Finishing ⅜ to ⅝c Higher.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat prices held within a range of around 1c the greater part of yesterday, but toward the last there was fairly general local and commission house selling which disclosed a lack of aggressive support. The finish was about the low point, with net losses of ⅛@⅞c. Old December closed at 78@78⅛c; March at 82@82⅛c; May, 83⅜@83½c, and July, 84¼c. The aggregate trade was not large and the market easily influenced. Houses with eastern connections were fair sellers early.

Reports of rust in northern Argentine had some effect on the Liverpool wheat market, which advanced 1⅝d and closed at the best figures of the day, and led to some buying in Chicago and Winnipeg. The latter, however, weakened sharply toward the last and closed ⅝@⅞c lower, a break in October barley which carried the price down to 25½c per bu of 48 lbs, and within a fraction of the basis the pool is paying for the best grade of barley delivered at Fort William being a factor.

Await Rust Reports.

Weather conditions in Argentine of late have been rather favorable for the development of rust, and Buenos Aires houses have sent experts into the area reported as infected in an effort to discover whether there will be material damage or not. Buenos Aires futures closed 1⅛@2c higher, with February wheat 71c, while Rosario was up 2⅛@2⅜c for the day. Further rains were reported in Argentine during the day.

News developments seem to have little influence on the wheat market, and the latter is dominated largely by the action of speculators. A decrease of 2,163,000 bu in the domestic visible supply led to a little buying as the total was cut down to 199,880,000 bu, against 192,976,000 bu last year. Export demand was slow, with sales of 300,000 to 400,000 bu in all positions.

Europe is steadily building up its tariff walls in an effort to exclude wheat from other countries. Germany lifted the duty on wheat 42c and it is now about $1.62 per bu. Farmers in that country are clamoring for further protection, petitioning the government to have mills grind 100 per cent of native wheat, which would completely exclude foreign grain. American farmers are deriving considerable protection at present from the tariff not only on wheat, but also on other grains, as December corn in Argentine at the close yesterday was quoted at only 42c, or 36c per bu under Chicago December.

A decrease of only 4 per cent in the winter wheat acreage as compared with last year's seeded area is suggested in reports to Nat C. Murray, the Clement, Curtis & Co. statistician. This was a decided surprise to the trade, as the recent government report on farmers' intentions to plant suggested a reduction of 4.5 per cent. The drought area has increased its acreage, however, owing to the favorable weather conditions prevailing the last few weeks.

Corn in Strong Close.

Corn was strong a good part of the day, and while the buying was mainly of a local character, the close was ⅜@⅝c higher, with old December 77⅛@78c; March, 79¼c; May, 82@82¼c, and July, 83c. Nat C. Murray was out with a report suggesting a crop of 2,006,000,000 bu based on husking returns. This was 41,000,000 bu less than the government October estimate. This, with the unfavorable weather for field work, combined with the generally disappointing character of the husking returns, had some effect on sentiment.

A decrease of 220,000 bu in the visible supply of corn in the face of the larger movement of the last week attracted some attention from the trade. Total stocks are 4,392,000 bu, against 3,643,000 bu last year.

Commission houses were fair buyers of oats, but trade was not large and the market weakened toward the last in sympathy with wheat. It closed unchanged to ¼c lower. December finished at 36⅝c; March, 38¼c, and May, 39¼c.

Rye showed a firm undertone, although trade was not large. Final trades were unchanged to ¼c higher, with December 48⅞c and May 54c. Winnipeg December closed at 37½c, and the discount of the Canadian grain is a factor in preventing any material advance in American markets.

HOUSTON GRAIN SHIPMENTS.

For the first three months of the 1930-'31 grain season grain shipments from Houston amounted to 2,834,677 bushels, a gain of 757,090 bushels over the corresponding period last season.

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

Foreigners continue to show no anxiety regarding future supplies of cash wheat and no sales of North American grain of consequence were reported during the day, the aggregate being 300,000 to 400,000 bu Manitobas. World's shipments, however, were liberal and in excess of the average weekly needs of importers.

COTTON MARKET STRONGER

Cotton trading, although not so active, had a stronger tone yesterday with sufficient buying to absorb the hedging and profit taking sales and close the market 12 to 21 points higher on futures in Chicago and 7 to 20 points up in other markets. Liverpool opened higher, but closed 3 points lower with spot sales 3,000 bales.

Cotton picking was delayed during the week by frequent showers in the western portion of the belt. Exports since Aug. 1 aggregate 2,002,022 bales compared with 1,355,656 bales last year.

Spots were 10 to 15 cents higher, with New York 11.25c, New Orleans 10.90c, Galveston 11c, and Houston 10.85c. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Replying to an inquiry for an opinion on the wheat market, a leading trader said, "I see nothing in the market until after the December liquidations is over, which will be around the 1st of December." There were numerous traders yesterday who expressed the belief that liquidation by December longs had already started, and unless there is something more bullish in the news and an increase in the buying lower prices are regarded as imminent.

Local corn bulls apparently have control of the pit and they take the bulk of the offerings on the breaks and unload them on bulges. Opinions as to the probable estimates for the crop by private reports next week suggest around 2,000,000,000 bu, although a few claim that the figures will be slightly above that level, while others think they will be considerably below.

Broomhall reported good general rains in the Argentine, which will no doubt prove beneficial, and says that too much moisture might result in damage from rust, provided temperatures remain high. The spring there was later than usual this year and at present moisture and foggy weather is very prevalent.

LARD TRADE LIGHT

A limited trade was on in lard futures yesterday and they closed at 2½c to 5c lower on the active months and 7½c lower on October. Liverpool was unchanged to 9d higher, the latter on December, while cash lard was up 6d. Export clearances for the week were disappointing, 7,024,000 lbs against 11,601,000 lbs last year. REST-O-LITE BUYS CHICAGO FACTORY SITE

BY AL CHASE.

Purchase yesterday by the Prest-O-Lite Company, Inc., a subsidiary of the Carbide and Carbon corporation, of a seven acre factory site in the Chicago industrial district as the location of another large manufacturing plant. The property just purchased from the trustees of the Fowler district is at the intersection of Kirlen avenue and West 66th street extended.

Details of the size of the new plant and its cost are not yet available. It is stated, however, that work probably would start next spring. It is understood that erection of a Chicago plant will not affect the operations of the company's establishment at Indianapolis, Ind., not many miles to the southeast. Hodge, Nicolson & Powers brokers in yesterday's purchase. Cooke, Sullivan & Ricks were lessors.

Sinclair Leases Corners.

A tale of Chicago corners, two on the south side and one on the north side was leased yesterday by the Sinclair Refining company for gas and oil stations. The most strategic of the three, at the northeast corner of 63rd street and Kenwood avenue, close to the I. C. 67th street station, was leased from the Oakwoods Cemetery association for ten years, beginning April 16, at a rental of $200 per month. The lessee has an option to extend the lease for five years longer at $250 a month.

The property, which is 110x100, has been under lease to E. C. Diedrich for a gas and oil station. Mr. Diedrich leased it from the cemetery July 16, 1929, for twenty years, but having Aug. 1, 1929. This lease was later canceled by the cemetery association.

The Sinclair Refining company also leased the southeast corner of 95th street and Winston avenue, in the Beverly Hills district, from James Moran for ten years at a rental of $300 per month for the first three years, $325 for the next three and $350 monthly for the last four years. The lessees have an option to buy the 120x165 site at any time during the first three years for $55,000; during the next three for $60,000 and for $65,000 during the last four years. A new gas station has just been erected.

The third site leased by Sinclair is on the southwest corner of Ashland and Waveland avenues, 50x108. A rental of $215 per month will be paid to Louis D. Levit during the first five years and $235 a month for the next five years. The lessee has an option to buy at any time during the succeeding three years for $35,000. The lease starts when the premises are ready for occupancy.

Harry Isaac Lucas has leased approximately 1,800 square feet of second floor space in the Michigan-Walton building, at 936 North Michigan avenue, for a five year term at a rental gross rental of $10,000, and will operate a silk lamp shade studio. M. Polkey of McMenemy & Marx was broker.

National Cash Register.

I own a few shares of National Cash Register, Dayton, O., paying $3. Am thinking of buying 15 or 20 more shares at the present price. Can you give me any information as to whether the business is keeping up to the average?—C. R. T.

The general industrial recession this year has resulted in slackened demand for products of National Cash Register company and as a result earnings have declined greatly from the record set in 1929.

Profits this year have been suffering also from the expense of the introduction of new models, which in the nine months ended June 30 was placed at $750,000. In order to offset this extraordinary expense an equal amount was pruned from factory overhead. This company is the world's largest manufacturer of cash registers. It is felt acutely the world-wide business and political unsettlement. More than half of its output goes overseas. For the six months ended June 30, 1930, net profit was $1,685,705, which was equal to $1.42 per share on 1,190,-000 shares of $3 dividend class A stock. This compares with net profit of $3,448,670 or $3.70 per class A share in the first half of 1929. For the full year ended Dec. 31, 1929, net profit was $8,339,640, or $7.01 per class A share, against $7,817,572 in 1928. In addition to the class A shares there are outstanding 400,000 no par class B shares, all of which are owned by officers and employes. The company's financial condition is strong. In August, 1930, current assets were more than $29,000,000 and current liabilities were about $5,400,-000, a ratio of nearly 5½ to 1, leaving working capital of $23,600,000. Bank loans had been reduced to $1,400,000. The company expects to be free of bank obligations by the end of the year.

Rights.

I am the owner of five shares of stock in a company which I am informed is soon to issue rights to old stockholders to purchase additional stock in the ratio of one new share for each ten held. Would such an issue exclude me from purchasing another share from the company (since I own only five shares) or would I be given the right to purchase as though I had the full ten shares?—F. J. E.

If you wish to exercise your five rights to purchase another share of stock you must purchase five additional rights.

If the stock you mention has an active market your banker or broker can obtain the rights for you. Or you may sell your own rights at the market price if you do not care to add to your holdings in this particular stock.

The hog market yesterday weakened as the day progressed, light weights closing as much as 25c under the best selling on last Friday's trade. The extreme top at $9.75 was 10c above Saturday's peak, due to the better quality available yesterday, but showed 15c loss since last Friday. The general average moved down 5c@ $9.25, comparing with $9.35 last Friday.

Activity was lacking practically all day, but when larger packers were able to operate at 15@25c reduction in mid-session and later there was a good clearance at the full decline. Only 3,000 pen holders and inferior classes remained at the close. Outsiders bought only 7,000, against 11,000 the previous Monday.

October Hogs at $9.50.

Mediums for this month's delivery sold at $9.50 on the hog futures market yesterday, within 25c of the highest paid for similar contracts since October has been traded in. Buying of other contracts continued slow at steady prices, January light going at $8.75 and mediums at $8.85.

On the "to arrive" market, hogs averaging 210@260 lbs for today's delivery were bid $9.30 and 260@310 lb averages were bid $9.50, but no offers were made. December light and mediums were offered at $8.80@8.85 and bids were up to $8.70 at the close. November light were offered at $9.25.

In spite of the fact that cattle receipts yesterday at 27,000 were among the largest of the year, prime steers held a firm position on the market and top sales at $13.50 equaled the highest since early last June. Yearlings reached the peak price, while 1,262 lb steers sold up to $12.40, and 1,382 lb averages brought $12.35. Numerous loads of 1,000 lb yearlings brought $13.00 and above, one string of 132 averaging 1,023 lbs, selling at $13.25.

A range of $11.25@12.00 bought many loads of 1,300@1,500 lb weighty beeves of high finish. Most common to medium grades of cattle sold at weak to 25c lower prices. Butcher stock sold slowly at mostly 25c decline. Calves were slow and weak to lower. Stockers and feeders held steady.

Sheep Receipts Drop Off.

Sheep receipts dropped off abruptly at Chicago yesterday and declines in the lamb market were checked. Most good to choice ewe and wether natives sold at $7.50@7.75 and upwards to $8.00 was paid by city butchers and shippers for best selections. Most buck lambs sold at $6.50@$6.75.

Aged sheep were firm, with light ewes at $3.75, while yearlings showed little change. There was a fair demand for feeding lambs around the $7.00 line. Liberal supplies at other points blocked efforts of local salesmen to force quotations to a higher level.

St. Paul reported 57,000 head on the market, a new record for that point. The record at Chicago for one day stands at 71,792 on October 16, 1911.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 9,000 cattle, 27,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep, against 8,175 cattle, 21,878 hogs, and 20,459 sheep on the previous Tuesday and 8,235 cattle, 27,795 hogs, and 13,181 sheep a year ago.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The raw sugar market was firmer today, due primarily to the decree issued by President Machado prohibiting the exports of sugar from Cuba until the segregation of the 1,500,000 tons as provided for in the plan of the committee for the stabilization of sugar has been completed. Prices advanced about 3-32 of a cent for spots. Futures made net gains of 7@9 points. Approximate sales, 54,000 tons. Prices follow:

REPLICA OF R-101 MUTE "WITNESS" IN BRITISH PROBE

Airship Disaster Inquiry Opens Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 27.—In a hall shrouded in black, the inquiry into the R-101 airship disaster will open in the Institute of Civil Engineers tomorrow with a 15 foot model of the dirigible hanging near the witness chair for demonstration of the events leading up to the catastrophe.

The court of inquiry will be in charge of Sir John Simon, who headed the Simon commission on India, Lieut. Col. John Theodore Cuthberg Moore-Brabazon, one of the earliest British flyers and aviation authority, and Charles Edward Inglis, professor of mechanism and applied arts at Cambridge.

Will Call 60 Witnesses.

About 60 witnesses will be called. The court will endeavor to learn the causes of the disaster in which 48 men lost their lives. Results of the probe will possibly determine the future British air policy. It is expected the hearing will last three weeks. Some of the witnesses will come from Beauvais, France, where the world's greatest dirigible was wrecked and burned early on the morning of Oct. 4.

The air ministry has announced that the hearings will be wide open, and it is probable that ugly rumors which have been floating around England will be cleared up. One of the rumors is that the ship was in danger of collapsing before it reached the channel. Another is that test flights were not wholly satisfactory. Why the ship was sent off on the voyage to India in a storm is still another question expected to be settled.

A replica of the R-101 was brought into the hall today and suspended on pulleys from two masts, enabling a repetition of all maneuvers of the flight. The most expert witnesses available have been summoned. Chief among them is Commander Hugo Eckener, designer and master of the Graf Zeppelin, and Sir Charles Dennistoun Burney, designer of the R-100.

Chairs Draped in Black.

The chairs of the court, counsel, witnesses and press will be draped in black. The hall ordinarily seats 1,000, but there will be room for only 200 visitors because of the large number of witnesses and newspaper men to be admitted.

The opening address of the inquiry will be delivered by Sir William Allen Jowitt, attorney general. He will review the details of construction of the giant air vessel, the preparations for the trip, which was undertaken only after the R-100 had completed a Canadian flight, and the evidence turned up by the inquiry at Beauvais.

The court has been given the power to compel attendance of witnesses, and an open invitation has been issued to any one able to throw light on the crash. The testimony will be heard through microphones and loud speakers.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: A Delicate Problem

EDITOR'S WIFE GIVEN DIVORCE IN RENO COURT

Says Merle Crowell Was Cruel.

Reno, Nev., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Crowell was granted a divorce here today from Merle Crowell, former editor of the American magazine, on grounds of cruelty. They were married at Benton, N. H., in 1920, and have two children, custody of whom was given to Mrs. Crowell. An agreement made out of court provides for their maintenance.

Mrs. Crowell charged her husband with nagging and fault finding, and said he scolded constantly over trivial matters. Many times he told her, she said, that he did not love her and was sorry he had ever married her. He grew cold and distant as time passed, she said, and finally abandoned her in May of this year.

Wedding Follows Divorce.

Bernard H. Ridder, publisher of the New York Staats Zeitung and other newspapers, was married to Mrs. Helen B. Shearer, Boston poetess, here today shortly after each of them obtained a divorce.

Ridder was granted a divorce by default from Nell Ridder on grounds of mental cruelty. They were married in New York in 1916 and there are three children.

Divorces British Officer.

Mrs. Mary Thomas Kirkpatrick, former New York social leader, was granted a divorce here today from Maj. Colin Drummond Kirkpatrick, British army officer, on grounds of cruelty.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick said her husband chose a home in Wales and devoted so much time to his rod and reel that she had no social life whatever. She alleged the major was selfish, sullen and morose and that when she had her mother come to visit her the latter was a most unwelcome guest.

Custody of two minor children was awarded to Mrs. Kirkpatrick. The couple were married at Long Island, N. Y., July 15, 1925.

Banker's Wife in Reno.

Mrs. Adelaide McAlpin Hambleton, wife of T. Edward Hambleton, New York and Baltimore banker, has come to Reno for a three months' stay.

When found at a local hotel today she said she could not discuss her visit or admit that she was here for divorce. Her husband is in Europe.

After all, results are what count, and Konjola can be counted on for results. See what Konjola did for Mr. Yeager; then decide what you will do about Konjola.

"I was sick for eight years with stomach trouble. I tried many medicines; was in three hospitals and had two operations, but nothing did me any good until I tried Konjola. I was unable to work. I took in all 25 bottles of Konjola. That may seem a lot, but I was in a terrible condition. Now I am well again and working six days a week. I never can praise Konjola too much for what it has done for me."

SHE COULDN'T TAKE COD LIVER OIL

Now she takes it in McCoy's TABLETS and wards off colds pleasantly and easily

MRS. G. was like a lot of women in this town. She knew she needed cod liver oil. She knew it would build up her weight and ward off colds and sickness. But every time she took it, it made her sick.

But then Mrs. G. learned of a way to get all the benefits of cod liver oil pleasantly, tastelessly. These benefits come in McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets.

To make these tablets we buy the finest cod liver oil that Norway can produce. From it we extract all the vitamins, all the properties that make cod liver oil such a wonderful health-building food. Then from these vitamins we make the tablets that doctors so widely recommend.

These tablets taken regularly will build up weight and resistance to colds and lung disease. Actual tests prove the value of these wonderful little tablets. The Good Housekeeping Institute has tested them and given us its seal of approval.

Your druggist has McCoy's. Go to him and get a box today. Just remember that for very best results you must take them regularly and faithfully. Today is the day to begin.

SYNOPSIS.

After the wedding they slip away to avoid the reception. Instead of going to Monterey, where their barrage had been shipped, they slip off to Lake Tahoe. King is strangely restless and irritable, and a phone call which Sheila overhears King make reveals to her the reason—he is a drug addict, and because of their changed honeymoon plans is without a supply. Sheila determines to fight for King's regeneration and consults a federal narcotic agent, who suggests a program which if rigidly adhered to would effect a cure.

King had entered his favorite horse, Wind, in the Tia Juana races and intends to ride him himself, so they go to San Diego. The day before the race Sheila overhears her husband and his trainer planning to dope Wind to insure his winning. The day of the race King asks Sheila to place his bets for him on Wind.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

A LOST RACE.

Men and women were yelling, leaping on the benches. "Go it, Wind! Let him out, George! Blow, Wind, blow! What hell, George. Bring him in today, not tomorrow, George! Blow, Wind! Wind! Wind!"

What were they hissing? Sheila looked nervously over her shoulder at the audience. Not hissing. The whistling of the wind they were simulating. They would pause to urge frantically, "Go it, Wind, go!" And then the hissing noise again.

The green blouse and the yellow and black one looked like balloons now. Behind them thundered the roan and the bay with the white face which resembled Chain Lightning—but who looked at or thought of them? Every one had to know if Ben would keep the next curve? He continued to hug the fence. And on they flew. Through the glasses King's face suggested desperation—why, it had never occurred to her that Black Devil could win! Frantically she surveyed the faces about her. Exultation on those whose ire screamed for Black Devil; anger where the urging was for Wind. Wind had fallen behind!

"Any chance he can make it up?" demanded Sheila of any one, of every one. Nobody heard her. Was this what King had meant by "going dead"? More vehement grew the calling. Men and women were scraping their throats crying, "Wake up, Wind. Blow!" Appealing, threatening; the voices growing louder and happier which yelled for the leader: "Keep it, keep it, you Black Devil, you. Run, Ben, run. Good boy, Ben. Let him out. Let him out!"

Black Devil had won.

There, Wind was creeping up; the green blouse was shortening the distance between itself and the black and yellow. But was there time to win or that had been lost? Wind's rooters were shouting themselves hoarse. Suddenly out shot Black Devil, leaving Wind way in the rear. Black Devil was nearing the rope—Black Devil had won!

Sheila sank back, stunned, on her seat. No one spoke to her; she was thankful for that. But she was being pointed out; the lips which a moment ago were screaming were now whispering: "That's the wife of the millionaire jockey." There was sympathy in some of the eyes near her, observing her, because they thought she had lost money. If it had been only money she'd lost!

After a few minutes she went in search of King. From a distance her eye discovered the collapsed balloon. King was staring at a group of men who were shouting at him—imprecations? Men who had lost on Wind or men who had discovered the trick? Slowly she moved towards them.

When King saw her coming, slowly, reluctantly, she surmised, he moved towards her. His eyes could not meet hers. Yes, he had been expecting to repay that borrowed money with Wind's triumph. He thought of her now as one of his creditors.

"Well, why don't you preach?" he growled. "Why don't you say, 'I told you so!' I can stand it. I'd feel better. For I'm sunk, ruined."

"Let's get clear of this crowd. I want to talk with you. I have something to tell you."

She hated to have to tell him what she had done, for it would acknowledge what she knew, had heard. But he would know later. He might betray himself if told by others.

They struck out blindly, miserably, towards the hills, as though the bare ridges in the distance were their goal. She stole a look at the beautiful face, so bitter in defeat. And her task to shame him more.

"King—"

He did not answer or turn towards her.

"King!"

"I heard you. Add your worst now. Let's get it over with.

"The other day, I heard you. I was in the next room when you were talking with Mickey O'Neill."

"And today, O King, you asked me to bet on the horse you had—doped!"

Still silence. The shame on his face made her stammer as though she were the guilty one.

"I couldn't do that, King—knowing. Could I? And so—so," but he had seized her wrist. He was looking at her now.

"What is it you're saying, Sheila?"

"You're hurting my wrists. You frighten me, King. If you rail at me, I shall die. I shall run away. My heart aches. Yes, I did. I bet on Black Devil."

He had wheeled about, turning her in the direction of the paddocks.

"You bet on—Black Devil? You're not lying to comfort me?"

"To comfort you!"

"This is straight goods, Sheila? We didn't lose?"

King's gratitude to Sheila for having placed his bets on his opponent's horse, thus having halved his defeat on the race track, ignored with baffling inconsistency any intention of rebuke or punishment. He was yearning, she knew, to linger where opportunity abounded, but their compact rather than any impulse of expiation held him. Reluctantly but sturdily he parted with the defeated Wind, with Slaughter and Babette; with Mickey O'Neill, Hawley, and the new car; setting forth on what his wife called their belated honeymoon. He had agreed to go wherever she wished; arguments were not in order. Nor did he even remind her of his lack of love for ocean steamers and a complete indifference to the place selected—Alaska.

To her dismay, the sea betrayed her, increasing the discomfort she had hitherto successfully concealed. Impossible she found it to maintain the siren attitude or that of the incomparable companion. Gone, she mourned, was her beauty; bleak, she knew, was the smile which greeted King or wished him adieu. Though his lengthening absences disconcerted her, it was during those hours of loneliness her plan of rescue took shape; when the walls of her stateroom which had threatened at Aqua Caliente to fall were repaired.

Each morning as she gazed at the handsome sleeping head she affirmed resolutely, "That one act of fraud hasn't irrevocably stamped him. Youth is his bright weapon—but who, alas, is helping him use it?" From what she had learned at the two government offices and from the pamphlets and books she had since devoured her work, she knew, had to be both swift and wise as well as dauntless to triumph over deterioration. The trick in the paddocks had proven that.

While their ship lay at the pier in San Francisco, King's prolonged absence would have disconcerted her more but for the opportunity it gave her to receive a certain telegram without his knowledge. It was brought to the steamer by her uncle, John Donohue, with another message—addressed to himself—which requested him to give the first to Sheila when alone. Both were signed Jim Molloy.

Donohue's frown told his niece his belittling interpretation. He could think of her still carrying on with Jim, and her honeymoon still in the crescent stage? Well, let him think it. It would deflect his attention from King, whose weakness Uncle John had thought to be liquor. He was to know nothing more. If Mary George's son were to have his due of a bright career, the fewer who knew his practices the better. To save without humiliating him was the task she'd set herself, and one which would tax both her wits and her fortitude.

From San Francisco to Victoria a high sea continued to hold Sheila in her berth, and forthwith they ran into the storm. Throughout the journey this "dirty weather" persisted. Her two weeks of physical distress made her preparation for her interview with Jim and his opposition. She knew what he would say. But had he ever been able to frustrate her will? His love for her made him weak.

When their ship at last reached Nome, Molloy did not commit the blunder of rushing to the beach to welcome them. He was not to be seen among the crowds when the cable carrier deposited them—"as a dredge spits mud," and Sheila to King, but her forced smile felt weak. She sent a thought of gratitude to Jim for giving her a chance to restore herself. If she were to deserve him she must be what he used to style her—the indomitable Sheila, the superwoman.

Good Morning!

"Old English" will affect a lot of folks the way "Uncle Vanya" affected me. Others will get as I did, a real kick out of this excellent screenization of John Galsworthy's play, in which George Arliss appeared on the stage for three consecutive years before delighted audiences.

While "Old English" moves much more slowly than "Disraeli" and hasn't the universal appeal of the latter, Mr. Arliss' characterization of that grand and grumpy old gentleman, Sylvanus Heythorp, is just as masterly a one as was his portrayal of the oily English statesman.

Before you is an astute old fellow, faced, in his eightieth year, with bankruptcy; with the problem of providing for a daughter-in-law and grandchildren that are his "under the rose"; bossed—not very successfully—by a "holy" daughter, result of his honorable wedlock; blackmailed by a wolfish attorney, who has the low-down on him; guarded by awed employés; loyally served and worried over by household retainers.

The old bones creak; the lungs wheeze; the eyes are rheumy; the feet stumble; the fine old hands tremble. Eighty years old, the body! But you forget the flesh in your engrossed awareness of the workings of a MIND, shrewd, active, satirically observant. The mind is eighty years YOUNG. It sees "Old English" through to a finish that leaves all things well.

The locale of the story is Liverpool; the time—the 20th century. Settings and costumes admirably uphold the "atmosphere" of the period. Direction, photography, and sound are copacetic. [I never said THAT before!] The cast supporting the fascinating Mr. Arliss is splendid—background. ONLY background—against which the central characterization stands out like a rare old cameo.

SHAW COACHES ACTOR ON HOW TO FIGHT IN HIS LATEST MOVIE

Shaw demonstrated this personally today during the filming of his play, "How He Lied to Her Husband." The 74 year old Irish dramatist literally rolled about on the floor with the leading man of the film in an effort to show him how a Shavian fight should be conducted.

Mr. Shaw is taking an active interest in the production of his play as a movie, which is in progress at this town, the Hollywood of England. Some of the rehearsals have been held in his London home.

The film has its climax in a fight between a lady's admirer and her husband, and it was in this scene the dramatist personally took a hand today.

Finds College Women Prefer Social Service

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The more education an advanced American woman gets the more she tends to devote her life to social service instead of making money.

The farther she is from marriage the higher her income—that is, unmarried women earn most, widows and divorcees next, and married ones least.

These findings apply to 14,073 business and professional women, classified as "above the wage earning level," who answered questions of the bureau of business research of the University of Michigan. The answers were compiled by Prof. Margaret Elliott and Grace E. Manson. The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs coöperated in the questionnaires, and three-fourths of those answering were employed in commercial, educational, and manufacturing organizations.

The average income was $1,662 annually and only 6.7 per cent earned $3,000 or more.

"Women who have been graduated from a college or university" says the report, "are earning more in every kind of work than women with less education.

"They tend, however, to concentrate in lower paid fields, such as teaching and clerical work. They do not tend to select occupations where chances of high financial rewards are best.

"Seventy per cent of these college women are in the employ of educational, social or welfare organizations. Why? Is is because college women can afford to overlook questions of earnings? Are the inherent satisfactions of the work itself more important to her than financial returns? May it be that teaching and welfare work seem to college women more socially approved ways of earning a livelihood.

"It would be hazardous indeed to venture any conclusions from this analysis as to relative effectiveness of single and married women workers.

"To what extent the relatively low earnings of married women are due to lack of incentive or divided allegiance to home and job, or to a more limited range in occupational opportunity, it is impossible to say at this time.

"Earnings increase with age up to 50, vary but little betwen 50 and 60, and decline thereafter.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

FRITZ LEIBER and his Shakespeareans began their eight weeks of repertory at the Civic theater last night with "Hamlet," as they did last year. And although I have a healthy appetite for Shakespeare, I can find nothing new to say about them, for this performance was merely last year's table d'hôte dinner, somewhat casually served.

Here is the same rapid fire rendition of the immortal tragedy, telling its story with a spirited pace but missing its stormy sweep of poetry, its dark sublimity of mood and its aching depths of emotion. Here is the same jaunty meagerness of backgrounds that are a careless compromise with the art of modern scene design. Here is the same cast of well routined principals, acting like tired veterans, with the minor rôles in limp young hands. There are changes in the company, it is true, but they do not affect the lineup for "Hamlet" except in the rôle of Ophelia, which is played with shy and evasive modernism by a winsome young woman named Mary Hone.

Mr. Leiber is said to have worked over his acting versions, adding certain passages which are usually omitted; but I didn't hold the book on him last night to discover how much untraditional Hamlet was being read; and my ear caught nothing out of the routine. Perhaps he may be giving us an extra portion of soliloquy, for Hamlet's passionate meditations seemed to be quite frequent until the episode of the court theatricals—"The Mousetrap," by one Gonzago, writ in very choice Italian—solved the problems of his introspection. . . . Speaking of soliloquies, one might suggest that Mr. Leiber overdoes his stance for them. I counted two in the same attitude, as he hovered over a piece of furniture that looks like an early Saxon stand for a rubber plant. Hamlet, it seems to me, was too easy a talker to need a speaker's table for the proper delivery of an oration to himself.

Gertrude Bronson is an adequate queen, but Hart Jenks appears to have the idea that King Claudius, one of the most redoubtable villains in dramatic literature, is merely a bearded gentleman with a slight weakness in his moral nature. But for the costume I should have thought that Mr. Jenks was playing an English remittance man. Laurence H. Cecil is a sound though unromantic Laertes; but John Burke treats the grave and scholarly Horatio as if he were only an amiable alumnus of Wittenberg more interested in football scores than in philosophy.

Tonight these civic Shakespeareans will offer "The Merchant of Venice," and a new leading woman, Ingeborg Torrup, will make her début as Portia.

"The Garrick Gayeties," which is the Theater guild's idea of a revue, began a three weeks' stay at the Blackstone last night. The performance will be reviewed tomorrow.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Even though the night be the first one of a new season of opera, a novelty of the répertoire is a good thing. It adds to the general excitement and good feeling, which is something that a standard and well remembered work, pompous, glittering, resounding though it may be, is hardly able to accomplish.

You enter the opera house half blinded, half dazed by the batteries of flashlights from the cameras that are taking pictures of the celebrities as they dismount from their cars. You cast a recognizing glance about the lobby from which you have been operatically absent these several months. You stroll down the magnificent distances of the Civic Opera house aisles and then the curtains are drawn for a new operatic adventure.

"Lorenzaccio" bears a strong spiritual kinship to "La Cena delle Beffe," which went into the company's répertoire a few seasons ago and then went out again. It takes you back a few centuries to Florence when that city was at its most gorgeous, when through the streets of the lovely place went strange creatures, hardly human persons, who loved beauty and art and the fine things of life with intense passion, and committed every kind of crime and vice with equal ardor and lightheartedness.

One of the strangest was this Lorenzaccio, and it took the great art of Mr. Vanni-Marcoux to make him believable on the stage. The story has been told in some detail before. About all it amounts to is that Lorenzo de Medici shared in the vices and other delights of his cousin, Alessandro, the reigning duke of Florence, until he could win his confidence enough to kill him in the name of good republicanism.

That is all, but it is enough for Mr. Vanni-Marcoux to have developed a character that sticks in the memory for hours afterwards. Through a long succession of some of the loveliest Florentine scenes that were ever put into stage form he goes slinking and flaming, fawning and threatening by turns until the drama is finally worked out to its end.

As one thinks of the work it is not by chance that the drama remains uppermost. For, like a good many works of its kind, "La Cena delle Beffe" among others, the music is the least important element. The score of "Lorenzaccio" serves to emphasize a scene or underline a situation. It seldom leads because of its own power, except possibly in a few, a very few orchestra passages when the dialogue is silent. If you want a play with incidental music, a play with some good lines in it, if you have taken the trouble to read a libretto in advance, this is it.

Nevertheless, Mr. Cooper expertly worked out every musical value that was to be discovered, and played them all through the medium of an expert cast and orchestra. Mr. Hackett, besides doing some first rate singing, was almost as distinctive in his characterization as Mr. Vanni-Marcoux, handicapped only by the fact that the character was less complex.

There were several new members of the company in the cast. One is entitled to believe firmly that Mr. Vie-

Gowns Aid Spectacle

BY MILDRED JAKLON.

The 1930 season of grand opera opened last night with all the traditionally brilliant features of the premiere, except the display of jewels. The gowns worn by the women were as handsome as ever, the ermines and the sable wraps as numerous. Save, however, for an occasional comparatively modest necklace, bracelet or earrings, the erstwhile diamond horseshoe was gemless. The diamond dog collar and the glittering tiara of former openings was merely a reminiscense.

Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick adhered to her previous announced intention to leave in the vault both her famous Queen Catherine of Russia emeralds and the enormous diamond necklace that she wore for the first performance of opera in the new opera house last year, and her only jewelry consisted of a pair of diamond and ruby earrings.

Mrs. Edward Hines, who wore a long necklace of diamonds and carved emeralds and diamond earrings, and Mrs. John F. Jelke Jr., who wore a diamond necklace, were among the few exceptions noted.

Even though the boxes were without their wonted sparkle, the gala atmosphere of the occasion was unimpaired. The colonnade entrance to the opera house was a gay bedlam of excitement as the motors arrived and discharged their groups of passengers goodnaturedly to duck or face the battery of cameramen and flashlights. During the entr'actes, the colorful crowd promenaded through the foyer, and there was much visiting between the box parties.

The current vogue for black and white was apparent in the costuming of the women, with black velvet and white satin the reigning favorites. Whereas a year ago some of the gowns touched the ground, this year's were all trailing, some of them with definite trains. Fabrics tend to be lustrous, but simple in texture and without the vividly colorful patterns that were popular a few years ago. Line and drapery are the most important features of the 1930 evening fashions.

Mrs. Jacob Baur, who had entertained at a large dinner party before the opera, distributed her 18 guests in her own and several other boxes. With her were Gov. and Mrs. Louis Emmerson, the latter in black chiffon and cream lace and wearing a gardenia corsage.

The Samuel Insulls' box party included Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Field, Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, and Mrs. Vanni-Marcoux.

Among the prominent society folk on the main floor were Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, Mrs. Phelps B. Hoyt in gold lamé, her daughter, Mrs. T. Philip Swift, in emerald green and gold metalcloth, Russell Tyson, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sherriff, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Eldred, Mr. and Mrs. George Dunbaugh, Mrs. Otho F. uille, baritone, is going to do some important things before the season closes. And Miss Sharnova, though in a brief scene, confirmed the opinion formed of her when she sang with the German Grand Opera company, that she is a mezzo-soprano of great ability.

And Mr. Dua returned after a number of years' absence, and there were fine scenes by Mr. Baromeo, Mr. Preston, Mme. Claessens, and a number of others. In fact, we were among the best people of Florence.

Staging a piece of this order is about half the battle, and that half was a decisive victory. I have spoken of the succession of fine stage pictures. To these pictures Dr. Echardt added marvels of attractive lighting; in them he deployed his forces of principals and choristers so that they looked like crowds of people and not like an opera company, always preserving the line and mass of good grouping. At times there were distinct traces of acting in small bits among the choristers.

Whether "Lorenzaccio" succeeds or fails in becoming a permanent item in the Civic Opera company's repertoire, it will not fail for the lack of thorough, intelligent preparation.

Predicts World Protest Will Beat New Palestine Policy

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Confidence that the world-wide protest by orthodox Jewry against adoption by the British government of the Passfield policy for Palestine will result in nullification of the scheme was expressed today by Rabbi Saul Silver, president of the Hebrew Theological college of Chicago, in an address to the Misrachi organization of America.

Dr. Silver pointed out nullification of the Balfour treaty, which guaranteed to Jews all over the world Great Britain's support of the colonization of the Holy Land plan, was brought about by the new Passfield scheme recently adopted by England.

Most Rev. F. J. L. Bechman New Dubuque Archbishop

Dubuque, Ia., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The Most Rev. Francis J. L. Bechman was invested with the pallium, symbol of his archepiscopal power, today in solemn ceremonies at St. Raphael cathedral. Dignitaries of the Roman Catholic church from throughout the middle west took part in the impressive formalities that installed him as archbishop of Dubuque. Archbishop Joseph McNicholas of Cincinnati, in whose archdiocese Archbishop Bechman was ordained to the priesthood, bestowed the pallium.

New York's Season Opens with "Aida" as Society Attends

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The Metropolitan Opera house opened its forty-sixth season tonight with a performance of Verdi's "Aida" and a solidly maintained subscription admitted officially to be close to last year's, when the season ran well toward $3,000,000.

The famous opera building reopened to one of its most brilliant throngs and a $20,000 house with prices augmented for the night.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Paget of London were among the guests of Paul D. Cravath, one of the directors of the Metropolitan opera. Mr. Paget who was here for the first time in several years, is one of the twin sons of the late Sir Arthur and Lady Paget of London. His mother, the former Miss Minnie Stevens, was a New York girl.

With Mr. and Mrs. Henry Seligman were Prince Alfred Hohenlohe and Mme. George Pouliess, whose husband is in the diplomatic service of Bulgaria. Prince and Princess Edmundo Ruspoli of Italy were with Mrs. I. De Ver Warner. With Donald Durant were Baron and Baroness Carl-Gustaf Langenskiold.

Owing to the death on Saturday of Harry Payne Whitney, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt were absent from box 3. Although the Whitney box, No. 30, had been obtained for the opening by Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Garvan, they withdrew out of respect to the family. Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Cushing III., who had arranged a party for box 31, also withdrew. Mrs. Cushing is the former Miss Cathleen Vanderbilt, daughter of the late Reginald Vanderbilt.

NOW! Impart Color to Gray Hair

GRAY hair is a business and social handicap that you can now overcome without taking chances with uncertain methods or fussing with messy, sticky preparations. Now science has discovered a liquid colorless as water itself—yet it actually imparts color to Gray Hair—no matter how gray you are—no matter what the cause of your Gray Hair. It is called Kolor-Bak. It is as easy to use as combing your hair. You simply comb Kolar-Bak into your hair and the Gray goes so naturally that even your friends cannot tell that you are using anything. The beautiful sheen of your hair is left unchanged. Strange as it sounds, the very same bottle of this colorless liquid does for Blonde, Black, Brown or Auburn. Already hundreds of thousands of bottles have been used. So sure are its amazing results that it is sold on a guarantee that if it doesn't make you look 10 years younger your money will be refunded any time you ask.

Corns Lift Out With Fingers—No Pain!

Ice-Mint, as this new preparation is called, is said to shrivel up hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes so that they can be lifted out easily with the fingers. It's wonderful. Think of it, only a touch or two of Ice-Mint and your foot-joy is yours.

There is not one bit of pain or soreness when applying it or afterwards and it doesn't even irritate the skin.

If your feet are inclined to swell or puff, or if you have cracked or bleeding toes, it will draw the inflammation right out and quickly heal the sore and tender places. It is the real Japanese secret of fine, healthy little feet and is greatly appreciated by women who wear high heel shoes and by men who have to stand on their feet all day. Try it. Morning Mouth

Everybody has it... Astring-o-sol corrects it

Morning Air is a splendid tonic—but it can't correct Morning Mouth

Astring-o-sol, however, quickly rids you of that stale, unpleasant taste you wake up with. Just shake a few dashes into a quarter-glass of water. Then gargle the tingling liquid and swish it through your teeth.

You'll be amazed at the change this Astring-o-sol treatment makes. That taste disappears instantly. Your mouth is cooled and refreshed. Your breath is purified. And you feel pepped up and immaculate.

Astring-o-sol's amazing effectiveness as a mouth wash is due to the fact that it penetrates down deep into the tissues, tiny crevices and pockets; exerts a powerful antiseptic and germicidal action that kills the germs embedded there; is absolutely safe to the most delicate tissues; produces a mild astringent action that helps to drive out bacteria; and leaves an antiseptic effect that remains at the sources of infection for hours.

Because Astring-o-sol is a concentrated preparation, it: 1. Does More—you can use it in any strength; 2. Costs Less to Use—a 4-ounce bottle makes 12 full pints of refreshing mouth wash; 3. Tastes Better—you can dilute it to suit your taste; 4. Takes Up Less Space — in your medicine cabinet or traveling bag.

Try a bottle today. Dentists and Doctors use Astring-o-sol and prescribe it to their patients for its superior penetrating power, powerful antiseptic and germicidal activity, effective astringent and cleansing qualities.

FREE!

Chinese Edict About Schools Curbs Missions

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, Oct. 27.—Can American missionary schools and colleges in China legally carry on their work under the regulations announced and now being strictly enforced by the new central governments? This question is being debated by missionaries in China.

It is estimated that Americans have contributed about $500,000,000 for missionary educational work in China. A large part of this money has been put into expensive school buildings, laboratories, and equipment. Every province in the country has one or more fine schools contributed by Americans.

This money was given by its American donors with the distinct understanding, implied or specifically stated, that it should be used to give Christian education to the Chinese. The question is now being asked among missionary educators whether "Christian education" can be given in institutions which are forbidden to give religious courses.

Various Chinese governments are agreed that religious instruction must be omitted altogether from primary and middle (high) schools, and that religious instruction must be entirely voluntary in universities and colleges. This applies equally to government and privately endowed schools.

In most countries, including the United States, privately endowed schools may have compulsory courses in religion without interference from the government. This also is true in Japan. But the Chinese object to compulsory religious courses in any school in their country and have now definitely forbidden such courses.

Complexion Ill May Be Remedied by Diet, Exercise

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A woman writes to tell me of her relief from the embarrassment her red nose continually caused her. A blast of wind, a change of temperature from one room to another, a cup of strong coffee would put her nose into a high color, which the woman thought not at all becoming. In this verdict she was probably offering no exaggeration, for a red nose is not a glorifying feature.

The cure, in this case, was a complete and reformed diet, the red nose sufferer having what she aptly describes as "an old fashioned "appetite, which doted on four course dinners of rich and spicy foods, including condiments and rich sauces. She was an inveterate hot coffee drinker, the hotter the better, for her palate.

Hot, strong tea and coffee were taboo in the physician's recommendation and the breakfast, luncheon, and dinner régime resembled in almost every detail a reducing diet, with fat, sugars, and starches, gravies, condiments, and "trimmings" generally left out. The woman admits she never had to worry about her weight, as she is one of those persons who can eat three-more-than-squares a day without putting on any extras. But the excess and old fashioned dinner plate did put a bloom on her nose, which in beauty analysis is far less an asset than a ten pound crowded look.

Water in place of tea and coffee was drunk between meals, at the end of meals and on arising and before retiring. Digestive difficulties were encountered, also their usual accompaniment, constipation trouble and with the heavy fresh fruit and vegetable leanings and the water drinking, these were cleared up.

The circulation, too, was sluggish, as circulation invariably is with people who love to eat, and the physician's advice included one-half hour's daily exercise. This was divided into a walk on the days the woman could get out and fifteen minutes morning and night of indoor exercise the days she could not.

And a cold shower was on the order slip from the doctor, the brisk rubbing that followed being the circulation mover. Anyway, now the woman can go outdoors on a cold day and not catch a reflection of a nose all out of harmony with modern beauty decorative schemes.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

D. E.: FOR THIN ANKLES MASsage deeply with a fattening cream—equal parts of lanolin, cocoa butter, and olive oil. First apply hot water to open the pores, then rub in as much as the skin will absorb. Do this morning and evening.

K. P.: THE QUESTION OF EXERcise to the business girl is a vital one. Any one sitting for the greater part of the day should get some exercise at noon, and also should plan to take a twenty minute walk in the morning or evening. I have exercises to be done at home, if you find it impossible to plan a walk. Send stamped, addressed envelope for my youth preservers.

WOMAN'S DRESS.

The flat hipline in this charming dress is given greater prominence through the clever handling of the crushed girdle, and a plaited end creates a vertical line that lends height to the wearer. The cascading rever jabot is another point that aids in attaining that slender appearance. Brown Canton crêpe was used for this dress, with the jabot and collar in beige crêpe.

The pattern, 2724, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Why Brag of Virtue When It's Ordinary Quality Nowadays?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Have you ever found that one's virtue could be a fault? Such is the case with me. I am young, fairly good looking, but handicapped by the fact that in my association with boys I hold myself above the common level. Coquetry and superficiality seem to work more wonders, won't you agree? H. ANN."

One's virtue can be a fault if one goes around wearing it on one's sleeve, as is suspected in your case, H. Ann. It can be a grievous fault and a repellant one. Nothing on earth is more tiresome than the smug creature who knows she is above the common level, nothing less loveable than she.

And by what reasoning does one arrive at the conclusion that she is so much above the common level? The fact that a girl refuses to do things she would be ashamed or does not raise her to the lonely heights you believe, H. Ann. There are great hordes of girls on that peak, in case you are unaware of the fact. Virtue is not any rare possession, in spite of what you may have heard. It is quite a common quality in our young women. So if your head is at a Ritz angle on that account you may just as well let it droop a bit right here and now.

What is wrong with you young women with the superiority complex is that you don't know people. You don't know yourself. And your method of judging is handicapped by your lack of knowledge. You are soreheads. Because some other girls whose virtue may be even greater than yours is having a good time you choose to set her popularity down to something that you would not do for boys.

In addition to their fine qualities some girls have the ability to see the good in others and that's what gets them off to a good start with boys. Why any boy should want to choose the company of a girl who feels herself above him is something you might be able to answer were you the boy being high-hatted

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Broken Promise.

"Dear Miss Blake: A fellow in whom I'm interested promised to write but didn't. What can I do?

"JENNIE."

He's Loyal.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl had trouble at home and can't go out with me. It will probably blow over soon, so I think I should stay away from all other girls now. Am I right? C. M."

It is flattering to the girl to know that no one else has taken her place in your affections.

Food Talk.

Pomegranates are one of the oldest of cultivated fruits. Solomon sang of "An orchard of pomegranates" and the Israelites evidently held them in high esteem, for in their long wandering through the wilderness they murmured for "the fruits of Egypt, the fig, the vine and the pomegranate."

The only people here in the United States who seem to appreciate them to the fullest extent are the Spaniards and Mexicans. Some of our natives don't even know what pomegranates look like. This is unfortunate because the pomegranate is an unusual fruit with great culinary possibilities. About the only uses Americans make of the fruit are for decorating fruit stands and banquet tables. They attract attention because of their interesting shape and color.

The exterior appearance of the fruit is not particularly attractive. The interior is much more beautiful. The pulp is made up of hundreds of small sections called arils. When perfectly developed, the arils have a crisp, delicate flesh, sprightly of flavor, almost unrivaled among fruits. The arils have the appearance of segmented masses of red berries each of which encloses a number of white or purplish white seeds. Yellowish opaque membranes called "rags" separate the segments.

The fruit is considered a luxury by those accustomed to it and is often eaten out of the hand by the Mexicans and southern Europeans, who have a knack for opening the fruit. A circular disk is cut from the calyx end, the rind is divided into segments by following the partition walls, the segments forced apart and the arils shelled out. Syrians stew the arils with sugar and a little rose water to prepare a dessert of rare excellence. They also use a similar combination in the preparation of a delicious sherbet.

The fruit also lends itself to the preparation of summer beverages. It is particularly satisfying in hot weather, assuaging thirst to a marked degree. The sirup made from the fruit is the popular grenadine sirup found wherever cordial flavors are sold. [Grenade is the French name for the pomegranate.] Russians make a commercial drink of the fruit called Nasharab. In France the juice is mixed with grape juice to make wine.

Although the seeds have medicinal value, they are not pleasing in flavor. Where the juice is extracted, care should be taken not to crush any of the seeds or the pulp will readily take on an unpleasant taste. The juice may be sterilized in bottles just as is grape juice. It is beautifully colored and does not have a cloying sweetness. It is especially fine in the preparation of punches or fruit drinks and water ices. Jellies and preserves can be made from the pomegranate if lemon or orange rind is added to furnish the pectin. Commercial pectin may be used. Following the directions given the use of grapejuice and pectin will produce good results.

If you haven't tried pomegranates, begin by using the brilliant ruby arils to garnish your grapefruit and orange or fruit salads. Then go farther and extract juice for unusual fruit drinks or gelatin desserts. Undoubtedly you will be pleased with your discovery.

2 pears.

On a bed of lettuce alternate sections of orange, grapefruit, pears and bananas. Cut pears and bananas lengthwise to make uniform sections much like grapefruit and orange. Soak bananas in lemon juice before placing to keep them from turning black. Decorate the top with red pomegranate sections [the natural divisions of the pomegranate pulp]. Serve with French dressing.

MORE SMOKING Allowed

When that stale "brassy" after-taste or a throat tickle begins to mar the pleasure of smoking—try a quick mouth rinse and gargle with GLYCO-Thymoline. In almost an instant its action will give pleasant relief.

"GLYCO" ends "SMOKER'S TASTE" —Keeps the mouth fresh

It refreshes your mouth—gently cleanses the irritated tissues—flushes out tobacco and food particles. Rids your mouth and teeth of clinging mucus to which the "smoky" after-taste adheres. It soothes the "dry" throat membranes that make you cough.

It keeps the voice clear and free from huskiness. It deodorizes, not merely disguises "smoker's" breath. Use GLYCO-Thymoline morning and night, or any time after smoking, it will add to your smoking enjoyment and permit you to smoke more if you wish.

Just say "GLYCO" to your nearest druggist and take a bottle home today. Prescribed by Physicians and Dentists for over thirty years. Keep it handy and use it when you brush your teeth and any time "Unclean Taste" assails.

FOR ANY CHILD

CHILDREN are happy and carefree by nature, so when they cry for no apparent reason any careful mother worries. No one can always guess just what is wrong but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as baby has a fretful spell, is feverish and cross and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes it is constipation. Just keep Castoria handy and give freely for any of the above conditions; relief will follow promptly.

All through babyhood, Castoria is a mother's standby, and wise mothers do not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Just increase the dose of Castoria and keep the youngster's stomach sweet and the bowels in good order.

To be sure of getting genuine Fletcher's Castoria you should look for this signature: Chas. H. Fletcher

PRIZE WINNER SAYS WANT ADS ARE HELPFUL

Here's a mighty nice letter from Mrs. A. W. Finnie, 5941 N. Paulina Street, a recent prize winner in the Interesting Want Ads contest. We think you'll like to read it.

"I received the check for $3, and I want you to know how pleased I am that I was a prize winner. I do not know what are your rules concerning the winning of more than one prize, but I shall continue to send in my comments on the want ads just because I like to do it.

"I find the want ads in the Tribune very interesting and helpful, and never do a bit of work in the morning until I have perused the Tribune from cover to cover.

"I enjoy reading the 'wise cracks' sent in by other readers, and I hope this contest will have a long life."

Thank you, Mrs. Finnie!

Outlines Qualifications For Magazine Men; Wins $3!

Mr. Iva Shorts, 1805 Davis Street, Whiting Ind., is quite expert in giving the qualifications a successful magazine man should have if he would answer this want ad:

MAGAZINE MEN.

We have an excellent exclusive magazine proposition where $60 and better can be made each week. See sales manager, 000 S. Dearborn-st., Room 0000.

He says: Here is a "Cosmopolitan" "Opportunity!" A "Post" for some good "American"; not necessarily a "Country Gentleman," or yet a "Golfer," but one who is at "Liberty," has "Time" to be "Everybody's" friend, can "Digest" a little "College Humor," yet love a "Home Companion," and appreciate "Good Housekeeping" and "Beautiful Homes & Gardens." This is too good to be a "True Story!"

Maybe Harry Heinz Did Design This House?

HOTEL — DESIGNED BY WORLD known cartoonist; 57 rms.; $4,000 gives possession; no other like it. Address K 00, Tribune.

Mrs. James French, 6328 S. Sacramento Avenue, is much concerned over this hotel of "57 Varieties." She says, "You might expect a house designed by a cartoonist to have some unusual features, but is he funning with us in making it just 57 rooms? I suggest that this hotel be called the 'Heinz Hotel.' Their ads read, 'No other like it'."

You win $1, Mrs. French, because we have been wondering what would happen if you rented the pickle room in this hotel, and got into the chili sauce parlor by mistake!

Bear Possibilities

Mr. Zack Procter, 7156 Bennett Avenue, wins the last $1 this week, because he is highly suspicious of this want ad.

TAME YOUNG BEAR—NICE FOR barbecue or gas stat. Address E 000, Tribune.

He says "Hmm, barbecued bear! This might be good. At least it would give the owner a chance to make ends meat, or squeeze out an existence." Well, Zack, if you ever have the pleasure of eating bear paw steaks, you won't be quite so suspicious.

Still we plead for variety! Put on your funny-caps, fans, and dig deep into the Tribune Want Ad Section, no matter what issue, and send in your best Wise Cracks to Interesting Want Ads, Chicago Tribune, 1015 Tribune Tower, Chicago, Let's go!

MISS MOORE

Old Noah Webster says, "Miscellaneous" means mixed, mingled, varied, or of several kinds." But to Miss Moore, "miscellaneous" means something else again. To her it means, the Lost & Found, Musical Instruments, Boats & Yachts, Radios, Printing Equipment, Home Furnishings, Financial, and Stocks & Bonds Columns in the Want Ad Section of the Tribune.

Mixed is right! We would say that Miss Moore has quite a job, but she handles all of these classifications expertly, much to the satisfaction of her customer friends. Whenever you have need to advertise in these classifications, just call Superior 0100 Ad-taker, and ask for Miss Moore.

WANT AD WANDA

At last, Want Ad Wanda finds time to read some of her personal mail! She hoped to answer each letter personally, but that would require several months of her time. She is kept busy thinking up new ways to elude you in the Sunday Tribune Want Ads, but she wants you to know she appreciates all of your letters, and further on in this article, she says so personally.

"Glad to See You Back!"

Most every letter begins some such congratulatory remark as, "I'm glad to see you back again!" And letters usually end thus, "I wish you a long and prosperous life." That pleases Wanda immensely, as do other comments her friends make. Here are some of them:

"I think you are doing the public a favor in educating them to read the Want Ads in the Tribune."—S. R.

"Your game is educational, and furnishes lots of fun and excitement."—A. M. O.

"It takes you and the Tribune to keep its subscribers amused." —H. M.

"Come soon again. It does help to pass time away. Even if I don't win, I get a kick out of it. More power to you!"—E. M. V.

"Really it surprises me to see how many bargains there are in the Tribune Want Ads."—M. M.

Children Like Wanda

Quite a few letters came from the little folks who are as interested in Want Ad Wanda as their elders. Here's a letter from one of them:

"I am 10 years old and go to school in Rogers Park. Every evening when I am finished with my home work, I would try to find the hidden ads. I had lots of fun, because it was like playing a game. Your little friend, M. M. M."

Wanda Gets a Shock!

One letter in the lot gave Wanda a severe shock. She discovered that she has a husband! A letter was received addressed thus, "My Dearest Wanda," and the signature read, "Y ur loving husband, J. T." Wanda says she is NOT married to any man!

Ah! Poetry!

The poets had their fling at Wanda in short poems, long poems, love lyrics and sad laments. Here's a short snappy one for you:

"Hello, Wanda, Howdy do!
Chasing with you is lots of fun,
Here's my solution to Number One!
Hope you think that I've been wise

Wanda Speaks

"Hello, Folks! Bless your hearts, you've made me very happy! Thank you, one and all! I won't forget your friendliness. Want Ad Wanda."

New Riding Hall Planned at Onwentsia

BY THALIA

Work has begun on a new indoor riding arena adjoining the Onwentsia stables. It is hoped the structure, to be one of the largest in the middle west, will be completed by the middle of December. A group of Onwentsia members, headed by John T. Pirie, is financing the building.

The building is to be 100 feet by 300 feet and will accommodate indoor polo, horse shows, athletic events, and other affairs. It is to have a visitors' gallery and a closed passage leading from the stables. Further descriptive detail specifies that "the roof has a clear sweep without supporting pillars, and is of a type of construction original in Germany."

The arena also will be used for exhibiting riding horses in bad weather, for the children's riding classes, and for schooling horses in hunting and jumping classes.

The importance of the names in the list of season boxholders for the Chicago hockey games of the Blackhawks to be played at the Stadium indicates the firmly intrenched popularity of that sport.

The season is to open on Sunday evening, Nov. 16, and there will be 22 home games played during the winter. The boxholders include officers and directors of the team, Frederic McLaughlin, its president; Robert A. Gardner, vice president; Harold E. Foreman, treasurer, and Thorne Donnelley, secretary, as well as Lester and Philip D. Armour, Stuyvesant Peabody, George Richardson, T. Philip Rathbone, Solomon A. Smith, James M. Hutchins, Champ Carry, James Simpson Jr., Stanley Field, Russell Forgan, A. Watson Armour, Ernest Byfield, Kenneth Carpenter, Hathaway Watson, George D. McLaughlin, Jarvis Hunt Jr., Robert Stevenson, and Herbert McLaughlin.

The American Friends of China have announcements out for a lecture by Tsng Kwei of Suchow, China, to be given at 4 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 12, at the Casino. Mr. Tsng's subject is "Chinese Painting," and he will illustrate his talk with eastern slides and a demonstration of painting in the Chinese manner. He is also to show some of his own paintings.

With the opening of the opera season, most of the society folk who have been lingering at their respective summer places during the fall months are moving into town for the winter. The Walter R. Kirks closed "Vallombrosa" yesterday and came in to occupy their apartment at 229 Lake Shore drive, and the Robert G. McGanns have also forsaken their Lake Forest residence on Deerpath, and are in town. Mrs. Edward L. Hasler and her debutante daughter, Miss Conie Hasler, will move in the end of the week to be nearer the center of social activities for the winter months.

The George Alexander McKinlocks have closed their apartment at 936 Lake Shore drive after occupying it for a few weeks since their return from Bar Harbor and have betaken themselves off to be away from Chicago all winter. Mr. McKinlock landed in Italy a few days ago for a stay of several months there, and Mrs. McKinlock has gone to Palm Beach to occupy Casa Alejandro. Mr. McKinlock will join here there shortly after the first of the year.

Miss Emily Larned of the Ambassador East has returned from a trip east, and will preside at the American Opera society luncheon at the Congress hotel on Thursday at 12:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Edwin G. Foreman has returned from a trip of several months in Europe and is again residing at the Drake hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Otis Brown (Dorothy Murison) have taken an apartment at the Churchill for the winter, and will reside there after Nov. 1.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton university, who spent the week-end at the White House, returned this morning to Princeton, N. J. He came to Washington with Mrs. Hoover and her party from the game Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Mattis of Champaign, Ill., have arrived for a visit to their daughter, Miss Julia Mattis, who was hostess for many years of her uncle, the late Senator William R. McKinley of Illinois. Miss Mattis returned a week ago from her summer trip to her Champaign home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Matthews Dick, formerly of Chicago, have purchased the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wardman at 2234 Massachusetts avenue, of which they will take possession the first of November. They are now in New York en route from Newport. There they spent the summer as usual. Mr. and Mrs. Dick last spring sold their home on Woodland drive to Senator James Couzens of Michigan, who will take possession of it in a few days.

The marriage is announced of Mrs. Elizabeth Hatfield of San Francisco to Capt. William A. Bergin, U. S. A. The ceremony was performed in the shrine of the Sacred Heart in Washington on Saturday morning, Oct. 25, at 10 o'clock by the Rev. Father Cunningham. Owing to the recent of the bridegroom's mother only a few relatives were present.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Cass Gilbert are giving a dinner party Nov. 17 in honor of Sir William Llewellyn, K. C. V. C., president of the Royal Academy of Arts, London, who will arrive Nov. 11.

Ruffles Add Gayety to the New Sports Clothes

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—New sports clothes are growing more girlish by the minute. Paris has had enough of unimaginative sports styles that just dressed a girl up like her brother and called it a day. One of the prettiest new ways of producing the new sportive femininity is by ruffled jersey. Yes, really, and the jersey frills and flounces are shaped in the knitting, not just gathered or cut circular.

Suzanne Talbot uses rows of narrow plaited jersey or hand knit frills on her sport frocks in the same material. Jenny makes intriguing trimming by grace of the knitting needle and jersey frills and ruchings are noted in many of the best houses.

Jersey frills add chic and gayety to this novel sports ensemble from Germaine Lecomte. It has a slip-on tunic blouse of wine red and beige striped jersey with a shaped yoke of plain beige jersey edged with a scalloped frill of beige and red jersey ending in front in a little jersey tie. It is edged around the bottom with double flounces of red jersey and draped up to a bow on the left side. The skirt and jacket are of plain wine red jersey. The skirt has a circular panel set in at the left side for fullness. The jacket buttons tightly about the hips. It has a yoke collar of beige and red jersey also edged with tiny ruffles and a knot tie fastens it in front. The three-quarter sleeves finished with a shaped band of the red jersey allow the striped sleeves of the blouse to be seen beneath them.

James Hazen Hyde, Countess Matuschka Engaged to Marry

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Announcement was made here today of the engagement of the Countess Ella Matuschka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin H. Walker of Detroit, and James H. Hyde of New York and Paris. The countess divorced her husband, Manfred Matuska, in 1926.

Home in France.

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—James Hazen Hyde, whose engagement to the Countess Ella Matuschka was announced today in Paris, is fifty-four years old, the son of the late Henry Baldwin Hyde, founder of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States.

Mr. Hyde was graduated from Harvard university in 1898 and has received honorary degrees from Princeton and the University of Rennes, France. From 1895 to 1905 he was vice president of the Equitable Life Assurance society and has served as president of the Alliance Française in this country. He is a grand officer of the Legion of Honor and has made his home in France for several years.

In Paris in 1913 he married the Countess Louis de Gontaut-Biron and was divorced from her five years later.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

While in Pursuit of Duty.

While drinking at a fountain, a young man slowed up his car, and said, "What are you doing tonight?" I laughingly remarked, "I should think you could see that I am quite busy." He explained, "No, I mean after you are off duty."

For a moment I was furious, and then I realized the humor of the situation and remarked, "I am sorry, but I am on duty twenty-four hours a day"—and walked off. Needless to say, I am through wearing a white outfit when taking my son out for his airing. W. J. G.

Give the Children Freedom to Form Their Friendships

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

There is more to be said on the subject written of in yesterday's letter—whether you show your liking for your children's friends. We might call today's article the reverse side of the medal. That is, if you don't especially like some of the children's friends, or don't find them interesting, do you allow that feeling to be reflected in your face or manner?

There are some people who love all children. But there are others who feel toward children as they do toward adults—they find some attractive and congenial, and others not so.

On the whole, if the children enjoy a playmate who doesn't appeal to us at all, I think we should keep that to ourselves. We may wonder, as we do about husbands and wives, "What do you suppose he ever saw in her! Or she in him!" But we should keep our wonderings to ourselves.

We can't help influencing our children by practically everything we say and do, so we have to watch ourselves a little. Where the children's friends are concerned we need to be especially careful.

Let the children form their own likes and dislikes. They are not you. They are, in the first place, independent individuals, and in the second place they are children. What might appeal to you in a child might leave them cold—while what you dislike might be so unessential to them that they wouldn't see it. Their likings are dictated by the needs of their personality—and by their needs as children who live in a different world from ours. Let them like which children they please and as many as possible.

I knew an old lady, interesting and lovable, but with a sharp tongue, about whom her grown children used to tell the most amusing stories. These were concerned with her witty criticisms of almost all her sons' and daughters' friends and "beaux." She could find something to ridicule in the looks or clothes or manner of almost every one. But her wit was devastating—and bad for her family's social life.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An exhibition of recent paintings by Arthur G. Rider and Gerrit V. Sinclair and of portrait sculpture by Alice L. Siems opens this afternoon in the Chicago Galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue.

The sculpture is particularly fine. With the exception of the portrait heads of little children, Mrs. Siems has confined herself to the interpretation of men, chiefly, as measured by this show, men drawn from the university circles of Chicago and Iowa.

Each head is a forceful portrait. So well has she modeled the skull that a phrenologist would take pleasure in passing his sensitive fingers over the differing conformations of bone. Yet the sense of physical structure is not overemphasized. Beyond the fact that these men are of flesh and blood there enters in the quality of their virtues, their intelligence, character and individuality. The artist does not fail them on any point. These portraits stand out, each one alone, complete, able and distinctive substitutes for the men who sat for her.

The paintings come as a letdown after the sculpture. Arthur Rider has apparently loved the length and breadth of California, with a dip into old Mexico, in search of colorful material. His paintings are a bright shorthand of his travels, but they do not impress one as finished work. Even his beloved oxen and boat with a sail in the sun on the Spanish coast falls short of the excellence in craftsmanship which is usually his. There is good painting in the still life—"The Cracked Bottle" and "Zinnias and Poppies"—but the first is almost too crowded an arrangement and the second loses in beauty because of the checkered table cloth. Enough dots are always enough.

Gerrit Sinclair has been in France long enough to have drunk deep of a certain type of toneless, arid modernism, but not long enough to have gotten over the taste. Evidently he still revels in it. Most of his paintings are of scenes in and around Paris and few of them have life enough to break a bubble on a mill pond. Possibly it is enough that they exist as another example of contemporary art. They are, perhaps, self sufficient. The snowy street at night may be expected from this, as may also the "Cafe Terrace" [in which there is humor] and the rather charming group of mother and child.

Jascha Heifetz Here, Talks About Baby; 'One Musician Enough'

It wasn't his two violins valued at $100,000 safe away in their brown leather cases that Jascha Heifetz, famous violinist, preferred talking about yesterday when he arrived on the Corn King limited of the Chicago and North Western railroad. It was about Miss Josepha Heifetz, 7 weeks old, whose mother was Florence Vidor, movie actress, previous to her marriage to Heifetz.

"Josepha's fine," announced her father, proudly. "Yes, I may have lulled her to sleep with the violin, but she's too young to know whether the music was good or bad. No, I don't want her to be a violinist. One musician is enough in a family.

Another artist to visit Chicago yesterday was Frieda Hempel, opera singer, who also was on her way to Wisconsin.

GLEAM OF JEWELS NOTICEABLY ABSENT FROM "DIAMOND HORSESHOE" AS CHICAGO CIVIC OPERA SEASON OPENS. General view of the boxes at last night's performance of "Lorenzaccio," taken after most of their occupants had arrived. In all respects, except the absence of costly gems, the opera opening compared favorably with those of other years. By tacit agreement, however, society women left their most valuable jewels at home, contenting themselves with wearing less pretentious ones. (Story on page 27.)

GALVA HOME FROM WHICH BANKER IS SUPPOSED TO HAVE BEEN KIDNAPED. Earl Yocum's residence in Henry county town. It is believed that he was abducted at the porte cochere at the right when he approached men who sought directions.
